HARRISON SEES DEMOCRATS AT SENATE'S HELM

Both Branches' Leaders Plan Early Framing of Program.

RECIPROCAL TARIFF IS RAINEY'S DEMAND

Senator Lewis Feels Moore May Be Best Timber for 1932 Election.

(Associated Press.)

Party plans for the coming session took clearer outlines yesterday, particularly those of the Democrats—almost in control of Congress.

With the Democrats almost certain to organize the House, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, gave notice that if any vacancies occurred during the session to give his party a plurality in the Senate it would take over the reins there.

Heartened by the trend of recent elections, Democratic leaders in both the House and Senate plan early conferences to frame a legislative program. It will be directed principally to a party policy on taxes and the tariff.

Support for previous Democratic demands for tariff revision was expressed by Representative Rainey (Democrat), Illinois, who said tariffs should be reduced on a reciprocal basis.

New Candidates Predicted.

He also urged a land policy for the Democrats along the lines of the reforestation plan of Gov. Roosevelt, adopted last week by New York State.

This compliment to a man prominently mentioned for the Democratic nomination was balanced, however, by a suggestion from Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, that Roosevelt might step aside.

He said also that the suggestion applied to Owen D. Young and former Gov. Smith of New York, both mentioned as possible nominees.

Lewis added new issues before the conventions would bring new candidates and said Democrats had a presidential possibility in the newly elected Governor Moore of New Jersey.

Democratic control of the House would put the party in command of the powerful ways and means committee, which originates all revenue-raising legislation.

Garner on Way to Capital.

Representative Garner, of Texas, House Democratic leader, is en route to the Capital. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Senate pilot, is expected here shortly.

Senator Harrison, the ranking Democrat on the Senate finance committee; Representative Collier, of Mississippi, the probable chairman of the ways and means committee; Senator Walsh, of Montana, assistant leader, and others will participate in the conferences.

President Hoover has asked and received bipartisan support of the emergency economic program involving revision of the Federal banking system and the one-year moratorium on war debt payments. While he will urge nonpartisan consideration of measures aimed at meeting an economic emergency, there is no indication that any coalition rule will be sought.

This Congress, meeting less than a month hence, will run until the national party conventions of next June and with a presidential campaign ahead the party leaders will be keeping a close eye on making the record for the election drive.

Tariff Veto Certain.

Senator Robinson already has advocated tariff revision at this session. This may be undertaken by the Democrats should they command the House, but there is little likelihood that such action could be made effective over a certain veto by President Hoover.

Tax revision is another troublesome issue. Senator Harrison has declared against any increase in tax rates.

Many of his party colleagues, however, disagree with him. Both parties are confronted with differences in their ranks growing out of House organization problems.

The Republicans have to choose a

Former Anna Case Hurt in Auto Crash

Wife of Clarence Mackay Suffers Cut Hand as Cars Collide.

Jericho, N. Y., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A severely lacerated right hand and possible internal injuries were suffered late today by Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, the former Anna Case, opera star, when her limousine collided with an automobile on a highway about 7 miles from the Mackays' Long Island home.

Mrs. Mackay was cut on the hand when she shielded her face from flying glass. Her chauffeur, Michael Svobaka, was uninjured.

After her hand had been bandaged, Mrs. Mackay complained of pains about the ribs and an X-ray examination was ordered. She first insisted that she be taken home, but her physician, Dr. Benjamin Seaman, would not permit her to do so pending the outcome of an examination at the Nassau County Hospital at Mineola, where she was taken immediately after the accident.

John B. Larner, Civic Leader, Banker, Dies

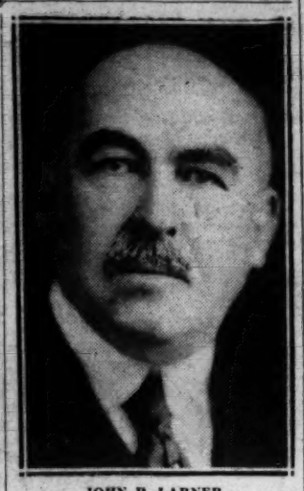
Capital Native Succumbs to Failing Health at Age of 73.



JOHN B. LARNER.

John Bell Larner, president of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., and a leader in educational and philanthropic endeavors, died at 8:35 o'clock last night at his home, 1709 Nineteenth street northwest.

Mr. Larner was 73 years old. He had been in failing health many months. Recently his condition grew critical, following return from his country home at Mifflintown, Pa., and yesterday it was announced he could not live through the night.

Banker, lawyer and business man, Mr. Larner found time for activity in the field of social service, for service on the boards of educational institutions and for participation in civic and religious movements.

He was a native of Washington. Born August 3, 1858, he was educated in the schools of this city, and in 1879 was graduated from Columbian College, now George Washington University, with the degree of bachelor of laws.

The same year he became a member of the bar and seven years later was admitted to practice in the United States Supreme Court.

Specializing in the management of estates and in the law of private corporations, he had a distinguished legal career before assuming presidency of the Washington Loan & Trust Co. in 1917. He was one of the original organizers of the banking institution, in 1889, and served successively as its general counsel and vice president.

LINERS SPEED TO SAVE 11 MEN ADRIFT AT SEA

Sighted by Airways Pilot 80 Miles Off Coast of Colombia.

MAY HAVE SURVIVED SHIP LOST IN STORM

Rescuers Scan Darkened Sea But Without Success; Cocos Trio Lands.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The steamers Costa Rica and Gelsha hurried tonight to the rescue of eleven men reported adrift in a lifeboat and on a life raft in the Caribbean Sea, 80 miles west of Cartagena, Colombia, Tropical Radio Station here was advised.

The steamers reported by radio to Panama City tonight that they had reached the spot and were searching for the men, but thus far without success.

The men were sighted today by a Pan-American Airways pilot, who set about to effect their rescue.

Capt. Frank Ormsbee, the pilot, saw the group in his flight between Cristobal, C. Z., and Barranquilla, Colombia.

He radioed a message to Pan-American's Miami base, stating that ten of the men were in the boat and one on the life raft. He gave their position as approximately 10 degrees, 22 minutes north latitude, 76 degrees, 52 minutes west longitude.

Canal Zone Notified.

The message was transmitted from here to the United States Naval Base in the Canal Zone. Pan-American officials said they believed a boat would be sent from there to rescue the castaways.

Ormsbee's message gave no further details as to the plight of the men but the airways company officials assumed they had taken to the small boat and raft from some ship that sank or had been disabled.

The point where the men were sighted is approximately 150 miles southwest of Barranquilla and 275 miles east northeast of Cristobal.

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—The lights of New Bedford twinkled invitingly tonight to 22 passengers and crew of the storm-wrecked packet Arthur S. James, but quarantine laws forbade them to enter this old whaling port until tomorrow.

Schooner Listing Heavily.

The schooner, listing heavily to starboard, its sails in shreds and its foretopmast gone—graphic evidence of a stormy 55-day passage from the Cape Verde Islands with a human cargo of immigrants—arrived at Butler Flats tonight in tow of the 125-foot Coast Guard cutter Marion. It was to be held there all night pending inspection by immigration officials.

The crippled vessel, former champion of the Boston mackerel fleet, was rescued late yesterday by the Coast Guard destroyer Davis, which found it drifting helplessly in a storm-tossed sea 100 miles south of Marthas Vineyard, its passengers and crew suffering from hunger, thirst and cold after battling a northeast gale for 48 hours. Food thrown aboard was devoured eagerly.

The Davis relinquished its charge to the Marion this afternoon and the cutter made slow progress, about six knots, in towing the dead weight of the schooner toward New Bedford. It had been expected here that the passengers would be allowd to debark at once but Coast Guard authorities at New York wirelessed a reminder of the immigration laws.

Cocos Castaways Return.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Three men came back on the S. S. Virginia today after six months as castaways on lonely Cocos Island.

MACHINE GUNS PUT IN ACTION AT TIENTSIN IN NEW FIGHTING; AMERICA MAY RECALL FORBES

Hoover and Stimson Map Two Major Plans for Meeting Situation.

TENSION STILL HIGH, LOCKHART CABLES

U. S. Considers Sending Final Summons to Japan to Remember Treaty.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson yesterday conferred frequently on the alarming turn of affairs in Manchuria, especially in Tientsin, and evolved two major plans for dealing with the Manchurian situation. The safety of more than 1,000 Americans and considerable American property in Tientsin spurred the necessity of the White House and State Department to invoke decisive action. The following plans were under consideration:

First, the withdrawal of American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes from Tokyo, and second, the preparation of a final summons to the Japanese government of its obligations as a signatory of the Nine Power Treaty to "respect the territorial integrity of China" as well as Japanese obligations as a signatory of the Kellogg-Briand pact.

This note, it is believed, will be couched in more emphatic and decisive language than any of those which have been exchanged as "aide-memoires" between Washington and Tokyo. Dr. Stanley Kuhl Hornbeck, chief of the division of Far Eastern Affairs, is now in the process of drafting it for submission to the Secretary and the President.

Decision Not Yet Made.

The United States has not yet made any decision with regard to its action in recalling Ambassador Forbes. Secretary Stimson declined to discuss the matter and even attaches of the department were equally uncommunicative.

However, the sudden emergence of the vital interest of this Government in the protection of some 600 Americans, men, women and children living in Tientsin, has caused a rapid acceleration of the concern of the department.

The American consul general at Tientsin, Frank P. Lockhart, cabled to the State Department late yesterday, "Much uneasiness seemed to prevail as to possible repercussions." Mr. Lockhart added, "The tension has by no means relaxed."

Plan of Defense.

At the present time there are in the city 598 men, women and children and the full complement of soldiers belonging to the Fifteenth Infantry is about 750 men. These are under command of Col. James D. Taylor and are known to have been mobilized for immediate action in the event the hostilities against the Japanese should spread to the American, British, French or Italian quarters. The various allied soldiers are under their various commands, but hav prepared a "plan of defense" under which they are at present living. This consists in an "allocation of firing stations" along the wall which separates the foreign concessions from the native city.

Rear Admiral Montgomery Meigs Taylor, in charge of the seagoing fleet at Shanghai, has received no orders from the Navy Department, but he is there with American Minister Nelson T. Johnson and the American fleet consisting of one 10,000-ton cruiser, the Houston, and nineteen destroyers of the latest type are anchored in the harbor, standing by to steam for the northern port in case of emergency. The trip would take two or three days.

Stimson Still Hopeful.

The Secretary of State has not yet, however, exhausted hope of securing a return to the status quo through diplomatic means. The proposal for consideration of the Japanese encroachment in Manchuria will come before the league council on November 17, although the seat of the meeting has been almost definitely decided to be in Paris instead of Geneva. The change will be made for the convenience of the chairman of the council, who will be occupied

Newest Developments In Asia's Armed Dispute

Full significance of the virtual state of war existing in Manchuria between China and Japan was forcibly brought home to the United States yesterday when it became known that all available American troops in Tientsin were being mobilized for a "plan of defense" with the other forces of England, France and Italy for the protection of their nationals. Other important developments were:

Gen. Mah Chan-shan issued a manifesto to the Chinese people calling them to war against the Japanese invader.

President Hoover and Secretary Stimson deliberated over possible American moves and reviewed the expediency of indicating "diplomatic displeasure" by withdrawal of American Ambassador Forbes from Tokyo.

Dr. Stanley Hornbeck, chief of the Far Eastern Division of the State Department was commissioned to draft an urgent cable of instructions for Ambassador Forbes which will be presented to the Japanese foreign office under the form of another aid-memoire.

Acts of terrorism in the foreign concessions at Tientsin by Chinese gunmen were reported.

Rear Admiral Montgomery Meigs Taylor is "standing by" with the new 10,000-ton cruiser Houston and nineteen destroyers at Shanghai.

Frank Lee, representing the Chinese foreign minister in Geneva, announced that "Japan was flouting the League of Nations and was trying to overthrow the northern Manchurian government," while Dr. Alfred Sze, the accredited minister, accused Japan of seizing the $2,600,000 belonging to the Bank of China in Changchun.

NAVY LEAGUE CITES WORDS OF COOLIDGE

Quotes Speech in 1928 on Service Needs as Inquiry by Congress Looms.

(Associated Press.)

Still encumbered by a controversy with the White House, the Navy League broke once more into print yesterday, using this time not its own words, but those of Calvin Coolidge.

With Armistice Day approaching, the league distributed to newspapers a pamphlet reprinting in whole the address made by the late President in 1928 on the tenth anniversary of the World War's ending. Paragraph after paragraph of the text, calling attention to the need for considerable naval armament, has been printed in bold type to stand out from the rest.

Publication of the booklet was intended long before President William Howard Gardiner, of the league, brought upon his head the wrath and investigation of the White House by denouncing the Hoover naval policy. Gardiner is expected by his friends to make a reply within two days or so to the report of the Hoover five-man committee which held his attack unsound and full of inaccuracies. It appears certain this will not be an apology but rather a counterattack.

The gathering hosts of Congress brought some more comment to bear during the day on the Gardiner-Hoover incident. Senator George Norris, Republican, was sharp and caustic in talking of the committee picked by the President to answer the league charges. He suggested the method be generally adopted—that defendants pick their own juries.

"I take it for granted," observed the Nebraskan, "that the President would try himself and deny a similar right to other citizens of the United not be willing to appoint a jury to States."

Senator Swanson, Virginia Democrat, and Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, predicted a congressional investigation of the whole question. Couzens held that any charges against the President should be examined by Congress, and his remark was interpreted as cafrying an im-

PITTS' PLEA TO BALK TRIAL IS OVERRULED

Justice Letts Paves Way for Introducing Evidence on False Documents.

In a series of rapidly announced decisions late yesterday, Justice F. Dickinson Letts, sitting in Criminal Court No. 2, of the District Supreme Court, paved the way for the presentation today of what Government prosecutors believe may be a sensational expose of the manner in which G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the F. H. Smith Co., prepared and introduced into evidence in his trial some 74 allegedly false documents.

Government witnesses from half a oozen States have been gathered to testify, and they are expected to relate in some detail the entire transaction in which Pitts prepared the "spurious authorizations" which he used in his defense to show that he was entitled to withdraw huge sums of money from the Smith company.

Dozier A. DeVane, argued almost all day in an effort to save Pitts from standing trial before Justice Letts. He was steadily opposed by the Government, and Justice Lets, taking under advisement certain motions made by Mr. DeVane, ruled against them just before adjournment.

Pitts was directed to stand up and enter a plea to the citation charging him with criminal contempt. He plead "not guilty" in a husky, somewhat peevish voice, and then quickly resumed his seat beside his wife, who atended the lenghty session.

The only motion remaining undisposed of when court adjourned was the one making available to the Government six typewriters seized by the internal revenue agents when they raided a vault of Pitts' in Florida. Action on this will be announced today by Justice Letts.

Pitts was closely guarded all day. There were never less than six deputy marshals and court bailiffs in his immediate vicinity all day. Gus Cerimele, who has escorted Pitts to and from the jail in his many journeys, sat beside him. Pitts is now serving

China Dispatches Troops and Seizes 8 Men on Plot Charges.

TWO U. S. WOMEN LEAVE ON VESSEL

Gen. Mah Declares War on Japan and Asks Other Leaders to Assist.

Tientsin, China, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Machine guns were put into action this evening on the western edge of Tientsin in what apparently was another outburst of rioting resulting from the tension between Chinese and Japanese.

Two American women attached to the Methodist Mission were escorted from the scene of the clash and were placed aboard an outbound steamer.

Meanwhile Chinese troops were dispatched from Lang Pang and other concentration centers, it was reported, but whether they were ordered here or to Peiping was not clear.

Police were on guard against further action by the 2,000 rioters who took part last night in a fight at the entrance to the Chinese city from the Japanese concession. Chinese officials charged that Japanese troops fired 40 shells into the Chinese section during the disturbance. Four Chinese were killed and ten wounded, according to Chinese accounts.

Eight Men Accused.

Eight men arrested by Chinese authorities are accused of having participated in a plot to overthrow the government of Chang Hsueh-Liang in Manchuria and to substitute for it a government friendly to Japan.

These men, the Chinese say, have been meeting nightly at the home of Wu Kwangi-Sing and are affiliated with the Culman-Puites. They were arrested just before last night's rioting and because of what the authorities learned from them, the Chinese [illegible] were called out and the concession was barricaded.

According to Chinese accounts, about 2,000 rebels congregated on the main road from the Japanese concession before the rioting began and when the city authorities put up a show of resistance the rebels switched their plans, deciding to attack from the suburbs as well as from the concession.

Two Japanese Killed.

During the firing between police and rebels two Japanese soldiers, who were in their own quarters, were killed by stray bullets. The Japanese military command demanded that the Chinese police withdraw to a position 300 meters from the boundary.

Chinese authorities declare it was impossible to obey the order immediately and a Japanese tank opened fire on the police. Two shells, the police say, landed in front of the Chinese headquarters.

The Japanese concession was quiet today, the streets being deserted. Business was at a standstill.

London, Tuesday, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—China has requested the League of Nations to send an international force of 4,000 men to police the South Manchurian Railway pending settlement of its dispute with Japan, the London Express says today.

Mah Declares War.

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A manifesto declaring war on Japan, said newspaper dispatches tonight, has been addressed to the Chinese nation by Mah Chan-Shan, a north Manchurian militarist, and fighting has recommenced.

The Chinese government at Nanking, on the fact of the dispatches, was not involved.

The war office here, announced however, that an intercepted message indicated the purpose of the move was to draw the Japanese army farther north in Manchuria as a means of strengthening China's case at Geneva.

Due to this development and to riots in Tientsin, the minister of war postponed his departure for Kyushu Island to view the annual army maneuvers.

Few Developments.

On the diplomatic side of the Manchurian difficulty engendered by military occupation to protect Japanese nationals and property, there were few developments. Scant hope for

GRANT JOINS MOVE TO REDUCE PARKING

Says He Intends Gradually to Stop Parks' Being 'Open Air Garages.'

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, 3rd, director of public buildings and public parks, said last night that he is entirely in sympathy with the proposal of the Fine Arts Commission to reduce parking in the public parks, and he is already beginning to impose limits in anticipation of the Washington bicentennial celebration.

His purpose is to prohibit all-day parking in the parks and gradually to switch the cars from the park roads to nearby thoroughfares. As an example, he cited the one-hour parking rule recently instituted at the Ellipse when Constitution avenue was opened. When the road circling the Lincoln Memmorial is reopened, he said, all-day parking will similarly be prohibited on the north side.

Only last week parking was banned on the park road around the District Memorial, he added, and the time limit in the Mounment grounds has been cut to one hour. When Fifteenth street is reopened between E street and Constitution avenue, Col. Grant hopes to draw more cars away from the Ellipse.

"Our purpose is to prevent the use of the parks as open air garages," he said, "but to permit sufficient parking so that motorists may use the parks legitimately."

The Fine Arts Commission's parking ultimatum, brought to the attention of the District Commissioners yesterday, puts the latter in a somewhat peculiar position as they are unable to control the parking in three of the areas against which the major complaints were made.

The National Capital, protected as it is by several different police organizations, does not come under a centralized police jurisdiction. Hence the Commissioners have nothing to do with parking of automobiles in the principal parks, such as the Monument Grounds and on the Ellipse.

INDICTMENT SOUGHT OF DREISER AND GIRL

Kentucky Grand Jury Told by Judge to Sift Immorality Charge.

Pineville, Ky., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A grand jury investigation of charges of misconduct by Theodore Dreiser and a young woman and also of addresses made during the Dreiser committee's inquiry in the Southeastern Kentucky coal fields was asked today by Circuit Judge D. C. Jones.

Addressing a regular session of the Bell County Grand Jury in open court the judge, who was one of the centers of attacks made in addresses and testimony before the committee, severely criticized its actions and said its members had come to the coal fields to get publicity and to capitalize on the miners. The grand jury began hearing witnesses during the afternoon but it was not announced whether they testified about Dreiser and his committee.

The committee left here this morning, Dreiser going through the Cumberland Mountains with Bruce Crawford, editor of a weekly paper at Norton, Va. Crawford, who was a member of the committee, was shot in the leg near Harlan last summer while visiting the coal fields.

The warrant against Dreiser sworn out in a lower court was not served. Other members of the committee went to Winchester and Mount Sterling to confer about defense of miners who are to be tried on murder charges in those towns on change of venue. Others started for New York via Pittsburgh. They had left before the judge delivered his charge, and Dreiser could not be reached for a statement.

Judge Jones said witnesses had sworn to a warrant charging Dreiser and a young woman had lived together openly here and added:

"If these facts are true, I suggest that the grand jury indict them."

He also told the grand jurors to inquire whether Kentucky's criminal syndicalism law had been violated in

Society Man Killed In Apartment Duel

Scions of Old Families in Philadelphia Battle Over Woman.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Two young Philadelphia society men, one armed with a shotgun, the other with a pistol, fought a duel to death tonight over an unidentified woman.

When it was over, 23-year-old Francis Donaldson 3d, scion of one of the city's prominent families, lay fatally wounded, a bullet through the abdomen. He was shot by Edward H. B. Allen, 23, son of Horace Allen, wealthy manufacturer.

"He came at me with a shotgun," Allen said. "I fired to save my own life." Allen surrendered shortly after Donaldson died in Bryn Mawr Hospital. The duel took place in Allen's apartment in fashionable Greenhill Farms Hotel, where the two had gone to "settle" the affair over the woman.

Francis Is Found In Dazed Condition

Actor Says His Mind Went Blank After He Left Cab at Station.

Ventura, Calif., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Alec P. Francis, 60, veteran stage and screen actor, missing since Saturday, was found near here today in a dazed condition. A physician said Francis was suffering from amnesia and a nervous breakdown.

Ventura is 110 miles from San Bernardino, in the opposite direction from where Francis telegraphed Mrs. Francis Sunday night he would be home today and there was "no need to worry."

S. George Ullman, Francis' manager, and Mrs. Francis were summoned from Los Angeles. Francis said he departed from home Saturday in a taxicab and left it at a Los Angeles railway station. From then on, he said, his mind was a blank.

Suggested Code of Ethics For Senate Portends Storm

Book by Former Senator Pepper Stirs Wide Comment; "Family Quarrels" Cites Need of Dignity in Handling Investigations.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Rumblings of hot indignation, which portend a major tempest on Capitol Hill this winter, greeted the suggestion yesterday that the Senate adopt a formal code of ethics to govern its fact-finding investigations.

Embodied in a new book by former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, the suggestion accompanies a frank acknowledgment that "congressional overlordship is now definitely established."

The first copies of the book to come from the presses have attracted wide attention in official circles, as well as among politicians of both parties. The work is an expansion of a series of foundation lectures delivered recently at the University of Virginia. It is titled, "Family Quarrels: The President, the Senate, the House."

"We have evolved worthy standards of conduct for professional baseball players," Mr. Pepper says in his concluding chapter on congressional investigations. "We are hopeful of a similar evolution in the case of prize fighters. It would be lamentable if only senators were to be classed as invincibly barbarous."

Tracing the long history of the struggle between Parliament and the crown in England, Mr. Pepper, who is recognized as an eminent authority on constitutional law, characterizes our own 141 years of "family quarrels" as merely an extension of the same legal debate.

But the Constitution was established at a time when it was "the part of a good judge to enlarge his jurisdiction," and the universal acceptance of that principle accentuated from the very outset of the American constitutional venture the conflict between the legislative and judicial authority. He then presents a scholarly itemization of the historic conflicts over treaties, nominations

Brother Defies King Carol In Elopement With Beauty

Nicholas, Credited With Winning of Roumanian Throne Back for Brother, Flees With Commoner; Throne Orders Record Destroyed.

Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Elopement of Prince Nicholas of Roumania and Mme. Jana Lucia Deletj, a beauty not of noble birth, and their marriage after a wild dash by automobile to escape the disapproval of the prince's brother, King Carol, was reported here today.

The mayor of the Village of Tohan, near Buzeu, was compelled by the prince to perform the ceremony yesterday, the reports said.

As soon as the king learned of the marriage, it was added, he ordered all records of the ceremony destroyed and the Bucharest government issued a denial that any marriage had taken place.

Prince Nicholas, second son of the Dowager Queen Marie and by reputation one of the fastest motorists in Roumania, burned the highways and country lanes at breakneck speed for 125 miles to reach the village before he could be frustrated by the king, said reports which came from border sources.

The mayor well knew he should not perform the ceremony without authorization from the king. But as he was confronted by the determined prince and his slim dark-haired companion, he felt that he could not decline the honor, so he nervously tied the knot.

As soon as the prince and his bride had jumped into the car and disappeared down the road in clouds of dust, the mayor recovered his presence of mind and frantically leaped to the nearest available telephone to call Bucharest.

"I married Prince Nicholas, who made me do it," the mayor shouted in excited Roumanian.

The words were reported to have thrown Bucharest court circles into a panic.

The bride is also known as Mme.

LEAGUE CIRCLES SEE ACTUAL WAR RAGING

Recall That Japanese Sank Russian Fleet Prior to Official Fighting.

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Reports that Gen. Mah Chan-Shan has taken it upon himself to declare war against Japan have injected skepticism into the confusion which reigns on Geneva as to the true status of hostilities in Manchuria.

There is no confirmation here of these Tokyo reports. And while Gen. Mah, or any other general with any army, may actually make war in the most dreadful form, he may not "declare war," in the opinion of League of Nations authorities and international law experts.

Only governments are competent to declare war and both Nanking and Tokyo have made clear that they have no intention of going to war over Manchuria.

Certainly the league—an organization of governments—can not recognize a formal status of hostilities when no government is willing to accept such status.

This is the technical and legal status—but, of course, to the practical mind, which rejects the subtleties in favor of the facts, the situation in Manchuria assumes the appearance of war.

Soldiers of two nations are fighting and killing each other in the Far East, and that is "war" to the average man in Geneva as truly as to the man in the street elsewhere.

Even diplomats speak of the "Sino-Japanese war" in private, but they would not dare to use such a phrase publicly.

This conflict of diplomatic language with unofficial recognition of the facts is what causes confusion in international quarters. The diplomatic attitude is, "Don't call it war and maybe it isn't." The other attitude is, "It's war; let's stop it."

The latter point of view is growing here. The tendency is noted in some quarters, indeed, to disregard subtle technical distinctions between formal war and informal mass killing.

It is not forgotten here that the Japanese sank the Russian fleet before the declaration of the Russo-Japanese War.

Chinese in Geneva scoffed at the idea of Gen. Mah declaring war. They said the reports were similar to erroneous rumors that the Japanese consul at Tsitsihar had been assassinated.

"It is not customary for generals to declare war," a Chinese spokesman asserted. When it was suggested that perhaps Gen. Mah did not know that, he laughed.

But whether or not Gen. Mah has declared war—and that he has is generally doubted here—there is no war at present as war is understood under the league covenant. The Manchurian fighting still comes under the head of "disorders" or disturbances.

The Japanese speak of their army's activities as "puntive"—a term which invokes memory of Gen. Pershing's expedition into Mexico in 1916, which was not war.

It must not be forgotten that the Japanese have expressed regret at certain military developments in Manchuria and even have announced that airplane bombings were contrary to the will of their government.

The Chinese are at least equally regretful. The attitude of both governments strengthens the league in maintaining there is no war.

All the same, confusion as to the real situation still prevails even in subtle diplomatic minds.

Grandi's Ship Flies His Own Banner

Italian Minister Sees Flag When Steamer Halts at Gibraltar.

S. S. Conte Grande, En Route to the United States, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Dino Grandi saw his own flag—the flag of the foreign minister of Italy—for the first time today as he stood on the bridge of this vessel, near the gigantic fortress Rock of Gibraltar.

Capt. Lena, master of the Conte Grande, pointed out the flag to him. It is of white with an outline of blue for the House of Savoy, and the Fascist emblem is in the center. Since the vessel left Naples the flag has been flying, but the foreign minister didn't know it.

Signor Grandi was greatly interested in the little Genoese settlement which has been perched on the Rock for 300 years. The tongue of Genoa still is spoken there, he was told. When the liner entered the harbor Consul Carrara of Italy came aboard with an armful of flowers for Signora Grandi and newspapers, and a welcoming speech for the foreign minister.

peace from the newest Briand-Yoshizawa conversations was felt in official circles. The foreign office announced a reply to America's latest note was nearly completed.

The war declaration was dated Saturday and signed by Mah Chan-Shan. He is commander of the Heilungkiang Province army which was defeated by the Japanese last week at the Nonni River bridgehead, on the Taonan-Anganchi Railway, in western Manchuria.

The manifesto contained Mah's assertion of determination to fight Japan to the very last man."

Rengo News Agency said Gen. Mah also had wired to Chang Hsueh-Liang, Governor of Manchuria ousted by the Japanese; Chang Tso-Hsiang, commander of all Manchurian forces north of the Great Wall, and Wan Fu-Lin, Nationalist Governor of Heilungkiang Province, all of whom are believed to be at Peiping, requesting that they order the mobilization at Tsitsihar, Heilungkiang capital, of all troops of Kirin Province, the middle province of the three which make up Manchuria.

Bombardment Reported.

The newspaper Asahi said Chinese bombardment of the Japanese positions above the Nonni bridgehead at Tahsing actually had begun, but there was no confirmation of this report in official quarters. The Asahi said the Chinese were using field artillery and machine guns and had established their base at Anganchi, 7 miles south of Tsitsihar, provincial capital.

There was confirmation, however, for reports of Chinese concentrations near the Heilungkiang capital.

A dispatch yesterday from Gen. Shigeru Honjo, commander in chief of the Japanese army in Manchuria, said reports reaching him placed the Heilungkiang forces near Anganchi at "5,900 infantry, 2,400 cavalry, 300 engineers and a number of gunners with a dozen field and mountain guns."

The war office also said that "Gen. Ting Chao, commander of the Chinese railway guards doing duty along the Chinese Eastern Railway, has decided to assist the Heilungkiang army and is gradually massing his troops in the neighborhood of Anganchi."

Another war office announcement said information from Chinese sources revealed Chang Hsueh-Liang had ordered Gen. Yung Chen at Chenchow, Chang's last stronghold in Manchuria, to communicate with Gen. Mah by way of preparing an attack upon the Japanese at some point not designated.

The war office's communique regarding the "intercepted message" said it was from Wan Fulin to Gen. Mah. No details were given.

Cordon of Troops.

The rioting was reportedly caused by the "National Relief Corps," an organization opposing Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang. A cordon of troops was thrown around the Japanese concession, where 5,850 Japanese live.

Minister of War Giro Minami said if further trouble developed at Tientsin he would propose formation there of an international army to keep order. This would include American infantrymen. He said there were no signs of any offensive there against the Japanese, but that Japanese troops were prepared for eventualities.

A Rengo dispatch said former Gov. Chang Tsung-Chang of Shantung Province had been arrested in Tientsin on orders of Chang Hsueh-Ming, 23-year-old brother of Gov. Chang, on a charge of intriguing to gain control of the Chinchow government as the start of a Manchurian separatist movement for his personal benefit. Chang Tsung-Chang only recently returned to China from exile in Japan.

The foreign office announced instructions would be sent to Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Ambassador to France and Japanese representative on the League of Nations council, to protest against China's alleged use of the League of Nations as a propaganda bureau.

It also was announced that the foreign office favors publication of the recent correspondence with the United States, provided the Washington Government also approves.

Geneva, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—China complained to the League of Nations today that Japanese military authorities in Manchuria have seized all funds of the Bank of China and of the Bank of Communications at Chanchun.

The complaint was based on a message from Dr. Frederick A. Cleveland, Massachusetts economist, who is chief inspector of the Chinese government salt monopoly.

"All funds of the Bank of China and of the Bank of Communications at Chanchun, amounting to $2,600,000, were forcibly removed to the Bank of the Three Eastern Provinces of Chanchun by a transportation officer authorized by the Japanese military authorities," the message said.

"We protested in vain. The transportation officer formally notified us today that he can not recognize the salt inspectorate."

Most of the funds in question were salt revenues, according to Dr. Alfred Sze, China's spokesman at the league. Japan hitherto has denied seizing the revenues, and Dr. Sze declared in a note to the league secretariat that the denials now are proved to be untrue.

The Chinese delegate declared Japan's plea of innocence was invalidated by the facts contained in the latest report from Manchuria. Dr. Cleveland had furnished names, dates and places, he said, and these disposed of the Japanese denials.

Continue to Seize Salt.

"The Japanese military authorities continue to seize salt and revenues through agents created, directed and controlled by themselves," he wrote.

Geneva, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—In a new note to the League of Nations Council today Frank Lee, representing the Chinese foreign ministry, accused the Japanese of the "apparent intention of occupying the city of Tsitsihar and overthrowing the northern Manchurian government."

Lee declared the situation in the Heilungkiang Province is now extremely grave.

Continuing his indictment of Japanese action in Manchuria, Lee charged that the Japanese military forces have not indicated the slightest intention to abide by the recommendations of the league council, but instead have "continuously extended the scope of their military aggressions."

Lee urged the powers to send representatives to Heilungkiang to obtain personal evidence of Japan's "violation of the resolution of the league council.

Paris, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A Japanese version of the rioting in Tientsin, given today in a communique issued here by the Japanese delegation to the League of Nations, says that the trouble was entirely between Chinese police and bandits, but that several Japanese were killed.

Fighting started in the Chinese quarter at 10 o'clock last night, the communique says. A rumor was spread attributing the riot to Japanese influence. This rumor was promptly denied by Japanese authorities through the French consul.

Rioting continued, however, near the Japanese concession. After several Japanese had been killed the Chinese commander was asked and promised to withdraw his troops 300 yards from the Japanese concession, but failed to do so, and at 7 o'clock this morning Chinese forces fired upon Japanese, who replied without, however, leaving their concession.

Finally, an hour later, the Chinese retired.

Control of Rich Territory Behind Manchurian Crisis

Japan and China at Grips Over Valuable Agriculture, Lumber and Mineral Resources; Ownership of Railways Play Large Part in Situation.

(United Press.)

The Manchurian situation, complicated by the play of Chinese factions, the moral interference of the League of Nations, and sporadic demonstrations in widely separated corners of China, has its roots in the conflicting control of a country infinitely rich in agriculture, lumber and mineral resources.

Nominally under the control of China, Manchuria's three chief provinces of Fengtien, Kirin and Heilungkiang are actually dominated in the north by Russia and in the south by Japan.

Russia and China jointly own and operate the Chinese Eastern Railway, with Harbin as its central junction point. Japan owns and controls the South Manchurian Railroad, from Dairen to Changchun, together with some tributary roads. The Chinese Eastern runs, roughly, east and west, while the South Manchuria runs north and south.

A third railroad, built by Japan but owned by the Chinese—and the Japanese claim the Chinese have never paid for it—extends from Taonan to Tsitsihar, bisecting the Chinese Eastern at Anganki. It is in this last sector that Japanese and Chinese troops have engaged recently in actual, but unofficial, warfare.

Manchuria is the granary of Asia. The importance of maintaining control over its railways is such that by treaty and concessions the interested nations are permitted certain quotas of troops for protection of these international communications.

Closed by the Manchus to Chinese colonization, the vast territory was thrown open after the Russo-Japanese war, and today 29,000,000 Chinese occupy the land or are engaged in its great coal mines. The Japanese population is approximately 240,000.

For years Manchuria was a breeding place for rival bandit armies, until the famous Chang Tso-Lin, a Hun Hutze chieftain, came into power and for a time held the provinces under a firm but benevolent dictatorship. He was succeeded by his son, Chang Hsueh Liang, "dictator of all Manchuria," who was ousted by the Japanese, and who has recently been in conference with Chinese government leaders at Peiping.

In August of this year, Capt. S. Nakamura, of the Japanese army, was killed by Chinese. Japan demanded an apology and, about a month later, seized the City of Mukden and all towns along the South Manchurian Railway.

China appealed to the League of Nations, and during the exchange of diplomatic notes the Japanese army spread farther into zones hitherto unoccupied, the most dangerous being in the vicinity of Tsitsihar, which, because of its proximity to the Chinese Eastern Railroad, is technically in Russia's zone of influence and control.

The demolition of a bridge over the Nonni River, whether by Japan or China—each accusing the other—brought an ultimatum to China to repair the structure. Japanese troops, thrown into the territory to enforce the order, engaged in a sanguinary conflict with the troops of Gen. Ma Chan-Shan, one of the Chinese overlords operating partly on his own account and partly as a subordinate officer of the Chinese government.

The Japanese and Chinese governments meanwhile indulged in a series of recriminatory notes at Geneva, and the Tokyo government steadfastly declined to be guided by the league's suggestions and hints that it would be well to withdraw her troops or else meet with international disfavor.

HOOVER AND STIMSON MAP TWO PLANS IN TIENTSIN ROW

in French parliamentary matters in Paris at the time.

The league has almost exhausted every means for the maintenance of peace at its command. The sole step that yet remains to be taken is the joint agreement by all the powers to an economic boycott, or blockade of Japan in order to keep the prestige of the league intact. The idea of Secretary Stimson would be an intermediate step which might have all the efficacy of an economic sanction, without any of the implications of league influence which would normally subject it to suspicion and perhaps condemnation by the antileague elements in the Senate. The Stimson idea has evolved another form of "diplomatic sanction" which would be invoked under clauses of the Kellogg-Briand pact. This is the proposal now under consideration to summon back to the United States Ambassador Forbes as an indication of the feelings of the United States against Japan's wanton disregard of her Kellogg pact promises.

Secretary Stimson, in his desire to carry out his announced plan for dealing with the Manchurian crisis "independently," may decide to take the step alone, without even waiting for joint action on the part of members of the council, who will meet in Paris one week from today. If the council should request the United States to postpone its individual handling of the situation, it is deemed probable that Secretary Stimson for the most satisfactory results will accede to the council's request.

Withdrawal of ambassadors, it was pointed out here yesterday, would not constitute a state of war or an interruption of diplomatic relations. This state of suspended ambassadorial representation existed for many months between the United States and Argentina although the conditions were not the same as those through which the Government and the league are now passing.

Japan seems to have turned a deaf ear now to the warnings from Washington as well as from the League of Nations. Chinese tempers are rapidly reaching the point where in their blind fury they may not be disposed to differentiate between Japanese and other foreigners, living in concessions at Tientsin and elsewhere. The present state of unrest was described in the several telegrams reaching the State Department yesterday.

The American Conul General at Tientsin, Frank P. Lockhart, reported to the following effect:

On the night of November 8 heavy machine gun and rifle fire was heard in the direction of the Japanese concession. The firing lasted from 11 o'clock until 2 a. m. There was a lull in the firing from 2 a. m. until 7 a. m., November 9, when firing was apparently resumed and continued until 9 a. m. At 10 a. m. yesterday the exact cause of the trouble was not known, but there appeared to be much confusion in and near the Japanese concession.

In the firing on the morning of November 9 the detonation of small field pieces was distinctly heard.

Strict and martial law was being maintained in the Japanese concession and in the Chinese area at 10 a. m.

Conditions were reported quiet in the French and British concessions, but much uneasiness seemed to prevail as to possible repercussions.

Consul General Lockhart reported as of 3 p. m. yesterday that most of the firing Sunday night apparently was between Chinese police and plain clothes men just outside of the Japanese concession, in which area the latter had organized their forces. Their objective apparently was the bureau of public safety, the headquarters of the provincial government and the electric light plant in the Belgian concession, and possibly the telephone office. Evidence was very conflicting as to whether there was any considerable firing inside the Japanese concession Sunday night.

At 4 a. m. the Japanese authorities demanded of Gen. Wang Hsu Chang that he remove by 6 a. m. the Chinese police to a distance of 300 meters from the boundaries of the concession and Gen. Wang agreed that he would do this but contended that the time was too short and requested 30 minutes' grace beyond 6 a. m. Apparently by 7 a. m., or thereabouts, the police had not been removed to the 300-meter limit, whereupon firing took place between the Japanese and the Chinese police.

It has not been definitely established as to who fired first. Apparently the Japanese have not proceeded beyond the boundaries of their concession and it is evident also that no Chinese troops have been in action. Up to this point on the Chinese side only police have been employed. Casualties were not known at 3 p. m., but the Japanese claimed one petty officer and one soldier killed and the Chinese claimed a number had been wounded. The Chinese claim that there were 1,100 plain clothes men involved.

Consul General Lockhart added that the tension had by no means relaxed.

COL. GRANT MOVES TO END PARKS AS 'OPEN AIR GARAGES'

These areas are controlled by the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

At the Capitol, which the arts group cited as an example of crowding the front of public buildings with parked cars, the Commissioners are likewise without authority, as a special police patrol, under David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, is in charge. Parking space in front of other Federal buildings, such as the War and Navy Departments, is likewise under the control of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

A copy of the arts commission's letter to the National Bicentennial Commission was sent to the District heads by William Tyler Page, executive secretary of the Bicentennial Commission, for information as to what the municipal Commissioners were going to do about it.

The letter pointed out that preparations are being made for the reception of thousands of tourists next year during the Washington anniversary, but that no adequate steps have been taken to provide parking space for the automobiles of the visitors. Moreover, the beauty of the parks and public buildings will be marred because of the congested lines of parked cars, it was stated.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, said yesterday that he had not had time to read the arts commission's letter. The major problem that faces the Commissioners, he said, is what to do with all the automobiles now parked on downtown streets if a parking ban were ordered. There are not sufficient garages, he pointed out, to accommodate the thousands of motorists who drive their cars to work daily.

The Commissioners met with a storm of protest when they recently ordered the three-zone parking system, and it is not likely they will further arouse the ire of Washington automobile owners by abolishing parking in the downtown sections.

In fact, the hour parking system in the congested area is working none too well. Because of the inadequacy of the traffic police force, many motorists are daily parking all day in the first zone with impunity.

The Fine Arts Commission concludes its letter with a warning that Congress has jurisdiction over the District and that the matter will be put before that body if immediate steps are not taken to effect a remedy. The commission asserts that the streets and parks in Washington were built to "insure both the convenience and the pleasure of the citizens of the entire country."

The proposal to ban parking met with no enthusiasm whatever from Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer, nor was it favorably received by leaders of the automotive industry here, despite the fact that every past attempt to keep parked automobiles off the streets in the District has been criticized as an attempt to increase garage revenues.

"Where are we supposed to put these automobiles that are barred from outdoor parking?" Mr. Van Duzer inquired. "Out in Maryland, perhaps?"

Representatives of the automobile trade pointed out that it would be ideal if some way were found to take care of automobiles without parking them on the streets, but that under present conditions such a millenium would be impossible.

"Even if it were possible," said A. H. Johnson, general manager of an automobile agency, "to attempt to enforce any regulation requiring automobile owners to park their cars indoors would only cause tremendous inconvenience to the many to the benefit of the few who would profit."

$75,000 HELD READY TO FREE CAPONE AID

Winkler and Friends Would Pay Nebraska Sum to Gain Dismissal.

Lincoln, Nebr., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Nebraska officials today revealed gangland was willing to spend $75,000 for the dismissal of a bank robbery charge against August "Gus" Winkler, who, State Attorney General C. A. Sorensen said, was a lieutenant of "Scarface Al" Capone. The authorities have not yet decided what to do about the offer.

Winkler now is free on a $100,000 bond pending trial in connection with the $2,500,000 robbery of the Lincoln National Bank & Trust Co. September 17, 1930.

He has offered to buy from the thieves $600,000 worth of the bonds stolen from the bank and return them if the charge were dropped. In a conference recently with Lincoln authorities, Winkler said he and his friends, presumably "Scarface Al" Capone and his allies, would spend $75,000 of their money to get the negotiable securities. He said he did not participate in the holdup and as an alibi asserted he was in a Buffalo, N. Y., hotel the day of the robbery.

Visited by Capone's Aid.

Phil D'Andrea, bodyguard of Capone, visited Winkler in jail here while he was arranging the bond.

The proposal now is before County Attorney Max Towle, who frowned on the offer but said it would be several days before he could make a thorough investigation of the alibi and reach a definite decision.

"If Winkler is guilty he will be prosecuted at any cost, irrespective of whether the stolen property is returned," Towle said. "If I'm satisfied that he is innocent, I've got the courage to dismiss the complaint regardless of whether we get the securities back."

Towle said Winkler had not told him that Tom Slattery, killed in Maryland last April, had participated in the robbery. Winkler claimed he was held because he resembled Slattery.

Sorensen in urging an investigation of Winkler's alibi said there was a possibility of Winkler being prosecuted in Illinois for a bank robbery at Plano and also of his being "put on the spot" by enemies in gangland.

No Compromise, Ryan Says.

Sorensen said there was no doubt Winkler was connected with the Capone organization and by this means had located the $600,000 worth of securities. The names of persons holding the bonds and of Winkler's friends and attorneys were not revealed.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan announced the State should make no "compromise with crime."

"The State of Nebraska has been humiliated," he asserted, "by having it published to the world that such proposition was even being considered."

Sorensen said the return of the bonds should not be "sneered at."

"Six Nebraska banks had their entire capital stock in the Lincoln National Bank. One has failed and others may fail if the securities are not returned."

The $600,000 worth of bonds represents all except $30,000 worth of the negotiable securities taken in the robbery, Sorensen said Winkler informed him and other officials at a conference in Chicago that the nonnegotiable securities had been burned and that approximately $25,000 in cash and the other negotiable securities had been divided by the robbers.

The Tom Slattery mentioned was Tracy Cartwright, alias Joseph Hays, who was killed in an attempted holdup of a bank in Upper Marlboro, Md., on April 9, 1931, according to police records here. The Federal Bureau of Identification says that Slattery was among the aliases used by Cartwright.

Former Governor Chang Is Reported 'Detained'

Mukden, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The Rengo News Agency's Tientsin correspondent said tonight former Gov. Chang Tsung-Chang of Shantung had been "detained" at Tientsin by orders of Gen. Chang Hsueh-Liang, brother of Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang.

The arrest of Chang Tsung-Chang, noted for his numerous and beautiful wives, was said to have followed disclosure of an intrigue to gain control of the Chinchow government and then betray Chang Hsueh-Liang.

Chinchow and the surrounding area are all that remain to Gov. Chang of his once vast Manchurian domains. The rest of south Manchuria is under Japanese military control because of Chang's alleged failure to protect Japanese residents here.

Chang Tsung-Chang, who for months was in exile at Beppu and Dairen, returned to China last spring. Reports at the time said Chang Hsueh-Liang had interceded with the Nationalist government, against whom Chang Tsung-Chang had rebelled, to permit the former Shantung war lord to return, and arranged to make him limitary governor of Chailar.

Attempt to Draw Russia Into Tangle Is Rumored

Moscow, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A message received by the Tass News Agency from Khabarovsk, Siberia, today reported the rumor that proposals had been made to White Russians to provoke a conflict with the Soviet republic and draw Russia into the Sino-Japanese trouble.

An official of the Japanese military mission in Harbin—Osaya by name, who was identified as editor of the Japanese newspaper, Kharbinskoe Vremia—was said in the message to have invited the White Russian general, Kosmin, on behalf of the mission to organize a plot against the Chinese Eastern Railway and to arrest prominent Soviet officials such as the consul and the manager of the railway.

He was said to have suggested that the White Guards aim at seizing the Soviet consulate in Harbin.

Teamsters' 'Czar' Is Slain in Chicago

Timothy Lynch, 66, Shot Down on Doorstep of Suburban Home.

Chicago, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Timothy J. Lynch, 60, said by police to have been one of the most powerful labor "bosses" in Cook County, was killed tonight by gunmen who shot him down on his doorsteps in the suburb of Maywood.

Lynch was recognized by police as the "czar" of the Teamsters' Union in the suburbs west of Chicago's city limits. He had been mentioned many times in connection with violent labor disputes and gang activities. Police thought his slaying probably resulted from the shooting to death last July of L. S. Murphy and an unidentified man, both said to have been agents for a teamsters' union.

During Lynch's years in control of the suburban teamsters, there were several violent disputes between his organization and similar organizations in the city.

BOND BANKERS SEEK SLICE IN RAIL WAGES

Would Create National Revolving Fund to Help Needy Railroads.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The Investment Bankers Association today urged the establishment of a national revolving fund and a cut in wages to preserve and build up the credit of America's railroads, whose earnings, the association's committee reported, will probably be even less this year than in the postwar deflation year of 1921.

The association did not suggest a source for the revolving fund, but Lee L. Daly, of St. Louis, spokesman of the committee, interpreted the report to the convention as recommending "a reduction in wages for a revolving fund."

Attacking the real estate bond situation, the association decided that sincere and prompt action by bondholders protective committees acting in a spotlight of publicity, rather than behind closed doors, will do much to preserve real estate bond values. The real estate committee estimated that about 60 per cent, or $3,500,000,000 of real estate bonds are in distress.

The association also took action to protect the holders of the more than $7,000,000,000 of foreign bonds in America, by empowering the Institute of International Finance to oppose the issuance of bonds for foreign countries that have defaulted on interest. The institute is supported by the association, and its opposition would amount to a capital blockade against a defeaulting foreign borrower.

The rail report recommended for the permanent solution of rail difficulties:

"The appointment of a commission to take into consideration the problems arising out of the growth of all forms of competing transportation; to make recommendations of measures designed for their regulation and coordination; and to recommend legislation that would enable railroads to compete fairly with new and old forms of transportation."

The real estate committee attacked many bondholders' protective committees as indifferent to the interests of investors and used the word "sacred" to define the dutis of such committees. It recommended public exposure of committees which attempted to acquire control of property or which exacted unreasonable fees.

Mergers were also found valuable in the field of oil and gas by the oil and gas committee.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 101

BARNEY, Gene and Tom were the pride of the District Fire Department; the gallant steeds which carried mounted policemen about the city were the pride of Washington's "finest" in the days when horses, rather than popular makes of automobiles, were the rule. But Emergency Hospital also had its candidate for undying fame.

Away back in 1907 a report was issued by the board of trustees or directors or whatever they were and it was a well-illustrated report. One of the pictures was that shown above.

The name of the horse drawing the Emergency ambulance along Pennsylvania avenue on a hurry call to some accident seems to have slipped the minds of those who remember those days, although there is a rumor that she was called Susie.

No matter what the name, that horse, followed by the buggylike ambulance with clanging bell, as compared to the shrieking siren of today, was a familiar sight in downtown Washington.

4 WHO STONED CARS MOBBED AND JAILED

Score Hurt and 50 Autos Damaged in Rioting at Ohio Town.

Portsmouth, Ohio, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—after precipitating a riot by stoning motorists who refused to halt at their requests, four men were jailed in default of heavy fines after pleading guilty to various charges in a justice of the peace court at Stoney Run, near here today.

Two of the men, both bearing evidences of the battle in which twenty other persons were injured and 50 automobiles damaged by flying rocks, were fined $300 and costs for drunkenness and malicious destruction of property. They were Reuben Jarrell, 22, and Steve Osborn, 19.

Newton Osborn, 30, and Theodore May, 26, drew fines of $200 and costs for malicious destruction of property. Emmett Osborn, 17, charged with having participated in the attack, was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Steve and Emett Osborn and Jarrell were beaten severely by injuriated motorists whose cars had been used as targets.

The disturbance, county officials said, had its inception when the quartet's old automobile became disabled four miles west of here late Sunday. Exasperated at the failure of passing motorists to stop and give aid, the men were alleged to have resorted to force, throwing rocks, bricks and pieces of wood through the winshields of numerous cars.

More than 200 motorists and nearby residents joined hands in putting down the attackers and three of them were beaten unmercifully before sheriff's deputies, answering a riot call, reached the scene of battle and rescued them.

Approximately 100 automobiles blocked the highway after the bombardment. One motorist, officers said, threatened to use a knife on the attackers, while another threatened to shoot them.

Fitzgerald Elected By Kalorama Body

Police Warn Association of Law Enforcement on Hill Parking.

Joseph Fitzgerald, jr., was elected president of the Kalorama Citizens Association at the meeting last night at the John Quincy Adams School, Nineteenth and California streets northwest.

Other officers elected were: First vice president, A. B. Le P. Meany, 2817 Eighteenth street; second vice president, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, 2345 Ashmead place; treasurer, B. Tracy Ansell, 1957 Biltmore street; secretary, J. L. Hanes; delegates to the federation, George Ricker and Joseph Fitzgerald, jr.

A letter from the superintendent of police was read, in which he said that he appreciated the interest shown in the problem of parking cars on hills, and that in the future the traffic code would be strictly enforced.

Heart Attack Kills Man About to Enter His Car

James W. Bauby, 58 years old, of Chillum, Md., dropped dead last night as he was about to enter his automobile parked at Rock Creek Church road and Georgia avenue northwest. His death was due to a heart attack physicians said.

The man had just left a store and was reaching out to opening the door of his car when he staggered and dropped to the street. Mrs. George Six, of 805 Rock Creek Church road, ran to his side, and seeing that his condition was serious had a bystander call for ambulances. The Casualty Hospital ambulance and the Fire Rescue squad were called, but the man was pronounced dead upon the arrival of Dr. C. W. LeMasters from Casualty.

Shotgun Shells Stolen From Army Air Field

Some one is going hunting in a great, big way, but meantime the police are hunting the hunters.

The part of the double hunt taken by the police started when Maj. H. C. Davison, commandant of Bolling Field, reported that some one had broken the lock on the field's storeroom and removed fifteen boxes of shotgun shells. Nothing else was taken. The shells are kept at the field for use of guards around the post, according to police.

PRINCE DEFIES CAROL BY MARRYING BEAUTY

Dumicrescu, which was her name before her divorce from the son of a former cabinet minister.

She and the prince met romantically—and characteristically for Nicholas—on a motor highway where the beauty was in distress with a puncture which she could not fix. She was rescued by none other than the king's brother, who happened by in his speedy roadster.

Gossip said her slender, dark beauty and fiery eyes attracted Nicholas from the first moment. But when he made up his mind he must marry her and went to the king for royal assent, his brother flatly refused to sanction a wedding. Prince Nicholas, reminding Carol it was he whom the king had to thank for his dramatic and triumphant enthronement in June, 1930, turned on his heel and departed angrily.

The quarrel was prevented from developing into an open breach through the mediation of Finance Minister Argetoianu, but observers in court circles predicted Prince Nicholas sooner or later would make another attempt to realize his romance.

PER DIEM EMPLOYES TO GET 6-HOUR DAY

District Plan to Save Jobs of Engineering Workers Effective Next Week.

Per diem workers in the District Highway Department will be placed on a six-hour-day basis starting November 19, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer, announced yesterday, in order that as many as possible may be retained throughout the winter. Approximately 250 day laborers will thus escape being discharged.

While there will be a corresponding reduction in pay of the workers, it will not be so severe as that proposed by the District Commissioners for other per diem employes in the Engineer Department. Capt. Whitehurst said that highway workers were not to be included in the half-time plan suggested by the District heads.

As the highway department's program during the winter is lighter than at any other season, some of the 600 normally employed workers will have to be discharged anyway, Capt. Whitehurst said, despite the saving of 250 jobs. Among these are inspectors, checkers, and others who supervise the construction of streets.

The Highway Department followed a similar procedure last year, except the five-day week was adopted and the employes lost the Saturday half-holiday. Under this year's schedule laborers earning the minimum wage of $3.60 a day will get $17.10 for 36 hours, whereas last year they got $18 for 40 hours.

Rear Tire Thieves Fail; Are Chased by Citizens

Two young men who executed Washington's first "rear tire" banditry got nothing except the excitement of being chased for several blocks by excited citizens. Park policemen found the pocketbook and the money stolen from Mrs. Nathan B. Williams, of 3917 McKinley street northwest, cast aside in some bushes in the Zoological Park.

Mrs. Williams' only loss was a small purse she had inside her pocketbook which contained her driver's permit and registration card. The thieves evidently believed she kept her money in the small purse and threw away the pocketbook and a wad of paper in which her money was wrapped. Private J. H. Mills returned her pocketbook and $14.57 in cash yesterday.

Pin Scratch Death Of Woman Probed

Coroner Seeks Reason for Infection Ending Life of Dress Worker.

An investigation into the death of Miss Thelma Kehne, 26, at Emergency Hospital, who died yesterday of an infection resulting from a pin scratch, is being held by Coroner Joseph D. Rogers.

The injury to Miss Kehne, who lived at 1344 Kennedy street, is said to have been caused by a scratch on her face with a pin while at work in a dress shop located in the 900 block of G street. She entered the hospital last Tuesday after the injury became infected.

Miss Kehne's body will be sent to Frederick, Md., where she lived prior to coming here, for burial.

Couzens' $200,000 Helps Detroit Idle

Senator Sends First of Five Installments Totaling $1,000,000.

(United Press.)

A check for $200,000, to help feed Detroit's unemployed, was sent yesterday by Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, to Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit.

The check was one of five monthly installments, aggregating $1,000,000, which Senator Couzens offered to contribute if other wealthy Michigan people would contribute proportionally. The money will be spent through a special committee set up by civic leaders, Couzens said, without any cost of administration.

fourteen years, and he has five other indictments to face.

Pitts today will be actually placed on trial. Witnesses will testify as to what they know of the so-called authorizations, how they were prepared, and so forth. He has fought off another indictment for eleven months, and the Government adopted the present method of expediting his trial.

NORRIS URGES ROAD FUND OF 3 BILLIONS

Nebraskan Plans Bond Issue to Employ Million Men; Not in 1932 Race.

(Associated Press.)

The legislative program of the Republican independents took shape yesterday with advocacy by Senator Norris, of Nebraska, of $3,000,000,000 for Federal road building to aid employment.

The Nebraskan is a leader of the independent group holding the balance of power in the new Congress. He proposed the gigantic road construction plan upon his return yesterday to the Capital. It is one of the first employment measures to be advanced.

Reporting "general dissatisfaction with President Hoover in the West," Senator Norris frowned on suggestions that he enter the 1932 presidential race. He said, "Any progressively inclined man can beat Mr. Hoover in the West."

Early conferences among the Republican independents are in prospect, but Senator Norris said he knew of no definite plan for reconvening the Progressive conference which was held here last March.

Hit War Debt Cancelation.

Both Senator Norris and Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, who returned yesterday from Europe, declared against cancellation of the war debts owed by the European nations. Each insisted that Europe cut down on armaments before asking relief from the debts.

Senator Norris proposed to raise the funds for the roads through a Government bond issue. He would provide for retirement of this bond issue by revenues from increasing the higher income taxes and the rates on the inheritance tax.

Whether $3,000,000,000 would be necessary he did not know. But he would spend whatever is necessary to complete a two-year or three-year program involving every State. It is the opinion of Senator Norris that this work could be started by next spring and he believes it would give jobs to more than a million men, directly or indirectly.

As for immediate relief, the Nebraskan agreed that charity was the only answer this winter, but he opposed the principle of this. He would, however, have the Federal Government pay its share in meeting relief.

No Illusions About Presidency.

The 70-year-old Nebraska political insurgent smiled wistfully as he told newspapermen, "I have no illusions about the Presidency."

He insisted the election machinery closed the door of the White House to an independent candidate. He believed the nominating conventions of the two parties were dominated by the "monopolies and trusts."

Senator Norris said it would be "difficult" to stop the renomination of President Hoover by the Republicans, although there was talk in the West of such an attempt. He saw no organized movements for candidates in either party. He said that Gov. Roosevelt of New York was apparently favorably regarded in Western Democratic circles, but he did not care to discuss individual candidacies.

Good crops this year have helped the spirit of the people of the West, Norris said. While the harvests have assured them of food, he said, the prices received were not sufficient to pay the cost of production.

Mother, Child and Girl, 16, Vanish

Business High Student Has Been Missing Two Weeks.

Three missing persons, a mother and her 6-year-old daughter, and a girl, 16, were objects of a police search last night. Parents of the girl, Belle Cohen, of 1444 Oak street northwest, fear she was abducted.

Miss Cohen left her home, according to Mrs. Nathan Cohen, her mother, about 7:30 p. m., October 27, saying simply that she was "going out for a while." The girl, a Business High School pupil, is said to be a model student, and her mother said she never had dates. An aunt and uncle lives in Los Angeles, Calif., but Mrs. Cohen does not believe the girl would attempt to make the trip there. She had no money when she left home.

The mother and child, Mrs. Dorothy Smith Sterling, and her daughter, Ellen, have been missing from their home at 4825 Ninth street northwest, since last Friday.

Richmond Man Injured As He Walks Into Truck

A Richmond man was taken to Emergency Hospital in a serious condition yesterday afternon from an automobile accident at Fourteenth and Water streets southwest. He was unidentified for some time, but hospital authorities later learned his name was Walter Johnson. He is about 45 years old.

Johnson stepped from a curb and walked into the side of a truck driven by James Howard Lucas, colored, 22 years old, of 2330 I street northwest, witnesses told police. Johnson was taken to the hospital by Harry Bright, of 313 Lenworth place southwest, and George Hayes, 114 Maryland avenue northeast. Johnson's skull is believed to have been fractured.

plied criticism of the Hoover-appointed investigation.

Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois, made this observation:

"I was surprised to see the President give such heed and importance to the incident. I supposed the President would let his policies answer the accusations."

At the White House, Theodore Joslin, secretary, indicated the President wished to consider the matter closed and probably would have no more to say about it.

Bandit Killed by Police As Shots Fly in Crowd

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Quick death to one bandit and almost immediate arrest of his two companions culminated a running gun battle on a busy downtown street here today during which the roar of pistol shots sent pedestrains to cover and flying bullets struck and wounded three persons, one a woman.

RICHMOND CATHOLIC HOME IS DEDICATED

Services Draw Thousands to See Ritual Conducted by Hierarchy.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Thousands of visitors, many of them coming from a distance, today witnessed elaborate ceremonies of dedication at St. Joseph's Villa, Catholic orphanage made possible by a bequest of the late Maj. James Dooley, of Richmond.

With the largest gathering of the Catholic hierarchy ever assembled in the South in attendance, the chapel on the grounds was consecrated this morning with a lengthy ritual that has come down from Medieval times. Afterward thirteen processions, each escorting a bishop, moved to the other buildings on the spacious grounds, all of which were blessed simultaneously.

Speakers at a banquet following dedication of the $1,500,000 institution included the Rev. John Montgomery Cooper, D. D., of Catholic University; Bishop Andrew J. Brennan, of Richmond, and Mgr. Felix Kaup, rector of Sacred Heart Cathedral, the silver anniversary of which was celebrated yesterday.

Those attending included the papal legate, the most Rev. Fumasoni Biondi; 3 archbishops, 40 bishops, 3 abbots and several hundred clergy.

Following the banquet visiting prelates were taken to Rock Castle, where they were entertained tonight before leaving for their homes tomorrow.

Catholic Church Heads Of Nation Gather Here

Members of the hierarchy of the Catholic Church, gathered from all parts of the country, opened a series of meetings yesterday at the National Catholic Welfare Conference headquarters, 1312 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

The conferences will continue for a week and will be attended by 60 cardinals, archbishops and bishops, including His Eminece William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, and His Eminence, Patrick Cardinal Hayes, Archbishop of New York.

The administrative committee of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, central Catholic action body which carries on throughout the year a wide range of duties, met yesterday.

The group, which is made up of fourteen leaders of the church under the chairmanship of the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, Archbishop of San Francisco, received and reviewed departmental and bureau reports covering the activities of the conference during the preceding year.

The board of trustees of the Catholic University will meet at the school today. The present program now being carried on for the development of the university and increased financial support will be discussed.

Burroughs Body Votes To Join Election Study

A delegate from the Burroughs Citizens' Association will be named to work with a committee investigating feasibility of electing members to the board of education in the District of Columbia, it was decided last night at a meeing at John Burroughs School.

The association adopted a resolution urging a merger of the Northeast Suburban Bicentennial Committee and the Northeast Bicentennial Committee in preparing for the celebration. The secretary was instructed to write letters to secretaries of both committees to find sentiment on the matter.

me, it's great to be back where a fellow can talk to some people and can see a show now and then," said Paul Stachwick, aged 18, of Huron, S. Dak.

"It's swell to be in clothes." That's how Gordon Brawner, aged 21, Springfield, Ill., felt about it.

"Yeah, we're glad to be back," was the more conservative feeling of Elmer Palliser, 58, of San Diego, Calif.

Engulfed in Civilization.

The three sailed into port to find themselves virtually engulfed in the civilization for which they spent six months longing. Reporters fired questions at them, sound movie men gave them "gags" to speak into microphones, radio men waited at the pier with apparatus and business men gathered to discuss commercial propositions with the trio.

Ship's passengers, who crowded the promenade deck to gaze on the returned castaways—brought up for the first time from tourist second cabin—accepted the show in the spirit usually accorded a three-ring circus. They alternately laughed and applauded.

Later Mr. Brawner asked for details. After a conference with one of the business men who met them, Brawner reeled off the tale, the highlights of which were:

Story of Wreck Told.

The three put out in a 26-foot yawl last April from San Diego, Calif., to visit the coast of Panama and Columbia and to sail up the San Juan River in search of magazine material. After two weeks the high seas and steady winds battered their boat to the leaking stage.

They made for Cook's Island and tried to beach the yawl, but the waves battered it to pieces. Guns and some provisions were salvaged and they found the remnants of three rude huts on the island.

They lived on coconuts, wild boar and fruit. Their clothing rotted. It rained continuously. They got on each other's nerves. None commanded and it was "every man for himself." A fire was kept going at all times. It died thrice and had to be rebuilt, but fortunately their matches were in a waterproof tin.

A gunboat finally rescued them after their presence on the island had been discovered by the yachting party of Julius Fleischmann.

Dr. William F. Notz, dean of the Georgetown School of Foreign Service, addressing a meeting of the Torch Club at the Cosmos Club last night, told of his experiences in Europe during a recent trip which he made to study economic and political conditions.

GANDHI TO GO HOME; TRIP TO U. S. IS OFF

Mahatma Decides Meeting in London Must Fail; to Sail Nov. 29.

London, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi decided today the round table conference on Indian affairs is bound to fail, and announced he would sail for home November 29, ready to begin again his fight against British rule.

His decision means that it will be impossible for him to make his much-discussed visit to the United States; that, he said, is not the least regrettable feature about it.

"Neither the king nor Mr. MacDonald nor Lord Sankey has given me any tangible basis for hope that any of the Indian national demands will be granted," the Nationalist leader said.

"I feel that I'm wasting my time here, but I'm willing to say in London until the end of the conference, which I expect will come in a fortnight. Then nobody can accuse me of impatience."

He promised to make one final attempt to reach an agreement with the British authorities, but said he did not expect the "miracle which would save the conference from failure."

"I am afraid there are fiery days ahead," he asserted, "but no people ever won its liberty without suffering. Before I leave I shall go to the last extremity to avert the disaster which looms ahead. If I fail then I shall return to India with an absolutely clear conscience."

Although he has not won India's independence at the round table conference, Mr. Gandhi said he did not regret coming to England, since his two-months' stay here gave him an insight into the psychology of the British government and the British people.

Also, he explained, it enabled him to spread his message to Britons who received him in a friendly and tolerant spirit; his mission now is much better understood than it was before his visit.

"I shall be able to give the congress working committee a much better first-hand account of the real situation here than would have been possible had I remained in India," Mr. Gandhi added.

Before sailing from Genoa November 29, the mahatma plans to spend a day at Villaneuve, Switzerland, with his French admirer and biographer, Romain Rolland.

The part the President will play in opening the Olympic games in Los Angeles next August was discussed by Mr. Hoover and Charles N. Shirrill, of New York, a member of the international committee on the games.

The President already has agreed to attend the Los Angeles opening, but Shirrill said another formal invitation would be tended him to attend the winter sports which open soon at Lake Placid, New York.

Gandhi Is, to India, What St. Patrick Was to Irish

By JOHN J. DALY

NOW that the Indian National Congress has called him, asserting that the British government has failed to grant its demand for independence, the Mahatma Gandhi, hearing his "inner voice," will presumably gird up his loincloth and go back to the banks of the sacred Sbarmati River.

When Gandhi goes home, London may feel well rid of him, but all the rest of the world, whose imagination he fired, must needs know that something has gone out of its public life. Certainly, the comedians of America will not be able to sing any longer their songs of songs, "That's a feather in your hat, McGandy."

Mahatma Ghandi is a throw-back to the ancients. Just as Mussolini suggests Napoleon, present day Germany, the France after 1871, and the colonization methods of Great Britain recall those of ancient Rome, so Gandhi goes back to the doctrines of Marcus Aurelius Antoninus. Their careers paralleled, somewhat.

From their fathers they learned modesty and manliness.

From their mothers, piety and beneficence.

From Diognetus, not to bother themselves about trifles; but to adhere to the Grecian discipline—plank beds and skins, loin-cloths and togas.

* * * *

FROM Rusticus, not to be led astray by sophistic rivalry, or the art of diplomacy, nor be satisfied with a superficial understanding.

From Apollonius, freedom of will and an undeviating steadfastness of purpose, and to recognize nothing else except reason.

From Sextus, a benevolent disposition, the idea of living conformably to nature, and the possession of much knowledge without ostentation.

From Alexander, the follower of Plato, never to admit the loss of leisure.

From Severus, to love truth and justice, and the idea of government which respects most of all the freedom of the governed.

While the Limehouse district may lose Gandhi, Great Britain will not so easily get rid of the Indian problem. The old man has put the Indian sign on the British coat of arms, just abaft the Lion and the Unicorn.

Though their methods are all quite different, Gandhi is to India what St. Patrick was to Ireland, Joan D'Arc to France, and Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor, was to Germany.

Gandhi, leaving the second round-table conference, means simply that the round-table conference was getting nowhere, going round and round the round table—a merry-go-round. Talk, talk, talk.

* * * *

WELL, when the gentleman with a loin cloth and a goat gets back to Bom-Bom-Bay his work will have just begun, remembering that saying of Euripides: "One wise man's skill is worth a world in arms."

The Romans extended their empire beyond the shores of Italy. They conquered many other nations besides the Cartagenians, holding sway and setting up protectorates from the Pillars of Hercules to Mount Taurus and the Nile, but where now is the glory of Rome? This, naturally, is the reflection of the Mahatma as he walks down the Strand, with his prayer book in his hand, and makes reservations for a return trip to India.

The Man with a Mission is never quite content until the mission is accomplished, like the Phoenicians asking of the antagonistic Africans only enough land for a dwelling place, as they could encompass with an ox hide. Ashamed to deny so small a request, and also curious, the Africans agreed and confirmed the promise with an oath. The Phoenicians, cutting the hide round and round in one narrow strip, inclosed the place where the citadel of Carthage afterward stood; which from this affair was called Byrsa—a hide. It has the earmarks of Mr. Gandhi's method of dealing with Great Britain

Plane Cuts Record Time to Australia

Flier in Bantam Ship Clips Nearly 2 Hours From British Mark.

Port Darwin, Australia, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Flying one of the smallest airplanes in the world, wearing carpet slippers for comfort and carrying a tomahawk for a weapon, C. A. Butler, English aviator, landed at 4:25 p. m. today and set a new record for a flight from England to Australia.

Butler clipped 1 hour and 42 minutes off the previous record made by C. W. A. Scott, who covered the 13,187 miles in 9 days 4 hours and 11 minutes.

Butler left Lympne, England, at dawn October 31. He hoped to complete the flight in eight days, but was delayed in Burma and Batavia by adverse winds.

Quiet in Germany Marks Republic's Anniversary

Berlin, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The thirteenth anniversary of the founding of the German Republic passed quietly throughout the Reich today without known manifestations.

The Communist headquarters, Karl Liebksecht House, on the Buelowplatz, was liberally decorated with red flags, numerous wreaths bearing the old imperial colors were deposited on the memorial to the war dead. The Hitlerites decorated with Fascist emblems the graves of 200 members who have fallen in political fights during the eight years of the party's existence.

CLOSET CHILD CASE TO BE HEARD TODAY

Edith Riley to Leave Dolls to Tell Grand Jury of Imprisonment.

Postponement of grand jury hearings until today left 13-year-old Edith Riley free to enjoy her newly found world of toys and friends yesterday before testifying on a warrant charging her father and stepmother with keeping her captive in a dark cell-like closet for four years.

Meanwhile, Francis, her 15-year-old brother, who was responsible for her release Friday, went before Judge Kathryn Sellers yesterday asking that he be given a new home.

Judge Sellers of Juvenile Court was requested by Mrs. Ruby Brandt, policewoman, to adjudge the boy destitute of a suitable home and to award his custody to Francis' maternal grandmother.

Edith Once Perfectly Normal.

A full hearing of the case was scheduled for tomorrow morning and the boy was temporarily placed under care of the Board of Public Welfare.

Mrs. Anna Annadale, the grandmother, said yesterday she wished to take care of both Francis and Edith. They stayed with her for the first four years after their mother died in the influenza epidemic of 1919, she said.

That Edith was once a perfectly normal child was attested to by Mrs. Annadale. "Edith was normal, mentally and physically, when she left me," she said.

The grand jury investigation of child-cruelty charges against the girl's parents will begin at 10:30 this morning, Assistant United States Attorney John A. Fitzpatrick said. Both are under $2,500 bond, which was set in Police Court Saturday at the preliminary hearing.

Complaint Made 5 Years Ago.

Lax administration of the Board of Public Welfare was blamed by Lieut. Mina Van Winkle for treatment of Edith.

"Women's Bureau records show that more than five years ago the relatives complained that the child was being mistreated. A representative of the board and a policewoman investigated at that time. It was decided that court action was necessary. Why the Welfare Board did not carry on the case then I do not know," the Women's Bureau head stated.

Edith, at Gallinger Hospital, is seeking the pleasures of a childhood, long denied. In a flower-filled room, surrounded by a host of dolls, gifts from Washingtonians who read of her sorrowful existence, she is learning to smile.

Club Pays Honor to Air Victim.

The Advertising Club of Washington has canceled its regular weekly meeting scheduled today, as a tribute to Elmer V. Smith, advertising manager of the Washington Herald, killed last week in an airplane crash at Camden, N. J., President Howard W. Berry announced last night.

CLOSET GIRL FINDS PLAYMATE

A new playmate was found by Edith Riley at Gallinger Hospital where she was taken by police who accuse her father and stepmother of keeping her for four years in a small closet. Her new friend is Russell Barker, 10 years old, a red-haired youth who understands misfortune. He has been deaf many years.

HARRISON VISIONS CONTROL OF SENATE BY DEMOCRATS

candidate for the Speakership with Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, and Representative Snell, of New York, two of the outstanding contenders.

On the other hand, the contest in Democratic ranks for floor leader is as keen as the tug-of-war among Republicans for a Speakership nominee.

Garner Unopposed for Speaker.

Among those who have strong support for the floor job are Representatives Rainey (Democrat), Illinois; Byrns, of Tennessee; McDuffie, of Alabama; Rankin, of Mississippi, and Crisp, of Georgia.

Friends of Ayres, of Kansas, have suggested him as a compromise candidate.

The Democrats will decide upon their leader when they caucus here December 5. Garner, of Texas, so far has no announced opponents for the Speakership.

The Republicans have a plurarity of one in the Senate, but the tendency of the Democrats and Western Independent Republicans to join on important issues have made their control a flimsy thing in the past.

Senator Lewis said that no Democrats now before the country for the Presidency "mean anything beyond the suggestion." He added that issues he expected to come to the fore were those surrounding "the money question, which will take the form of revising the banking laws, putting the Government more effectively behind the depositor."

Lewis Sees Hope in Moore.

The situation in New York State, the Illinois senator said, presented the suggestion that Mr. Young, with his strong financial support; former Gov. Smith, with strong Tammany and factional support, and Gov. Roosevelt, with his organization support, should all be put aside on the ground that a controversy among themselves would mean distractions in New York and imperil success."

By stopping across the river, he added, the Democrats would have an Eastern candidate in the "newly elected Gov. Moore, whom they will present as another Wilson, suggesting for the second place on the ticket an agricultural Western or Southern man."

In addition to the land policy, Representative Rainey said, the Democrats "ought to adopt a policy for conservation of water power also along the lines sponsored in New York by Gov. Roosevelt." He suggested the Government control the Boulder Canyon Dam and Muscle Shoals power projects to protect the consumer.

The levying of a gift tax and increases in the estate and income taxes in the higher brackets were also proposed by Mr. Rainey.

Granting the reparations moratorium to Germany, he said, "has permitted Germany to steal from the United States our Russian trade and Russia is our fourth best customer."

"Germany is giving credit to Russia to get business with our money," he said.

Import Duty Bill.

Rainey advocated a bill "drastically reducing our import duties, including a clause providing that the new low rates shall not become effective until a foreign nation adopts them."

Under his plan, the tariff commission would be authorized to call action of foreign governments to the attention of the President, who would be required to proclaim the low rates in effect here.

Rainey said that "in this way we might precipitate world-wide lowering of tariffs." He said the United States foreign trade had declined $5,000,000,000 in 1930, and would fall off more than that this year due to the Republican tariff acts and retaliatory levies imposed by foreign countries.

Representative Sabath, of Illinois, another Democrat of more than 25 years service, said he would renew his efforts to obtain legislation to outlaw short selling of commodities and securities. He declared that 50 professional short sellers were responsible for the beating down of the prices of grain and securities in the last two years.

Sabath said that President Hoover and Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, had ignored his appeal two years ago for support of his legislation but "now realize how necessary it is."

Democrats Plan to Bar Granata From Voting

(United Press.)

Democrats hope to increase their margin of control in the House of Representatives from three to four votes by forcing Peter C. Granata (Republican), of Chicago, to stand aside until the contest against his election is settled.

This development and word that Democrats are planning a joint Senate and House conference to decide on political and legislative action, gave increasing evidence yesterday that the party will act independently to control the House.

Representative Adolph J. Sabath (Democrat), Illinois, said that it has been virtually decided to force Granata to stand aside, in view of charges of illegality made against his election. Charges have been made that gangsters, including those of the Alphonse Capone gang, were active in Granata's district on election day.

Sabath recalled that a few weeks ago a notary public recounted the ballots as provided under Illinois law and with all contestable ballots laid aside, including several thousand for the Democrat, this count left the Democrat, former Representative Stanley Kunz, victor by several hundred. Granata was awarded the victory by the Republican State administration.

Democratic strategists found a precedent for standing Granata aside, while allowing two other contested representatives to vote, in the case of Representative-elect Roberts, of Utah, an admitted polygamist. In this case many years ago, Roberts was not allowed to vote on organization of the Congress.

Dr. Learned Left Estate of $55,000

No Will Found, Widow Asks Letters of Administration.

An estate of approximately $55,000 in securities, and a small savings account was left by Dr. H. Barrett Learned, former president of the Board of Education, when he died suddenly in California October 12.

Dr. Learned's widow yesterday informed the District Supreme Court that she could find no will, though she had searched for one. The widow, Mrs. Emily Cheney Learned, asked that letters of administration of the estate be issued to her.

Besides Mrs. Learned, who resides at 2123 Bancroft place northwest, there are four adult children. They are John Learned and Horace Learned, of South Manchester, Conn.; Frank C. Learned, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Emily B. Learned, of this city. All of them consented to the appointment of their mother as administrator. Attorneys Howe and Bradley filed the petition.

Appellate Court Cuts Ice Firm's Judgment

Colonial Ice Cream and Zero Products, Inc., yesterday saw the Court of Appeals halve a decision of the District Supreme Court awarding it $1,588.04 from the Southland Ice Utilities Corporation, of Richmond, for an "accounting and judgment."

The appellate court held with the lower court as to liability but differed over the manner in which the amount was determined. The court cut the decision to $721.80, disallowing $866.24.

Fairfax Chamber to Meet.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the Courthouse. The proposal of the State Superintendent of Education, Dr. Sidney B. Hall, to increase the State appropriation for the support of local schools $2,000,000 a year will be discussed.

HOOVER IS INVITED TO ARMISTICE FETE

Veterans of Foreign Wars Receive President's Letter Commending Jubileee.

A personal invitation to President Hoover to attend the Armistice jubilee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the Washington Auditorium tomorrow night was extended by Representative Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, and Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, new chief of Washington's police force, in a visit to the White House yesterday.

President Hoover took the invitation under advisement, but did not indicate whether or not he would attend the celebration in which the hall will be decorated to reproduce scenes in Paris, Nice and Monte Carlo on the memorable night of November 11, thirteen years ago. In a letter which he wrote yesterday to Charles B. Jennings, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, President Hoover sent his greetings to the veterans, but was noncommittal about acceptance of the invitation. He wrote:

"Will you please present my cordial greetings to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and my best wishes for the success of the Armistice Day jubilee and pageant for the relief of disabled and needy former service men? It is a cause close to the hearts of us all, and I hope that the occasion will yield resources commensurate with the need."

Services at Wilson's Tomb.

The Woodrow Wilson Armistice Day committee of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation has arranged for its usual services at Wilson's tomb at 3:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will deliver the address, and flowers will be placed on the tomb by 4-year-old William B. Davis, son of Maj. and Mrs. John F. Davis.

Several local posts of the American Legion also will place wreaths on the Wilson tomb in Bethlehem Chapel, at Washington Cathedral, at the same hour, and the ceremonies will be broadcast over the national network of the Columbia Broadcasting Co. Gen. Pershing is expected to attend.

Although other duties will not permit him to visit Walter Reed Hospital tomorrow, Gen. Pershing has arranged a special program of entertainment for the disabled veterans through cooperation of the RKO-Keith Theater.

Pershing Books Shows.

Gen. Pershing has arranged for a showing at the hospital of Seth Parker and his Jonesport neighbors in their first motion picture, "Way Back Home," and also for exhibition of a Floyd Gibbons subject, "Turn of the Tide," depicting events in the World War that led to the final defeat of Germany.

Frederic A. Delano, a trustee of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, will preside at a meeting of the endowment in the auditorium of the National Press Club tomorrow evening.

Addresses will be delivered by Huston Thompson, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, and Frederic R. Coudert, of New York, well-known international lawyer. There also will be a musical entertainment program.

A joint meeting of the Sisterhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation and the Council of Jewish Women will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Eighth Street Temple. Charles G. Ross, correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, will talk on disarmament and other national and international matters.

Fox Theater Strike Looms in Missouri

Conspiracy Is Charged by Union President in Telegram.

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A telegram ordering a strike at the Fox Theater here Friday and announcing a walkout at all Fox Theaters elsewhere was received today by Martin Kirchner, local union secretary, from William F. Canavan, of New York, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators.

The telegram says the move was forced by a conspiracy against the Kansas City operators' union by the Fox West Coast Corporation.

Kansas City, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—E. C. Rhoden, Midwest division manager of Fox West Coast theaters, said here today that he knew nothing of any trouble with motion picture operators that would cause withdrawal of union operators from Fox theaters.

Officials of the local operators' union declined to reveal whether they had received instructions to strike November 13.

addresses at any of the mass meetings held in the coal fields last week by the Dreiser committee, and to return indictments if they were justified.

The author in coming here had telegraphed Gov. Fiem D. Samson and other officials saying he would test the right of free speech in the coal fields and demanded protection. Gov. Samson sent two National Guard officers with them.

Judge Jones told the grand jury the committee came into the coal fields seeking publicity and to write books in order to "capitalize on the poor miners," and to "dupe them into joining some communistic organization."

"If I had been governor," he continued, and they had asked me for a military escort, I would have placed the National Guard at the Ohio River to see that Dreiser and his gang did not cross into Kentucky."

He said the committee members were "not entitled to the protection of the Constitution they seek to destroy," and added:

"If the coal miners knew the real truth, they would be the first to form a mob and deliver these radicals to the State line and tell them to keep out."

The announced purpose of the committee named by the author of "An American Tragedy" was to inquire into reports that a "reign of terror" had cowed the striking miners, as well as to test the right of free speech and free assembly. Several mass meetings were held and Commonwealth's Attorney W. A. Brock, who has been active in prosecuting miners charged with murder and other offenses, was among those who appeared before the committee. He told its members Communist agents had been primarily responsible for clashes with deputies last summer.

Miners and their sympathizers told the committee the county officials had terrorized them in behalf of the coal operators and that wives and children of many men indicted were near starvation. A score of miners are awaiting trial on murder indictments and numerous others were indicted on charges of violating the criminal syndicalism law.

Bristol, Va.-Tenn., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A denial of a charge of adultery, which led a Kentucky judge to recommend a grand jury investigation of his activities, was made here tonight by Theodore Dreiser in a statement given out by Bruce Crawford, a friend.

"You may say that it is useless for Bell County (Kentucky) to spend much needed money investigating me," said Dreiser.

OIL STATION HOLDUP SUSPECT LIBERATED

Victims in $200 Hyattsville Robbery Fail to Identify Him as One of Trio.

A colored man who was being held for investigation was released and another one was sought for questioning last night as Prince Georges County police investigated the robbery of an oil station early yesterday morning when three men made away with loot of nearly $200.

Henry Newton, of North Brentwood, gave himself up to police yesterday after his lawer, J. Wilson Ryon, had heard he was wanted. Several victims of the robbery, however, failed to identify Newton and he was released. Police may question the owner of the car used by the three holdup men. He came to Hyattsville yesterday to get his car and explained that it had been stolen from him in Washington before the robbery. The three men wanted in this oil station job are thought to have been responsible for the robbery of the Maryland Tourist Camp, at Muirkirk, last week.

The trio entered the Moran station on Rhode Island avenue and took $135 from Hartwell H. Hodges, a mechanic; $35 from R. T. Kivett, of Hyattsville; 40 cents from Kivett's brother, Edward, and $10 and a watch worth $60 from Horace Snowden, also of Hyattsville. They overlooked $46 which Edward Kivett had in another pocket.

The three holdup men took alarm when they heard the brakes of an auto screeching outside the station and fled in their automobile. Cecil P. Moran, owner of the station, who had been notified by telephone, recognized the men by their description, in another part of town, and pursued them, but lost them when they leaped from the machine and fled on foot.

Before the Moran holdup the men had entered the oil station of William I. Iaager and the Neitzey Brothers, on Queens Chapel road, near Hyattsville. In one of the places they asked for an inner tube, which they also requested in Moran's station, and in another asked for cider. No attempt to rob the first two places entered was made.

A habeas corpus writ, seeking to compel his wife's parents to produce in court his 3-year-old daughter, Charlotte June Eaton, was sought yesterday by Parlay W. Eaton, of Takoma Park, Md., who complained that the couple now have the child.

The suit alleges that the mother of the baby is now in Gallinger Hospital. Two other children are with the father, and he asks that his young daughter be committed to his care likewise.

Piney Branch Citizens Delay Election Month

Annual election of officers, scheduled last night at a meeting of the Piney Branch Citizens Association in Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, was postponed until next meeting because of refusal of E. B. Henderson, president, to accept another term in office.

Mr. Henderson declared his health would not permit him to consider re-election either as president or as a delegate to the Federation of Citizens Associations. A special nominating committee was appointed to list candidates for election next month. The organization adopted a resolution opposing appointment of nonresidents to serve in District public schools.

DEMOCRACY OR SOCIALISM?

There is no more important question before the American people, said Senator William H. King, of Utah, in a recent address, than that involved in the preservation of the States in all their vigor and power. The depression has accentuated the tendency of the people to distrust local and State agencies and look to the Federal Government for aid. Politicians anxious to cater to the passing whims of their constituents are ready to ignore the rights and duties of the States and ask Congress to extend its bureaucratic power. Unless the States themselves are on guard and unless they impress upon their representatives the importance of preserving a balance of power between State and Federal governments, their constitutional rights will be placed in jeopardy during the coming session of Congress.

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland is among the prominent Democrats who have taken up this theme. In a radio address on Sunday he called upon the people to halt the Government's march toward a "system of bureaucracy which comes very near to tyranny." With Senator King he believes that the States are being weakened and devitalized, while the army of Federal office holders grows five times as fast as the population.

Projects to launch Uncle Sam upon a business career arouse special indignation in Gov. Ritchie. He said:

> No provision in the United States Constitution even remotely contemplates the Government engaging in business. Nothing of the kind was dreamed of. If any such right or authority were ever to be needed, its exercise was reserved for State and local governments.

Senator King directed his attention specifically to the demoralizing influence of Federal subsidies to the States. He said:

> It is a melancholy spectacle to see individuals, local communities and States come with cap in hand and beg the Federal Government to accept precious rights and powers which belong to them and which they are eager to surrender. Subsidies and gifts and bounties given to the States by the Federal Government, are, in part, responsible for the weakening of the States, and the growing authority of the Federal Government.

Here are two stalwart Democrats laying down a challenge to their party. Traditionally the Democrats are opposed to centralization and bureaucracy. But recently the party has yielded to the pressure of radicals who want to put the Government in the power business, to subsidize agriculture and to support unfortunate citizens out of the Federal Treasury. Conservative leaders are making an earnest effort to swing the party back into line with the philosophy of its founders, while the radicals move on toward socialism.

The Democratic party must meet this issue. If it departs from the fundamentals for which it has stood for more than a century, it will forfeit the support of many stalwart members. As a whole the American people are vigorously opposed to the extension of bureaucracy and the participation of the Government in business. If the party which claims to champion the rights of the individual and of the States is willing to sacrifice those rights for the sake of applying quack legislative remedies to a temporary situation, it can not hope to maintain its hold upon the electorate. The coming session of Congress will doubtless determine whether the party intends to substitute opportunism for the principles of democracy.

EUROPE'S TRIPLETS.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, has returned from a tour of Europe with very gloomy tidings. Fifteen years after the "war to end war" he found Europe "an armed camp." The only thing that prevents the outbreak of actual war, the senator says, is the inability of the nations to finance another extensive military engagement.

In Senator Wheeler's opinion a set of spunky triplets are giving Europe most of its trouble. He names them Armaments, Trade Barriers and War Debts. The antics of these brats lead Senator Wheeler to question "whether capitalism throughout the world can survive." Meager press reports of the senator's views did not give details as to what he intends to prescribe for this unruly trio. In general, however, he advocates a trimming for Armaments and Trade Barriers. It is intimated that he believes the same type of discipline would be good for War Debts.

Apparently Senator Wheeler has made no attempt to scrutinize the characteristics of these three bad boys, as the modern psychologists do. If he had given them mental and physical examinations, he would not have spoken of them in the same breath. It is apparent to any keen observer that Armaments has been taking all the cream from the European breakfast table, thereby restricting War Debts to a meager diet, and that Trade Barriers has been furnishing a great deal of the sustenance for both of them. France will testify to that.

Nevertheless Europe is constantly demanding relief from the mischievous pranks of War Debts. In reality the child is too puny to cause much distress. On the other hand, Armaments can clutch at his mother's throat and threaten her life, but she never complains. This imp is her angel boy and she is willing to work her finger-ends off for him without protesting against his brutality. So Armaments continues to starve the other children until their lives are in danger, and then pleads with America to save them from distress.

Senator Wheeler returning from his visit to this unhappy family is convinced that Armaments would go to war any minute if he could extort enough money from his family and neighbors. The senator must have learned how Armaments keeps the family coffers empty, and reduces his mother to the verge of bankruptcy. Yet he suggests further sacrifices on the part of that unoffending youngster whose middle name is Tariffs to improve the economic status of the European family. Let the senator himself explain how he would prevent that incorrigible imp, Armaments, from laying hands upon this proposed gift from Tariffs to start the war which the senator so much dreads.

TURNING TO PROSPERITY.

Indications that the depression is on the wane come from many sources and improvement is evident in many lines. Generalities regarding conditions are readily uttered and difficult to disprove, just as prejudiced and pessimistic reports are frequently hard to controvert. But there can be no doubt about the country now being on the upgrade when facts begin to take the place of opinion. It is interesting to note the actual plus signs that are being recorded. The following items are taken from the news reports of a single day.

Youngstown, Ohio—With steel producers and workmen alike cheered by increasing orders, the Mahoning Valley Steel Mills were operating today at the highest rate in two months.

New York—The recovery in wheat was supplemented by the extraordinarily rapid rise in foreign bonds, and they in turn by the unquestionably emphatic upward movement in many of the domestic bonds. These three recoveries indicate a change in three characteristic fields. Transactions affecting the monetary gold stocks of the country last week were noteworthy for the complete reversal of the outward movement that had been in progress since Great Britain suspended the gold standard on September 21. On every business day a net gain of gold was reported. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended October 24 showed an increase of 7,954 cars over the previous week. Retail sales showed a marked improvement, and the movement of goods was more favorable than during any week in recent months.

Detroit—Tool making and machinery plants are busy now in preparation for the new models, and this activity will soon be transplanted to the motor car and parts makers. Much employment is assured in making sufficient stock for dealers.

Los Angeles—Substantial improvement in a number of basic activities was shown in this region in October with others holding steady. Employment is now at the highest point since last March.

Richmond—There has been a noticeable improvement in retail trade. Feeling in the district has taken a change for the better and more money is coming into circulation through the marketing of staple crops.

Dallas, Tex.—Cooler weather, advances in oil and wheat prices and loosening of credits have brought about a much better feeling in this district. Improvement is reported in practically all lines of merchandise.

Fort Worth, Tex.—The average increase of 15 cents a barrel for crude oil posted in the midcontinent and Southwest last week added $13,189,850 to the monthly income of producers in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico.

Minneapolis—The improvement in the price of wheat has injected new life into many lines of trade and created a more hopeful tone for business throughout the Northwest.

Scranton, Pa.—Increased demand for anthracite and a marked improvement in the silk industry have resulted in better working time for thousands of men and women in this vicinity.

Charleston, S. C.—There is evidence of reviving confidence and a real promise of improvement in agriculture and industry in South Carolina. Determination to curtail the cotton acreage next year has put upon the farmers the necessity of diversification, a practice which has been under way for the past few years and is evidencing impressive results.

St. Louis—Wholesale houses and small stores in towns have begun to buy as their stocks were depleted. The impact of this buying has been felt and many other lines report a sharp pick-up.

San Francisco—The impression grows on the Pacific Coast that conditions are turning for the better.

Chicago—Business sentiment has sharply changed for the better, based on the firmness of commodity prices. The advance in wheat is due to fundamental causes and not to speculation. Higher grain prices are of unusual importance to the farmer because 60 per cent of the 1931 crops still remain on the farms.

London—There are signs everywhere that British industry is getting out of the rut. There are especially increased activities in iron, steel, textiles and engineering, which have been long depressed.

More genuine optimism is shown in the trade reports last week to Bradstreet's from 50 leading centers than for a long time.

Philadelphia—Business and financial conditions in this district show a better tone with pessimism dying out.

Atlanta, Ga.—Business conditions in the Southeast continue on the upgrade. Merchants are stocking up for the Christmas season. There is a feeling of confidence that the present recovery will lead to an early return to normal.

President Buckner, of the National Credit Corporation, reports that the $500,000,000 capital will be oversubscribed, but so far not a single bank has applied for a loan.

Production of electricity by the light and power industry of the country rose during the last week of October to within 5 per cent of last year's record.

This extensive evidence of better conditions can not be disputed.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

For the first time since the Philippine Islands came under control of the United States the Filipino politicians have openly abandoned their plea for "immediate, absolute and complete independence." In unanimously approving the report of Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, the Nationalist party caucus sidetracked its demands and gave notice that it is ready to negotiate for independence on a practical basis. This is the nearest approach that has yet been made to a meeting of minds between the United States and the Filipino leaders.

Senator Quezon concluded that the closing of the American market to Philippine products when the islands are already distressed by the depression would mean the death of industry and commerce. "It would not be right," he contends, "to submit our people to such a situation." He has launched a movement to "harmonize the people's high ideals with the circumstances."

Only that romantic rebel, Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, has accused Manuel Quezon of betraying the Filipino cause. With his usual gusto the general demands that the Philippines be allowed to commit suicide if they want to. But the great body of politicians are more sagacious, in spite of their pretended indifference to economic problems when independence has been discussed. Besides approving Senator Quezon's plan, they refused to accept his resignation and gave him an overwhelming vote of confidence.

Senator Quezon's independence plan is of no practical importance. It is not to be supposed that the solution of the Philippine question will emanate from Manila. The Filipino senator's first suggestion of immediate independence with free trade for ten years is obviously absurd. He is putting the cart before the horse. President Hoover insists that the islands must be economically independent before the political tie is severed, and Congress may be expected to take the same view. The alternative Quezon plan for advanced autonomy during a preparatory period is largely a duplication of bills that have already been introduced in Congress. If Filipino leaders are ready to accept such an arrangement for gradual economic separation they have taken a long step toward ultimate independence.

The important development is that the Filipino independence party is willing to discuss the matter on a practical basis. Senator Quezon has recommended that a delegation be sent to Washington immediately with full plenary power to select the most advantageous proposal Congress is willing to make. Apparently this recommendation will be approved by the Legislature.

The senator also counsels his countrymen not to convey the impression that they seek freedom because they are hostile to the United States. He has learned that the American people are friendly and that they do not resent the Filipino's aspirations. If the delegation comes to Washington with that attitude and is willing to face facts some progress may be made looking to the economic independence of the islands as a step toward complete independence.

A maple tree in Maine has been yielding sap for more than 100 years. Some family trees have been producing saps for centuries.

If there is anything dry leaders dislike, it is a well-oiled political machine.

ROQUEFORT IS ROQUEFORT

From the Boston Transcript.

"Charles the Sixth, King of France, come into court!" That, in effect, was the summons uttered the other day in a court in southern France. "How come?" we may say. King Charles the Sixth, as we perceive by a momentary glance at the encyclopedia, was born in 1368 and died in 1422. Yet Charles answered the summons of the French court—answered it through an edict which he issued before another edict from a higher throne than his cut off forever his sadly waning intelligence. It was an interesting legal question—the one upon which King Charles' testimony, as originally given in his edict, was required. It was the question, "When is Roquefort cheese Roquefort cheese?" And the answer is, "When it is made, as King Charles decreed it should be, from the milk of ewes." And the legal effect to the testimony is to prevent the manufacture of any cheese, having the right to call itself "Roquefort," from cows' milk.

M. le. President de la Cour de Cassation, who hears and heeds this bit of royal testimony from the fifteenth century, is a Daniel come to judgment. Roquefort is a little village in Aveyron, in southern France. It lies among those strange and quite barren plateaus called the Causses, where, under a rigorous climate, nothing grows but a very scrubby sort of grass, which was never capable of supporting any other four-legged creatures except marmots and sheep. But long ago it was discovered that the wiry grasses of the Lanzac Causse produced, in the udders of the gentle sheep that browsed there, a quality of milk which, out of curds ripened in caves, yielded a most excellent cheese. Roquefort is a little place, but it is the center of the making of this pungent, most palatable, and quite unduplicated cheese. No animal but the sheep can produce it, no sheep but the sheep of the Lanzac plateau can yield the sort of milk that makes it, and no caves but those of Roquefort have in them just the right sort of "bugs" to ripen the product to the royal taste.

Ours is a degenerate age. Mass production, quantity production, has taken the place of quality production. The gentle sporadic ewe of Roquefort offers no medium for mass production. But the all-pervasive, ubiquitous cow does. The French industrialist sees a chance to blanket little Roquefort with a false Roquefort that might be produced anywhere in the world. But here steps in French justice, with King Charles the Sixth and his edict that plainly says "ewes" and says no to this proposition. It is a triumph of quality over quantity.

POST HASTE.

Russia's pacific protests are as convincing as Japan's.

Japan intimates that it will be easier to bluff her way out of the League of Nations than out of Manchuria.

Silver is at last getting a break. Sensible advocates plan a general expansion of its monetary and commercial use instead of urging governments to establish an artificial price 100 per cent above its value.

Chairman Raskob's $2,000 "minute men" are handicapped by the bookie's demand for the first "grand" to pay for the dead horse before they can bet the other on the next race.

"Peiping is calm," says a late dispatch. But "Peiping times of peace" are about the only ones left in China.

The Indian National Congress advises Gandhi to come home and asks the people of India to "prepare for united effective action." If Hindus and Moslems could do that India would have had autonomous government long ago.

Are some nations too big? China's 400,000,000 can not even reconcile internal differences to oppose a common enemy.

Kansas, the geographical center of the United States, is reported to feel perfectly secure even in view of the Navy slash.

Italy doesn't really care what the other nations think, but she wants France to hear Sig. Grandi talking just as loud in Washington as M. Laval.

Al Smith discourages an admirer who wants to raise a campaign fund for him from 32,000,000 voters at $1 each. Raskob's plan is small change.

Only those will be allowed to join the Democratic campaign fund drive who "are willing to devote time, money and militant service" to restore Jeffersonian ideals. Pass iron helmets to collect the iron men.

Abandonment of politics in the next Congress will be just like Japan's evacuation of Manchuria.

The Farm Board now makes money on its wheat deal with China, but that coffee swap with Brazil—well, you've heard about Portuguese traders.

The half billion raised to loan banks and the half billion rise in wheat value came right together, but the farmers have the advantage that they don't have to pay theirs back.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THOMAS ALVA EDISON.

Impossible was king when he was born;
Man feared to dare beyond his outer wall;
The world was large, the space of man was small,
Life followed paths the cattle feet had worn;
Progress and thought, like travelers forlorn
Had halted by the wayside; over all
The world grey dullness settled like a pall
And genius, shackled, woke to greet the morn.
Against this tyrant of the human mind
Whose subjects live forever in the past,
Courageously his daring dreams he cast,
Toiled day and night the better way to find,
Broke barriers down, and by the works he wrought
Made possible the miracles of thought.

You Can't Judge Medicine by the Way a Proud Man Takes It.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A young senator once asked an older one how a man in his position could make some money "on the side." The older man, realizing that the other was willing to capitalize any influence he might possess answered scornfully: "You can't find a buyer until you have something to sell."

Many people keep their honor intact only because they have no opportunity to dispose of it profitably. They are "poor but honest" because they don't know how to make a fortune dishonestly.

These are the ones who say, in plaintive bitterness: "What's the use of being square? The crooks are the ones who get rich. That old story about virtue being rewarded and evil punished is all hooey. Look at So-and-so. He's the worst crook in this town and everything he touches turns to money."

He means to give the impression that he also might be rich if he had no scruples, but he succeeds only in confession that he would get rich by questionable means if he knew how.

His theory, however, is as unsound as his character. He fools himself by assuming that money is sufficient recompense for the loss of everything else.

As a matter of fact, money is important only when you haven't got it. Never yet has it satisfied the longing for friends, health, a clear conscience or the world's good opinion.

Men don't trick their God. What they sow they reap. And the man who sells his soul has ample reason to repent of his bargain.

You may envy the rich man, but what do you know of his secret shames and longings? Such men don't make a show of their sorrows any more than you do.

If you think there is no Nemesis to make men pay for their sins here and now, you know little of human hearts.

The rich gangster would give all of his wealth to walk the streets again without dread; the man who won wealth by betraying his friends would give it all for friends he could trust; the rogue who defrauded widows and orphans would pay a great price if he could fall asleep without drinking to silence his conscience.

Men pay for what they get and the way they get it. There is nothing miraculous about it. The harvest is a harvest of thistles because that is the only kind of crop thistle seed can produce.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Democratic Leadership.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

Destined to organize and lead the House of Representatives, the Democratic party faces a real challenge in the character of its leadership. Of 35 principal committees, the chairmen of 26 will be from Southern States, unless the historic rule of seniority should be discarded. Not only will Southern Democrats control 26 committees, but all important committees and the Speakership are included in this number.

Admitting that the South is the bulwark of strength of the Democratic party, even after Mr. Hoover's invasion of Dixie in 1928, there is no reason why the control of legislation should be vested exclusively in the South. If the Democrats intend to enter the 1932 campaign as a national party with a national program and national leadership they must set the precedent when Congress meets and assure that the leadership of the House is national and not sectional.

A Remedy for Primary Evils.
Springfield Union.

Undoubtedly Republicans are hampered more than are the Democrats by the baneful effects of direct primaries, which too often beget feeling and lose votes. But that evil effect can be largely overcome by a perfected organization on a constantly working basis, seeking for strong candidates, getting them and then supporting them, rather than taking the risks of primary fights or, after taking those risks, taking others either by not voting or by voting for candidates of the other party.

Acid Joy.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Democrats probably will organize the House, which is, no doubt, the cause of happiness in many Republican congressional homes.

Roosevelt's Victory.
Atlanta Constitution.

The action of the New York voters on Tuesday, on the constitutional amendment to enable the State to reforest abandoned farm lands, carries a lesson.

Gov. Franklin Roosevelt fostered the amendment and asked the voters to ratify it. For some reason sufficient to himself former Gov. Al Smith opposed the amendment and from that fact the politicians and newspapers of a sort, and principally of the Republican sort, sought to agitate the voters of the State, and influence political opinion over the country, that Smith and Roosevelt had broken amicable relations and Smith was bent on queering the all too evident Roosevelt boom for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A Democratic Dilemma.
Atlanta Constitution.

The practical certainty now that the Democrats will organize the Federal House of Representatives brings to the front circumstances of unavoidable embarrassment to the party.

No part of the embarrassment will arise from the election of John Nance Garner to the Speakership. He is the third longest in service in the House, entering now upon his fifteenth continuous term; thoroughly equipped by talents and experience for the duties of the office, and the popular choice of his Democratic and Republican colleagues alike. That he will make an expert and safe guide for the House in its present parlous condition is believed on both sides.

Not in the Duce's Class.
Dayton News.

That Gov. Long of Louisiana has been having so much trouble trying to hold two jobs must seem rather funny to Mr. Mussolini.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Highway Bridge Traffic Jam Caused by Lack of Police Supervision.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Lack of police supervision at the District end of the Highway Bridge is primarily responsible for the huge traffic jam that tied up thousands of automobiles for more than two hours Sunday afternoon. Had police been stationed at the bridge approach, to keep motorists in not more than two southbound lanes at the time the draw was opened to allow passage of a barge about 4 p. m., the resultant confusion would have been eliminated, and directly the bridge had been reopened traffic would have been enabled to continue an orderly procession in both directions.

Due to the lack of supervision, as soon as the bridge was closed automobiles assembled in a solid southbound mass extending in five or six lanes covering the entire width of the bridge and complicated by waiting electric cars in the center of the span. As the draw again swung into position the cars farthest to the left, then directly in the path of northbound traffic, attempted to swing to the right, but were prevented by the stream of cars moving along the correct lanes. This latter group, having reached the intersection of the Military road and the lower Alexandria highway, were in turn held up by cars unable to proceed because of the blocking of the bridge at the District end by automobiles that had violated traffic laws, due to the absence of traffic direction.

Only by the efforts of Virginia police at the road intersection, who by Herculean efforts effected an infiltration of north and south bound traffic, were the two lines finally placed in motion.

The "bottle neck" caused by the trolley pits at the District end of the Highway Bridge always presents a traffic problem, and usually one lone policeman is stationed at this point. On Sunday no District officer was observed at this point or on the bridge spans, when a barge proceeding downstream caused the draw to be swung open. Later a number of police officers were dispatched to the scene to supervise the clearing up of a situation that need never have occurred.

Tammany Wins Because It Gives New Yorkers What They Want. Voters Would Not Punish the Innocent to Hit the Guilty.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial "Tammany Wins" is a wee bit biased and unfair, a charge that can rarely be registered against The Post. It is manifest that Tammany won because an overwhelming majority of the voters of New York wanted Tammany to win. The logical conclusion to be drawn from the result is that the average voter of New York City is intelligent and discriminating. He refuses to hearken to the "lowbrow" argument, "Punish the innocent for the sins of the guilty."

Any one who is acquainted with the affairs of New York City knows that Tammany gives to New York the kind of government that New Yorkers want. This is intelligence and efficiency as applied to government. In the last presidential election we heard the boisterous and lowbrow cry, "punish Hoover because he was a member of the Harding administration." In other words, these gentlemen would crucify Hoover, not for any evil that could be laid at the door of Hoover, but for the delinquencies of somebody else.

This is neither good Americanism nor good Christianity. The overwhelming election of Hoover clearly shows that the American electorate did not hearken to this insensate cry for vengeance on the innocent. Judas was the monumental betrayer—but Peter et al. were not punished for the great sin of Judas.

Dog Lover Who May or May Not Be Suffering From Inferiority Complex Would Like to Know Under What Complexes John Held, Jr., Labors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Boston Transcript quotes John Held, jr., as saying: "Dog lovers are people with inferiority complexes. Everyone has to be important to something and it's easy to be important to a dog."

Now, like countless others, I have always cherished a deep affection for dogs, and all dumb animals, for that matter, and may or may not, as the cartoonist suggests, be suffering from an inferiority complex; although I never knew a dog lover to regard his pet's adoration and loyalty from the viewpoint of self-importance.

However, as a book lover as well as a dog lover, after reading his narrative, "Women Are Necessary," and some of his other stories our magazines have gone to the patience of publishing, it might be very interesting to know just what type of complexes could be responsible for inducing Mr. Held, jr., to suppose that he possesses literary as well as artistic talents.

LEW[illegible]ssee in Triangle M[illegible]ins Value Review

Court Holds Repairs Made on Property Should Be Taken Into Account.

The lease of Royal H. Carlock on the premises at 406 Thirteenth street northwest, which was condemned and taken over by the Government in the building program, is of a certain value and he should be paid for the termination of it eight years before its expiration, the District Court of Appeals held yesterday.

Carlock's lease was made on the basis of repairs that he was to make to the building, and the court held that, once these repairs were made, Carlock was entitled to some consideration if he was prevented from benefiting by them.

The condemnation jury decided that the lease was of no value and when the Government took over the land no payment was made to Carlock. The ruling directs the lower court to set aside the verdict and to grant a rehearing at which the value of the lease can be determined.

Officials of Smithsonian Unmoved by Gellatly Plea

The declaration of Mrs. Charlane Whitely Gellatly that she would ask Congress to have returned to her the $4,000,000 art collection given to the Smithsonian Institution by her husband, John H. Gellatly, in 1929, left officials of the institution unmoved yesterday.

Mr. Gellatly, who died practically penniless in New York Sunday, gave the collection to the institution in 1929, and it was definitely accepted and installed in special quarters in the Hecksher Galleries in New York a year before he married the former Charlayne Whitely, a granddaughter of the late Senator Richard H. Whitely, of Georgia, it was pointed out by Alexander Wetmore, assistant secretary of the institution.

Mrs. Gellatly claims her husband died a pauper because he had given away his treasures "in the hope of becoming known as a great philanthropist," with the result that he did not leave even enough money to pay for his funeral.

Gellatly, who was a millionaire a few years ago, married Miss Whitely, 42 years his junior, in 1930, when he was 78 years old. The collection, which he previously had donated to the Government, was the result of a lifetime spent in gathering rare and beautiful paintings, ceramics, glassware and other art objects.

RAIL MERGER STUDY ORDERED BY I. C. C.

Hearings Begin January 6 on Plan of Roads for 4 Big Systems.

(Associated Press.)

A study of the gigantic plan of Eastern transportation chiefs to consolidate $10,000,000,000 worth of railroads into four big systems was ordered yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The inquiry will be directed by Commissioner Claude R. Porter, who had charge of the original consolidation study, out of which grew the commission's proposal that Eastern lines be merged into five systems. He will be assisted by Examiner Irving L. Koch. Hearings will begin January 6.

The commission in 1929, acting under mandate of Congress, recommended a 21-system consolidation plan for the entire country, including the Eastern five-system proposal. The latter designated the Wabash-Seaboard, the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate as the backbones of the groupings. The last named are commonly known as the Van Sweringen lines.

Wabash-Seaboard Opposed.

Rail executives let it be known they were unalterably opposed to creation of the Wabash-Seaboard system. They insisted it was artificial and could not be profitably operated.

For months the situation was quiet, insofar as surface indications were concerned. But on December 30, 1930, about a year after the five-party plan was announced, the consolidation question emerged again, with President Hoover announcing that the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and the Van Sweringen lines had agreed tentatively on a four-system plan. He said the railroad chiefs had gathered at his suggestion.

Conferences continued from time to time between the railroad heads. They struck numerous obstacles. Then it became necessary for all of the carriers of the country to look to their finances. The 15 per cent rate case was placed before the commission and consolidation shunted onto a side track until after disposition of the rate hearings.

Alternative 4-Party Plan.

On October 3 the railroads put consolidation back on the main line, presenting a four-party plan and asking the commission to adopt it as an amendment to its original consolidation scheme.

The study starting in January does not mean the Eastern consolidation question will be disposed of. It merely means the commission will decide whether to ditch its five-system plan A decision favoring the four-system plan would mean each system would have to come to the commission with its own problems. This might take a year or two, although the applicants already have control of most of the trackage to be absorbed.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Dow, Jones & Co., says it was learned today that a secret meeting of executives of the New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate systems to discuss the procedure in submitting the plan of consolidation in the Eastern territory to the Interstate Commerce Commission, was held in New York Saturday.

The meeting was called in view of the possibility that a contest might develop within the commission over the correctness of the procedure in which the plan was submitted, it was said.

Byrd and Pollard Confer.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd was a visitor to Richmond today. He conferred during the morning with Gov. Pollard.

SUGGESTED CODE OF ETHICS FOR SENATE PORTENDS STORM

and investigations which have marked the progress of the modified crown struggle in the United States.

"We must be infinitely patient when we are evolving a constitutional government," he concludes. "In due time even senators elected by popular vote will begin to realize that it is possible to stand firmly for the privileges of the Senate and yet do it with convincing dignity."

His own experience in the Senate convinced him, Mr. Pepper said, that the standing or select committee was at best an extremely awkward agency for gathering facts on which to base legislative policy. And at its worst, the Senate inquiry impressed him as an established instrumentality of Government sadly in need of the serious attention of the Nation.

"One reason why it seems to me important to recognize that congressional overlordship is now definitely established," he goes on, "is that such recognition may tend to develop a new sense of responsibility in exercising the power.

Behavior of Senators.

"It might be suggested that senators are more likely to be on their good behavior when seeking to secure the recognition of a right, and are likely to become more offensive when occupying an intrenched position. I believe, however, that this is not the case. A tradition of fair play is much more likely to result when men are entrusted with a prerogative than when they are under fire for usurping it.

"The suggestion that a code of procedure for investigation be evolved by each House is an interesting one."

But Mr. Pepper sees many obstacles in the paath of this suggestion, most of them political.

"The cases that call most loudly for some reform are those which the Senate would be most reluctant to apply it," he says. "They are the troublesome cases in which the real objective of the investigation is political. What is desired in such cases is not a calm and judicious presentation of facts but a series of sensational charges, followed by a dramatic presentation of the evidence and the filing of a majority report sustaining the position determined upon before the investigation was begun.

"The last thing that is desired by the promoters of such an inquiry is the calmness and detachment of a judicial tribunal. There are many senators to whom an investigation is a colorful political drama."

First-Class Rows.

The long series of first-class rows which Mr. Pepper euphemizes as "family quarrels," began when George Washington presented his first treaty, a pact with the Southern Indians, to the Senate in person during the First Congress. The Senate postponed consideration of the enacting clause until the President should leave the chamber, and the fiery Senator McClay, also of Pennsylvania, soon afterward confided to his diary, "The President wishes to tread on the neck of the Senate."

In many cases, the book suggests, the arguments against the executive authority were based upon the self-consciousness of Congress than upon sound constitutional theory, but that fact has not mitigated the evils of irresponsible legislative conduct.

Nor have senatorial investigations been confined to fact-finding pursuant to the legislative function, as Mr. Pepper reads our history.

"Another type is the inquiry launched to inflict political harm on a person or party. Of still a third type is the investigation begun in good faith but later prostituted to promote the ambitions of an unscrupulous chairman."

Investigations Since 1789.

Altogether there were 285 legislative investigations of the executive and judicial branches between 1789 and 1925, and "only three Congresses have denied themselves this form of indulgence."

Executive resistance to such procedure has centered on two very different grounds; first, that it is an abuse of an acknowledged constitutional power, and secondly, that it marks an unconstitutional encroachment upon the executive sphere. But in every case the decision has been political rather than judicial, and it appears unlikely now that any sharp definition of the field will be attempted in law.

Woodrow Wilson took the position in his "Congressional Government" that many of the legislative invasions of the executive field were unconstitutional, dictated by the fact that "Congress can not control the officers of the Executive without disgracing them." But Mr. Pepper cites this quotation without comment.

Author's Experiences Reviewed.

Reviewing his own brief experience in the Senate, Mr. Pepper writes that he found his judicial temperament a real handicap.

"I am so constituted that when two opposing extremes are presented I intsinctively suspect them both. The judicial quality developed by study and teaching undoubtedly unfits a man for political life.

"People in general, and the press in particular, prefer the man who advocates a proposition in its extremest form, and characterizes an adversary as either a trimmer or a public enemy.

"In the search after truth, however, the passion for extremes is almost certain to lead to error whether in theology, economics or political science."

Mr. Pepper's book is dedicated "To my friends and some-time colleagues, Claude A. Swanson and Carter Glass, senators from Virginia."

3 Cranes Moved For Disturbances

Placed in Center of Park After Many Complain of Their Cries.

Three cranes, tried and convicted of "whooping it up" in the early hours of the morning to the consequent disturbance of persons living adjacent to the Zoo, have been sentenced to isolation quarters in center of the park where it is hoped their cries will not be heard by sleepers, Dr. William M. Mann, director, said yesterday.

The three birds whose predawn exuberance has brought numerous complaints from nearby residents, including Senator Edward Costigan, of Colorado, are two large Indian Sarus cranes and a Manchurian crane, from the Victor Evans collection.

As complaints are still being received, there is thought to be another offender. A keeper has been assigned to watch the crane cage during the small hours to detect its identity, so that it too can be deported to a place where dawn rituals can be indulged in without awakening the neighborhood.

Weather Strip Company Loses in Its Lien Appeal

The Chamberlin Metal Weather Strip Co. yesterday lost in the Court of Appeals its attempt to enforce a mechanics' lien against James L. Karrick and others, owners of an apartment house building at 3446 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Karrick and his associates bought the building after the weather stripping had been completed and the company named the former owner as the liable person. The court held this error deprived the company of the benefits of the lien law.

UTILITY BODY TO SUE FOR FARE CASE COST

Case Against Two Trolley Companies Expected to Fix Precedent.

Suit to test authority of the Public Utilities Commission to assess utilities with costs of actions against them will be filed in District Supreme Court this week by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride against the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

The commission now collects for costs of all hearings at which utilities are summoned, under specific authority granted in the public utility act. Officials believe the same section can be extended to cover costs of court proceedings.

While the present suit, brought to collect for costs to the commission of the 10-cent fare case, will bring the commission only about $2,000, if successful, it will establish a precedent that would save the utilities body thousands of dollars yearly. Such authority, it is believed, would also strengthen the power of the commission in enforcement of its regulations as public utilities would be less prone to appeal from its orders.

Utilities are permitted to charge assessments for public hearings to their operating expenses under the law, and the same right would be permitted in court cases, it is contended.

The brief is being prepared by William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel.

LEWIS, MACHINE GUN MAKER, FALLS DEAD

Army Inventor of Weapon Dies in Hoboken on Way Home.

Hoboken, N. J., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Col. Isaac N. Lewis, Montclair, N. J., inventor and scientist, whose Lewis machine gun was an outstanding weapon in the World War, died of a heart attack late today in a drug store adjoining the Lackawana Railroad termini. He was 73 years old.

Col. Lewis was talking with an old friend, Emerson Brooks, founder of the national organization of Boy Rangers, while waiting for a train home, when he collapsed. He died before a physician could reach his side. He had been troubled with a weak heart for several years, but appeared in good health when he left home this morning for his daily visit to the office he maintained in New York.

Choosing two fields from which to carve his brilliant career, Col. Lewis achieved preeminence both as a soldier and as a scientist, although his attainments in the realm of inventions were closely bound to his first love—the Army.

More than 100,000 Lewis machine guns were used by the allies in the World War, and at one time the British government detached 500,000 men from field service in order to train them in the use of this weapon.

England Acts Quickly.

The quick adoption of the Lewis gun by British military authorities was in sharp contrast to the difficulty Mr. Lewis experienced in obtaining recognition for his invention from the United States Government. He is said to have spent fifteen years trying to induce the War Department to adopt his weapon, but met with rebuff at every turn. Finally the air forces decided to give the model a thorough test and found it so satisfactory that it won a place on the line.

Previous to this, Mr. Lewis had made a dramatic appearance before the Senate military affairs committee, where he described, with tears streaming down his face, how the War Department had refused to accept his patent, even as a gift. Then he told how, discouraged and nearly broken hearted, he had taken his invention to England, intending never to return to the country which had seemed so ungrateful. The gun, he said, was instantly adopted by the British and had returned him millions of dollars in royalties, yet his own country would have nothing to do with it.

Col. Lewis had contributed many devices to the Army before his machine gun was brought out. Upon his graduation from West Point, in 1884, much of his spare time was devoted to engineering and optical studies, which resulted in his invention of a depression position finder for use in connection with artillery firing.

Tests Prove Satisfactory.

It proved so satisfactory under tests that a board of ordinance and fortifications, in 1896, advised its general adoption by the Army as a basis for the elaborate system of artillery fire control later installed in all United States coast defenses.

Col. Lewis was born in New Salem, Pa., October 12, 1858. He married, October 21, 1886, Mary Wheatley, daughter of the Rev. Richard Wheatley, of New York. Four children were born to them, Robert W., Laura, George F. and Margaret Lewis.

Mr. Lewis was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, an associate of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and a member of the Union League and Lawyers Clubs of New York.

He made his home at Montclair, N. J.

Lucas, Air Pilot and Scion Of Soldiers, Is Laid at Rest

As a bugler softly sounded taps and four Army airplanes, flying in "absent member" formation, hovered overhead, Vernon R. Lucas, veteran pilot of the Ludington Air Line, killed last Thursday in the crash that took five lives at Camden, N. In 1917 he enlisted in the Signal Corps of the Army and served with the radio division. He was discharged a second lieutenant and upon returning to this country entered aviation. He served with several Western airlines before joining the Ludington Line in 1930.

Hugh L. Lucas, the pilot's father, served with the United States Cavalry during the World War. Although past age limit, the elder Lucas was commissioned a sergeant at his own request. # 6 SENATORS ATTEND RITES FOR CARAWAY

Move to Nominate Widow to Serve Out Term Grows; Acceptance Seen.

Jonesboro, Ark., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Thaddeus H. Caraway, the farm boy who grew up to be a United States senator, famous for the vigor with which he advocated or opposed national legislation, was buried here today with the highest honors the city of his residence and the State at large could bestow.

Hundreds of neighbors, friends and acquaintances filed through the First Methodist Church, where his body lay in state for two hours this morning, for a final glimpse of the man who once served as the city's prosecuting attorney and thereby came to be known as "fighting Thad" long before the Nation heard of him as a fighter.

Nearly every one prominent in the public life of Arkansas was among the throng that came to pay him final tribute.

Six Senators Attend.

Funeral services at the church were conducted by the Rev. J. A. Anderson, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in the Jonesboro district. The senator's widow and their three sons, Paul, Forrest and Robert, sat near the casket.

Six of Senator Caraway's colleagues in the senate attended the service. They were Senators Pittman of Nevada, Frazier of North Dakota, Broussard of Louisiana, McKellar of Tennessee, Brookhart of Iowa, and Robinson of Arkansas.

Gov. Harvey Parnell headed a delegation of State officials.

Floral designs from far and wide filled the end of the church. One of the largest was sent by the Senate.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 10 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 9:45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

Unexpected business troubles are foreseen for November 10. Do not become panicky—a way out is clearly indicated if you move with care and caution! It is a fortunate marriage date, and a happy time for young lovers. Those who have inventive minds will benefit by the astrological influences of the day.

The child born on this November 10 will have a cautious, an imaginative and artistic nature. It will always need encouragement, and will not mind a friendly push. It will do better work in partnership than through individual effort, and will be a grateful leaner upon any one who will be its prop.

Born on November 10, nature may be commended for the many gifts she bestowed upon you, but she was unkind when she handed you your disposition. you have all the qualifications essential to the making of a fat material living, but you do not know how to be happy. You allow your mind to dwell too much on the dark side of life, and too little upon your blessings. You will never be satisfied is marked, your economic judgment is keen, your mind is fertile and your hands are capable. You are, however, too much of a scientific, efficient machine to enjoy and appreciate those things which are essentially "human." You are lost when you enter the spiritual planes of existence. You are intelligent, but you are not intuitive. You must see and prove things; a blind faith is not comprehensible to you.

You prefer work to play. Your hobbies, if you have any, are not of a relaxing sort, but take the form of serious studies. You do not crave human companionship, and are quite happy without it. The comforts of a home make a strong appeal to you, but the obligations of a home annoy you. You do not turn your back upon duty, but you seldom give it a smile. If you were more of a mixer, and less of a bystander, you would get more out of life.

Successful people born on November 10:

Henry Van Dyke, professor of English literature, Princeton.

Cincinnatus H. Miller (Joaquin Miller), author.

Alexander P. Moore, Ambassador to Spain.

Donald Baxter MacMillan, explorer.

James H. Roosevelt, founder of Roosevelt Hospital, New York.

William Hogarth, English artist.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to get rid of mouse-eared chickweed. All I know to do is uproot it. We employed three men to do this for us, but even with care they missed a lot of it. If we could kill it at this time, next season we might be rid of it. MARIA.

Iron sulphate is now being used to eradicate weeds. It is used at the rate of 1 or 1½ pounds to a gallon of water. Mix the solution in a wooden bucket and spray it over the weedy areas. This will kill the weeds. It may cause the grass, if permitted to touch it, to appear to be injured, but it seldom permanently harms a lawn.

Until this year I have always been successful with gladiolus. I have a large collection of bulbs, which were given the usual care, but almost all failed to open propesly. Do you think the corms are permanently injured or will they act normally next season? NORMAN S.

This year gladiolus were in most cases more or less of a failure, due to thrips. Growers are at this time holding symposiums to try to find a solution of this trouble. As soon as they arrive at some definite conclusion the word will be passed along through this column. It is well in any case to paint the outside as well as the inside of all storage boxes with citronella.

Please tell me the most practical way to keep old geranium plants which have bloomed continuously all summer over winter. I have denuded them of young shoots, thus starting new plants. MABEL F. T.

Suspend them, roots up, from the rafters in a light part of your cellar, where they will live but not grow.

Please tell me the best time to sow sweet alyssum seed. Please give me the name of a good, red spirea. I want to fill a window box, eastern exposure. What plants shall I use and shall I keep them in pots? N.R.

Sow sweet alyssum seed in the early spring. Palmata elegans is a reliable variety of spirea. Begonias do well in an eastern exposure. Plant them in the box provided it has the necessary drainage facilities.

Please advise me regarding growing wee plants from grapefruit seed. CAROLINE.

Dry the seed and plant them in rich soil. Keep pot in the sun and water daily. The seed will soon germinate and be very attractive all winter.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Black wool and an interesting collar and cuffs of black galiac bordered with ermine combine in a trim and unusual coat. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

New York, Nov. 9.

NOT long ago there was a spectacle of great beauty in one of New York's leading jewelry houses—an exhibition of jewels not only of jewels, but showing their relation to various fabrics and costumes. There was a fashion promenade which emphasized strongly the meaning of "luxury fashions," those fashions, interpreted by precious stones, rich fabrics and expensive furs. And it was an event of great social importance—those who viewed the show in all its colorful brilliance came by invitation only. And naturally, as a member of the press, your own Fashun Cricket was included.

Some of the costumes and jewels were so lovely that you'd have to see them with your own eyes—my description would probably sound like an exaggeration. For instance, a beautifully cut white dull velvet gown was chosen as a background for diamond and ruby jewelry—a ruby necklace with large side motifs of diamonds, four ruby and diamond bracelets, and a square diamond ring said to be worth one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars! You see, don't you, why a mere description wouldn't adequately cover the magnificence of the ring alone?

For evening wear, sapphires and diamonds were of the same importance as rubies and diamonds, but were worn, of course, with different colors and materials. Proud possessors of large diamond brooches are lucky, for these were granted first place in the jewelry world, followed by precious stone necklaces and single stone, tremendously expensive rings. 'N' if you saw a few of the wrist watches I did, you'd agree with me that their beauty is just as important as their utility, if not more so!

* * * *

Silky black galiac is so-o-o-o-o adaptable to little unusual coat tricks, isn't it? Somehow, because of the bulkless way it forms itself into unusual treatments it is very poplar this year, when originality's everything! I have sketched for you today a coat of black woolen from Bernard et Cie., with a single zigzag incrustation down the side, which uses this galiac to form a high dolman cuff and an incrusted vestee. And as if this wasn't enough for smartness, the galiac collar is bordered with narrow ermine, and the coat is belted with a striped black and white patent leather belt.

* * * *

This year is the time for you to buy galiac, if you like it as much as I do, both because of its inexpensiveness and the origanal things being done with it.

From Errand Girl to Secretary in One Easy Lesson! And with salary increases in proportion! Sounds interesting, doesn't it—and is there anywhere in the world an errand girl who doesn't long for the better things of life as represented by the superior secretaries she knows? So, whatever you are in the business world, hadn't you better hurry and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare' department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet, which might well be called "Secrets of a Smart Secretary?" Because this leaflet contains lots and lots of hints for constant chic in the office—not only for the office worker's clothes but for her beauty and well-groomed appearance at all times!

Au revoir!

Here's New Vick Plan for Better "Control-of-Colds"

Made Possible by New Vick Product Based on New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

Washington druggists authorized to sell new product on trial to Vicks VapoRub users and refund price if Vick plan does not reduce family's yearly "Colds-Tax."

Mothers are guardians of the family health and directors of the family budget. It is the mothers who have the worry of colds and their cost. And it is the mothers who especially appreciate the new Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home—just announced by the makers of Vicks VaporRub.

This Plan is made possible by a new preparation, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. It is a companion product to Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of "treating" colds. That is, they aid and supplement each other.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Use Vicks Drops—just a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to be folowed by a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as overeating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are overtired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages. Then you are not "catching cold"—you have already caught one.

2.—After a Cold Starts.

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in "stainless form," if you prefer. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bedclothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vick's Drops every few hours—any time, any place.

This gives you a full 24-hour treatment and without the risk of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children. Both these Vick products are external. They can be used freely and as often as needed without the slightest harmful effect.

Trial Offer to Vick Users.

You have Vicks VaporRub. Now get a bottle of Vicks Nose Drops. Use it with VapoRub as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. If you are not satisfied that it actually reduces your high cost of colds this winter, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

APPROACHING WITH SUIT BIDS.

AT the root of successful Contract bidding is the Approach principle by, which the partnership seeks to determine the correct final declaration by disclosing suit distributions and honor-trick strength held. Good Contract players realize that this plan of bidding far from reducing the number of hands played with no trump as the eventual declaration, makes practically certain that hands which should be played at notrump will be played at that declaration and those of the suit type will be played in the suit which best fits the combined hands. These things are especially true of hands of divided strength, but they apply also to hands in which one hand has the lion's share of the honor-tricks in the deal. There is a school of Contract players who, when they find all four Aces in their hands, can think of nothing but to blurt out "two notrump" or perhaps "three notrump." When in the play such hands fail to develop into games because the free exchange of information, which would have unerringly shown the correct declaration, had been damned, they bemoan fate, when the proper course would have been to berate their own shortsightedness. The peculiar feature of this type of bidding is that it frequently operates to defeat its own end. For example:

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ Q 7 3♡ K Q 8 5 2◇ 4♣ Q 8 3 2 | |
| ♠ J 5 2♡ J 10 9 7 4◇ K 9 8♣ 6 5 | NW ES | ♠ K 9 6♡ 6◇ Q 7 6 5 3 2♣ K 7 4 |
| | ♠ A 10 8 4♡ A 3◇ A J 10♣ A J 10 9 | |

The Correct Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♣(1) | Pass | 1♡ | Pass |
| 2NT | Pass | 3♣(2) | Pass |
| 3NT(3) | Pass | Pass | Pass |

1—Approaching with a low suit bid, although the hand contains 5 honor-tricks. The distribution is barren and nothing can be done with the hand unless North can make a free response. So why crowd the bidding?

2—North holds adequate support for the club bid, but is unwilling to bid three notrump, as his hand contains only slightly more than 1½ honor-tricks.

3—South feels the shorter road to game is the better.

Players with a notrump complex in a Duplicate game in which this hand was dealt, reached the wrong declaration thus:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2NT(1) | Pass | 4♡(2) | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

1—The point count and the lure of the Aces alike lead to a wrong initial declaration.

2—With a five-card major suit and a Singleton, North believes the hand must be played at a suit. Hence, the equally unsound jump to a game contract, which as actually played, was defeated, although the contract should be made with even moderate expertness.

Of course, regardless of the Opening, the notrump contract is made easily.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: State the standard table of honor-tricks.

Answer:

| 2 Tricks | 1-½ Tricks |
|---|---|
| Any A K | Any A Q" A J 10" K Q 10 |
| 1 Trick | ½ Trick |
| Any A" K Q" K J x | Any K x" Q J x" Q x and J x in different suits. |
| " K x and Q x in different suits. | |

Question: Do these values fluctuate? Why?

Answer: Yes, as the bidding discloses the location of higher honors or the ability of opponents to trump. For example: If Ace is shown to be at right of King or in partner's hand, the value of the King is almost nil.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

"The Game's the Thing."

Question: Each side vulnerable, no score. North, Dealer. Kindly give correct bidding on the following hands:

NORTH
Spades A K 10 4 3
Hearts K 10 8 7
Diamonds —

SOUTH
Hearts A 6 5
Diamonds A K J 6
Clubs Q J 10 7

Answer: The proper bidding of the hand above would be:

| North | South |
|---|---|
| 1 spade | 3 diamonds (1) |
| 3 notrump (2) | Pass (3) |

1—After North has opened this bidding South, who holds 3½ honor-tricks, should make a Forcing Takeout (a bid one more than necessary in another suit) to overcall partner's Opening bid. This requires both members of the partnership to keep the bidding open until game is reached.

2—North holds such slight additional values that he must respond with a bid of notrump in order to safeguard the partnership against attempting an impossible Slam.

3—While South might raise the notrump bid to four, as he holds even more strength than shown by his Forcing Takeout, such a bid would serve no good purpose. North has told him that his Opening bid is a minimum and unless a Slam is reasonably possible there is no purpose to be served by raising the contract above the game level.

When Adversary Overcalls.

Question: After a Forcing bid of two, does an intervening bid release the partner of the Opening bidder of any obligation or must he "carry on?"

Answer: An intervening bid by an adversary makes it unnecessary for the partner to respond on that round of bidding if he has nothing to say. It does not release him, however, from the obligation to "carry on" until a game contract is reached. To pass after an adversary overcalls your partner's Forcing bid conveys the information to your partner that you do not have adequate support for his proposed trump nor do you have an affirmative bid of your own which you would have made if the adversaries had not bid. However, when your partner again bids, you are required to continue the bidding until a game contract is reached.

Responding With a Bust.

Question: Kindly decide the bid in the following situation: Dealer, South, bids two diamonds, and partner, after a pass by West, bids two notrump. East passes and South bids three diamonds. West again passes and North holds

Spades 6 5 4
Hearts J 9 6 3
Diamonds 8 6 5
Clubs 6 3 2

What should North say?

Answer: North should bid three notrump. The first response denied the possession of a biddable suit and 1 honor-trick. It did not necessarily imply that the hand did not have support for the diamond suit or for some other suit to be bid by the Opening bidder. The second response in notrump indicates that the hand neither contains one honor-trick nor a biddable suit nor support for the suit twice bid by partner.

"Let Your Communication Be 'Yea, Yea.'"

Question: Contract. After a bid was made, the player on the left said, "I crack it," intending the words used as a Double of the bid. Do the words used really double the bid?

Answer: No. The words, "I crack it," do not rise to the dignity of a declaration. Each pass, bid, Double or Redouble is a declaration. When the hand is played after the use of the words, "I crack it," being accepted as a Double, they stand for the words, "I double." The use of the words, "I crack it," is an offense against the etiquette of the game.

Dealing With Wrong Pack.

Question: Contract. The proper Dealer dealt with the wrong pack. After the last card was dealt, a player demanded a new deal. Was the demand legally made?

Answer: No. The player should have made his demand "during the deal." The deal ended when all 52 cards were dealt, the last one to the Dealer. When no legal demand be made before the end of the deal, it stands and the player on the left deals with the still pack. The packs continue to be thus dealt until the end of the rubber.

Dummy Is Mute.

Question: Declarer led a heart out of his turn from Dummy and an adversary called attention to the error. Declarer then lead a spade from his own hand.

(1)—Was Declarer subject to the penalty for a revoke?

(2)—In such a case, may Dummy ask Declarer whether he has any or none of the suit he led from Dummy?

Answer: (1)—Yes. (2)—No.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Two Sisters Date-less.

DEAR Frances McDonald: After reading the letter signed Mephistopheles, we simply had to answer. It seemed very queer to us to find out that such a fellow actually existed.

We are two sisters, young, considered good-looking, wear attractive clothes and both of us have had a college education. We neither smoke nor drink nor are we the gold-digging type. We don't believe in divesting a man of all his money. But we're modern and we love to have a good, clean time. We both possess a sense of humor which is our principal mainstay. We have no boy friends, specifically speaking. The boy friends we do manage to acquire are the kind who come only when so inclined or because they have nothing else on, never take us out anywhere, but prefer to sit in our home expecting to be entertained and even fed. But take us anywhere! Never! We may be suited as an evening's home companion but when they go out they prefer (we know as a fact) the ginguzzling, cigarette-smoking females (quoting you). We both have good secretarial positions and are quite willing to spend some evenings at home. But we do expect to be entertained once in a while. Who wouldn't? But of what use is it to be intelligent and decent nowadays? When the boys all prefer the other type for a date while we are just left out in the cold, literally speaking. It does get rather monotonous but we're not kicking. As I stated before, our sense of humor is our salvation!

So let us tell you, Mephistopheles, that there are at least two decent girls left in this world, although you seem to doubt the fact. But the trouble is that you fellows overlook our type and go for the "snappy type" and end by getting disillusioned and blaming every girl for the same conduct. Young man, although we're not swamped with dates, spend mostly all of our nights in company of our wonderful parents, or with books, or else going to movies, theaters and concerts together we're not weeping. We believe that somewhere there is a young Lochinvar who will some day come along and waken to the fact that we are young, alive, decent and intelligent. But meanwhile, just because we're not gin-guzzlers or cigarette smokers (nor even intend to be, although we may both end up with only a cat and a canary for loving), we sit at home or treat ourselves.

We had no intention of waxing so lengthily on the subject but we naturally had to answer you. Here's hoping you don't get the wrong impresion of us but we certainly enjoyed your views and would like to hear more of your ideas and also, if possible, a pen picture of yourself, as our feminine curiosity is aroused.

THE RAGLAN COAT.

The raglan sleeve coat that is so easily slipped on is a favorite of boys of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

The tailored neckline with notched collar is of especial interest, that may be closed snugly to the neck or worn open during the mild weather. Because most boys dislike wearing gloves, the designer cleverly placed the inset pockets diagonally, so the little hands could easily be slipped into the pockets on cold days. It is equally smart worn without the belt and so typically English.

Tweed mixtures, camel's hair, homespun and novelty rough surfaced woolens are sturdy suggestions.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A MIGRAINE SUFFERER.

AN intelligent man who has long wrestled with the migraine habit tells us of remedies that have been of service with him.

"No medical or other intervention ever cured migraine. The sufferer should be thoroughly overhauled and any defects or lesions impairing functions, especially in eyes, teeth, throat and pelvis, removed. He should regulate his diet, his sleep and his daily routine. Probably every patient should have recourse to a nightly laxative, preferably aloin, which may be taken with benefit for a lifetime. But the great and only specific is cannabis indica, which not infrequently gives almost complete remission as long as exhibited, but little longer. Individual attacks yield to calomel, which should be taken at the first prodromal symptom, in one dose, not in one-tenths, and followed by a saline. Thus attacks impending may often be aborted and, in any event, there is no excuse for days of misery, all too common.

"Cannabis is harmless and foolproof to all but fools, whose name, unfortunately, is legion, to whom bread pills or other placebos are habit forming. To handle calomel efficiently is an art which each patient must acquire for himself; and calomel may be subject to abuse, albeit the prejudice against it is largely superstition. It certainly does something in migraine that no other drug will or can do, though for those who can not take calomel, podophyllin may answer imperfectly.

"No very beneficent or lasting results may reasonably be expected unless or until the patient is willing to pay meticulous attention to his daily life. Dietary indiscretions or excesses, insufficient sleep, scant ingestion of fluids, emotion, excitement (even pleasurable), sex indulgence, overwork will, singly or combined, defeat almost any medical intervention or remedial measures.

"Beginners often suffer no more than one explosion in months, or even a year or more, ascribed usually to some food eaten; it is not to them that this message is directed. But migraine uniformly tends to greater frequency and severity as the years go by. It is not unusual for a patient to end in two or three seizures a week, with a constant fag headache incident to pain and loss of sleep. To such, a really active life is well-nigh an impossibility. Unfortunately, many subjects are thought by their unfeeling and skeptical relatives to be malingering, and are thus able to protect themselves with difficulty or not at all.

"In truth, a well-established and pronounced migraine is one of the greatest tragedies of life, for its victim probably undergoes more physical and mental misery than falls to the lot of several hundred normal individuals, and at its worst it is capable of wrecking any career. There is some hope of melioration, even for the most abject, in a prophylactic regimen and in resort, under experienced medical supervision, to the medication indicated."

OBJECTS TO LOUD SPEAKER.

A Nervous Breakdown Sufferer writes: I would suggest that every owner of a radio should be taxed the same as automobile owners—in fact, heavier taxes for them. That would pay some of the expenses for supporting sanitariums and insane asylums, of which very many will be needed if something is not done in the near future to put a stop to those continuous noises from 8 a. m. until after midnight. How can people get rest, working all day under a dreadful strain, after arising at 6 a. m., and then returning home to houses full of radio noises—one trying to exceed the other in loudness? Windows and doors are opened all around.

Why doesn't the department of health do something so that one neighbor should not be allowed to annoy another? If this keeps on much longer I am sure that some of those skyscraper office buildings will have to be turned into insane asylums. In addition, there is no consideration used for the invalids in many homes who need absolute rest and quiet.

WAGNER IS CHOSEN GRAND JURY'S HEAD

Rockville Pike Artist Named Foreman in Montgomery County Session.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Cedar Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4203.

Simon Peter Wagner, artist and architect, of the Rockville pike, was selected foreman of the Montgomery County grand jury yesterday at the opening of the November term of Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md. This will be the first grand jury to hold sessions in the new Rockville Courthouse.

Selection of the grand jury was delayed for more than an hour yesterday morning when it was discovered that Ernest A. Kline, of Kensington, Md., had been summoned as a juror instead of Augustus Kline, of near Kensington, who had been drawn. Judge Robert B. Peter halted the proceedings of the court until Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale could send to Kensington and serve the summons on the right Kline.

In his charge to the grand jury, Judge Peter declared that conditions in the suburban area of the county are statisfactory as far as he knew, but that he felt it proper to urge the importance of the police and officials maintaining proper diligence in order to keep the criminal element of Washington from gaining a foothold in the county.

Included in the membership of the grand jury is Mayor William McBain, of Gaithersburg. Other members of the body are William F. Harding, E. Winsor Offutt, Frederick W. Page, Isaac H. Beall, William K. Rice, Charles D. King, Robert W. Chichester, John W. Story, John L. Ball, Harold L. Bradford, William H. Jackson, Joseph R. Lechlider, Charles A. Hobbs, John D. Linthicum, W. Guy Hicks, Worthington Griffith, Joseph L. Claggett, G. Wady Imirie, Brooke Vincent, R. Bentley Thomas and Harry D. Grubb.

The petit jury will be made up from the 25 jurors who were not drawn for the grand jury. They are Harry M. Williams, Elmer C. Hersperger, Luther R. Cruitt, Earl K. Linthicum, W. Malcolm Young, Thomas M. Garrett, Arthur T. Murray, Harry G. Poss, Howard C. Bryan, William H. Souder, Henry Kennedy, Milton Bancroft, Dorsey L. Thompson, John M. Faulconer, Charles H. Barber, Edward C. Thomas, Thomas D. Darby, Raleigh S. Chinn, Samuel T. Butt, John W. Fraley, William K. Carlin, Nathan C. Stiles, Augustus Kline, Elisha S. Warfield and George O. Holland.

F. P. Lee, Edgemoor, Heads Montgomery Civic Groups

Frederic P. Lee, of Edgemoor, Washington lawyer, was elected president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation at its annual meeting last night in Bethesda School. Dr. L. M. Christie, of the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce, was named vice president.

Other officers chosen were: W. B. Armstrong, Cabin John Citizens Association, recording secretary; O. M. Kile, Mohican Hills Citizens Association, corresponding secretary; John A. P. Farnham, Friendship Heights citizens committee, treasurer; Judge R. Granville Curry, Battery Park Citizens Association; George W. Davis, Seven Oaks Manor Citizens Association; George P. Sacks, Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, and Frank B. Severance, Gaithersburg Chamber of Commerce, members of the executive committee.

The meeting was enlivened by a debate between proponents of the Kensington Board of Trade resolution opposing location of the Eastern Suburban Junior High School on property purchased from the North Washington Realty Co. and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, president of the realty company.

Maj. Lee rose to a point of personal privilege and announced that since he had been called a "grafter" he intended defending himself. He cited figures to show that the site selected is in the center of population and the easiest to reach of twelve sites considered and declared that he could not stay in business if he mislocated schools and other public improvements, as the board of trade resolution declared. George C. Shinn denied that the board had called Maj. Lee a grafter.

The federation committee on schools had reported that it did not consider matter in the resolution of such nature as to be debtable by the federation, and recommended that the resolution be rejected. It was defeated by a vote of 64 to 12.

The retiring president, Stephen James, presented his annual report and relinquished the chair to Mr. Lee after the latter's election. Mr. Lee and other members of the committee on public finance and budget presented five reports dealing with county finances, four of which were accepted and the fifth laid on the table at his request in order that the federation could have the advantage of a full membership for debate. The report deals with the future financial policy of the county.

PASSING OF FAIRFAX COUNTY FAIR IS SEEN

Directors Ask Bank to Stay Foreclosing Note Until Stockholders Meet.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST, P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va. Phone Fairfax 166.

Abandonment of the Fairfax County fair, at least in its agricultural phases, is foreseen.

Estler M. Palmer, president of the fair association, said at a meeting recently that the day of the small agricultural fair is ended and that future activity of the Fairfax association should be confined to horse shows and races.

Directors present were in accord with the president's frank utterance, which appears to mark the end of one of the last of the agricultural fairs in northern Virginia.

Financial difficulties are believed to be reason for the abandonment.

Directors voted to ask the National Bank of Fairfax, which holds an overdue first trust note, to postpone collection until after the annual stockholders' meeting November 30. The State examiner has notified the bank that it must foreclose on the note if the indebtedness is not met immediately.

Directors will attempt to ascertain before the annual meeting whether or not stockholders will be willing to subscribe to a fund to clear the indebtedness. Failing in this the association will try to obtain a private loan until it can sell a portion of its holdings on the new Lee highway cut-off.

BUILDING-LOAN FETE SET HERE FOR DEC. 1

U. S. League Officers Plan to Be Guests; James Heads Committee.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The District of Columbia Council of Building and Loan Associations will hold its annual dinner at the Willard Hotel on the evening of December 1, beginning at 7 o'clock. The council will have as its guests officers and directors of the United States Building & Loan League and other building and loan men of national prominence, who will be in the city at that time to attend President Hoover's conference on home ownership and construction.

This conference will open on the evening of December 2, at Continental Hall, with an address by President Hoover and will continue in session until December 5.

Officers of the United States Building and Loan League who will be the guests of the local council, are William E. Best, Pittsburgh, president; Ward B. Whitlock, Springfield, Ills., first vice president; Philip Lieber, Shreveport, La., second vice president; H. F. Cellarius, Cincinnati, secretary-treasurer.

National League Board.

Directors of the national league are Ernest A. Hale, Boston; John Warren, Jersey City; William P. Siegert, Philadelphia; L. P. McCullough, Columbus, Ohio; George R. Wooten, Hickory, N. C.; George R. McKinnis, Shawnee, Okla.; Carl J. Weber, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Lee C. Stidd, Portland, Oreg. Among other distinguished guests will be George R. Bliss, jr., New York City, president of the American Savings, Building & Loan Institute, and H. Morton Bodfish, Chicago, executive manager of the national league.

The principal speaker for the dinner will be announced later. Entertainment will be provided for the diners and dancing will follow the talks and repast. The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of C. Clinton James, chairman; Chapin B. Bauman, William S. Quinter, Carl Bergmann and Edward C. Baltz.

What is believed to be a world record for volume of life insurance written prior to formal qualification and opening has been established by the recently organized Union States Life Insurance Co., of Portland, Oreg.

More than $5,000,000 of paid-up insurance will be in force when the Union States Life formally opens its doors for busines this month, according to Wayne E. Hibbard, president. This record breaking volume was sold in six months' time in one of the smaller States of the Union. The only policy offered during this time was a founders policy with a limit of $5,000.

Investors Increase Assets.

Assets of Investors Syndicate, for the past 27 years engaged in the sale of thrift certificates, increased $7,882,503.95 during the past twelve months, and are now in excess of $45,000,000, accrding to the October 31 balance sheet issued yesterday by E. M. Richardson, secretary and treasurer of the company. Since January, 1931, assets of Investors Syndicate have increased at an average of $637,865 per month, the report showed.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ACCORDING to all report, including that from the Tampa Chamber of Commerce, the little town of Venice, in southern Florida, is all a-twitter.

It seems that Ann Harding and Adolphe Menjou, more or less favorably known as a couple of hard-working movie people trying to get along, are expected to arrive in Florida some time this month to make exteriors for the new RKO-Pathe production, "Prestige." The locale selected by Al D'Agostino, studio representative, for the South African penal colony scenes is a beautiful jungle spot on the Myakka River, at Venice.

The site at Venice is said to be admirably adapted to the requirements of this prison camp. The Myakka River makes what is practically a hair-pin turn, and on the peninsula formed by this turn the stockade and prison camp will be built. Beautiful palm trees and dense jungle growth exist even down to the edge of the river. It is just such a scene as one would expect to find in South Africa—a river that looks as if it were full of crocodiles, and a jungle that might well be the habitat of terrifying wild animals.

However, the men now at work in this wilderness seem to have no fear of any such creatures, as they wield their axes and prepare the way for the road which Sarasota County is laying into this jungle, for the conveniences of the picture company.

This company will number approximately 30 persons, and it is expected that more than $150,000 will be spent in the State of Florida on this picture. This fact alone would cause widespread interest throughout the State, even if it were not combined with the universal appeal which the making of motion pictures holds for the public at any and all times.

Because of this appeal, the roads into Venice are already lined with cars of sightseers eager to get a first glimpse of the Florida "jungle" location of this latest Ann Harding picture.

And is Venice excited! The first thing you know they'll be dashing right out and putting a new coat of paint on the gondola!

It's too bad about this double anniversary celebration that is planned for next week at the Earle—Maxine Doyle's first birthday as mistress of ceremonies on Thirteenth street and a milestone marking the inauguration of the present vaudeville policy which has been so eminently successful.

I mean to say, it's too bad about Belle Baker's not being here that week instead of the next. Miss Baker will headline the stage portion of the bill at the Earle the week of November 21, but it would be a happier eventuation—or at least a closer observance of the eternal, if any, unities—if her engagement might begin on the fourteenth.

Why? Well, if you will hark back a year, you will remember that it was during Belle Baker's first appearance at the Earle that Maxine Doyle also made her local debut in a capacity which at that time was purely experimental. As I recall it, Miss Doyle, a total stranger in Washington, clung tight to the Baker skirts that first week, even to sharing her suite at the Washington.

So I insist it's too bad that they can not be together the week the anniversary is celebrated by a so-pretentious double bill.

Speaking of bills, and the like, reminds me that the RKO-Keith management is calling its November "Blue Ribbon Show Month." In view of the quality of the four bookings announced by Manager Hardie Meakin for the current month, there would seem to be some justification for the splurge.

The first of the four is, of course, "Way Back Home," in which Phillips Lord, as Seth Parker, his famous radio character, is now packing them in. Following this, presumably in the order named, will come the following:

Columbia Pictures' production of "Platinum Blonde," with Jean Harlow; the late Robert Williams, who scored so decisively in "The Common Law" and "Devotion," and recently met so untimely an end, and Loretta Young.

RKO-Pathe's "Suicide Fleet," in which the United States Navy participated, and in which Bill Boyd and James Gleason are featured.

"Are These Our Children?" Radio's ace picture of the year, according to all report. It was directed by Wesley Ruggles, maker of that glorious epic of the Southwest, "Cimarron."

Paste those in your hat—and try not to forget that you did!

Afterthoughts on the James Cagney interview, if you haven't sneaked out on me and closed the door so softly that I didn't notice: The last stage production in which he appeared was "Penny Arcade," which didn't do so well in New York a couple of years back . . . Louis Calhern, who plays dapper Dan Barker in "Blonde Crazy" with him, was a backstage visitor at the Earle on Saturday, before leaving the Capital with the "Brief Moment" Company for last night's opening in New York . . . Like Joe E. Brown, Victor McLaglen and the rest of the athletes and punchers, Jimmy finds that his film work keeps him in swell physicial trim . . . He looks it . . . Mrs. Cagney is a vivacious young woman who comes nearer living up to the billing of "redhead" than her husband . . . He can sing as well as dance, being a musical comedy product to begin with, but isn't caroling any roundelays this week for some reason or other, or none at all, I wouldn't be sure which.

Eva Sully, teamed with Jesse Block at the Earle this week, by the way, is a native of Atlantic City, N. J. Naturally, I know that a great many people go to Atlantic City, but I never knew any one ever come from there.

Except, of course, our Ambassador to France, but he just sort of Edged his way out, as you might say!

KING GEORGE OPENS PARLIAMENT TODAY

Ancient Pageantry Will Mark Beginning of MacDonald's Economic Battle.

London, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Amid the most gorgeous display of pageantry that Great Britain can muster, King George V. will open Parliament tomorrow.

Then, the tradiations fulfilled, the new House of Commons will get down to work on a program made public tonight by Prime Minister MacDonald in a speech at the lord mayor's banquet at the Guildhall. His address was broadcast to the United States.

Pointing out that the cabinet had been formed "to serve the nation in overcoming special difficulties," Mr. Macdonald enumerated these six cardinal aims:

To stabilize the pound.

To balance the nation's trade.

To maintain a balanced budget.

To participate in the dominions conference at Ottawa with a view to closer empire cooperation.

To work for the success of the disarmament conference.

To give India a workable constitution.

MacDonald promised that the newly constituted national government "means to solve the two great problems which face it."

"The first of these problems," he said, "is that the nation should balance its budget. We can not live on borrowing. We can not live on the destruction of our capital."

"Moreover," he said in explaining the second, "the nation must balance its trade."

His audience included members of the British cabinet, leaders in trade and industry and members of the Diplomatic Corps assembled to honor the new lord mayor, Maurice Jenks. Eight hundred guests rose to their feet and cheered when Mr. MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel entered the Guild Hall.

There is one right way to get rid of a cold and its possible complications—take Bromo Quinine. The quinine purifies and fortifies the system while the gentle laxative eliminates the impurities.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Gasping, or even the raising of eyebrows, on the part of audiences in the modern theater having become no longer de riguer, it can only be recorded that one of Mr. Robert Emmett Sherwood's most audacious and most fascinating plays last evening was accorded a reception of utmost warmth and cordiality by a large and enthusiastic assemblage of playgoers thoroughly inured to the dramaturgic probing of the impassioned intimacies and mysteries of sex.

With the lecherous impulses of an impoverished archduke of the House of Hapsburg, who returns to Vienna after an exile of ten years in quest of his former mistress, now happily married to one of Vienna's foremost psychiatrists, Mr. Sherwood has compounded a bit of appropriate psychoanalysis that lends a pungent and unacustomed flavor to much of his sprightly and politely obscene dialogue, and a twist or two of plot that contrives to leave the former lovers alone over night in almost the precise manner of the season's earlier "Cherries Are Ripe." It is, at least, a naive conception that the husband should be absent on a visit to the prefect of police on behalf of the unwelcome Hapsburg who has become his unbidden guest, to insure his safe passage across the Austrian border on the assurance that he will never return! What need, it might be asked, to return for another ten years?

The pretext for the cleverly involved situations—more psychological than physical—and the source of the comedy's pat title is a surreptitious reunion of a group of fallen monarchists who seek for one night to revive the social glories of the days before the revolution in Vienna, in Frau Lucher's once smart hotel, the scene of their former revelries. All have felt the deprivations and humiliations of political ostracism and reflect their hardships of mind and body in the shabbiness, or counterfeit splendor, of their appearance—all save only Rudolf Maximillian von Hapsburg, the dissolute and indefatigable philanderer, and Elena, as radiantly lovely as upon the occasion of their first flaming affair fifteen years before the opening of the play.

The embers of this love have never cooled. Always the name of Rudolf has raised the ominous specter of his presence in the otherwise tranquil home of Herr Doctor Anton Krug, and in all of his indiscriminate later romances, Elena has always been the image before the mind's eye of the irresistible rogue.

It is upon this premise that Mr. Sherwood has builded a drama of solid structure, much humor and a cleverly turned final act in which husband and lover indulge in a most delightfully absurb philosophical discussion of which shall share that night with the doctor's wife!

The piece is, of course, gorgeously played. Alfred Lunt, as Rudolf, here has a rather heavier burden than Lynn Fontanne, in the role of objective of two overpowering loves. He plays the part of the surviving scion of outlawed royalty with a lusty and lustful vehemence, mollified most discreetly by a buoyant and bumptious sense of humor. Miss Fontanne is regally beautiful throughout the three acts; graceful, poised and authoritative, as always, but not burdened by any excessive demands of a character that is charming but only intermittently dominant. It is as though a reversal of "Elizabeth the Queen" had been deliberately planned.

Minor Watson, in the pivotal role of Herr Doctor Krug, is perhaps wanting somewhat in vigor in some of his scenes, but notwithstanding this minor defect completes a competent and reasonably well balanced trio of principals. Two excellent comic studies are provided by Henry Travers, as Herr Krug, sr., and Helen Westley, as Frau Lucher. Eduardo Ciannelli, in the role of Poffy, the stanch adherent to the cause of the deposed nephew of Emperor Franz Josef, is obsequiously efficient.

Those cast in the many roles of atmospheric importance perform their tasks with all of the pompous formality to be expected from the proud relics of a banished aristocracy.

In its settings, "Reunion in Vienna" is as modern as in its assurance that upon the stage of the present day anything may with impunity be said or done.

BELASCO

"RHAPSODY IN BLACK." Leslie Productions, Inc., present Lew Leslie's "symphony of blue notes and black rhythm," starring Ethel Waters, supported by Valaida, Dusty Fletcher and Bessie Dudley, the Berry Brothers, Avis Andrews, Geneva Washington and Eloise Uggams, and featuring Pike Davis' Continental Orchestra and Cecil Mack's Choir. Return engagement with enlarged cast and amplified production. Reviewed by Frank P. Morse.

Earl Carroll and George White, not to mention Flo Ziegfeld, might to their advantage study the punches that make "Rhapsody in Black" a one-two continuous performance. This glorification of jazz returned to Washington last night an even better entertainment than it was proclaimed last April.

It is no small accomplishment for Ethel Waters to dominate the cast. She has very real opposition in every scene. It is true that her song hit, "You Can't Stop Me from Loving You," is the piece de resistance of the second half, but it is followed immediately by the Berry Brothers, who stop the show with "Papa Di-Da-Da," an exhibition of strutting that overshadows all recollections of minstrelsy in the palmy days.

However, the most artistic of the Ethel Waters' songs is "Dance Hall Hostess." Her pantomimic work in this number hasn't been equaled since Bert Williams first introduced his poker game without words. She wins sympathy for her aching "dogs" while presenting a complete exposition of how to slow up Harlem lotharios, expert in the technique of the taxi, who blunder into the belief that a 10-cent dance ticket carries special privileges. The hostess shows them the futility of getting hot, since she is "all broke out" with the stuff it takes to cool them off.

The star relinquishes the stage repeatedly throughout the two halves to a sinuous siren, Valaida, who deftly makes herself the red-hot mama of the entertainment. This remarkable singer and dancer and orchestra leader might be described as the barracuda's bitin'est buddy! Her wielding of the baton has a "Little Egypt" touch that has been overlooked by John Philip Sousa and all his imitators. Moreover, she droops a mean eye-lid. Two of her songs, "Till the Real Thing Comes Along," and "Harlem Rumbola," would be hits even if stripped of the "it."

One of the novelties of the current week is Blue McAllister's "Dream of the Chocolate Soldier," an exhibition of acrobatic tap dancing as fine as the accompaniment provided by Pike Davis' smashing Continental Orchestra.

Geneva Washington, owner of a really magnificent voice, leads the Cecil Mack Choir in "Chloe," a number that for pure melody is rivaled only by a perfectly gorgeous spiritual, "Heard Nobody Pray."

"Rhapsody in Black," should pack the Belasco at every performance this week. It offers the best singing, dancing, rhythm and comedy we have ever seen crowded into a single entertainment.

GAYETY

"STEP LIVELY GIRLS." Harry Bentley presents his song and dance revue, with Billie Diamond, guest star, supported by Jean Lee, Evelyn (Roxy) Murray, Stella Williams, Charlie Wesson, Jack Ryan and Harry Rose. Reviewed Monday night by W. L. Wright.

This attraction rings the bell as an all-round good burlesque presentation. Pretty girls, peppy songs and excellent comedy abound.

Charlie Wesson, a lively fellow with a smile from ear to ear, put over the laughs to take the lead honors from Harry Bentley, the reputed star of the show. Bentley could improve his work in many ways, but as is makes a good second to Wesson.

Harry Rose displays a nimble pair of feet in the first skit on the program, "Sailors on a Day Off." Rose, with Jack Ryan and Jess Mack, appears often. They all play their respective parts to perfection. This trio scored big hits with "A Little Man Handling" and "The Pest."

Billie Diamond, a stunning brunette, pleased every one and set a high mark for the other feminine leads to shoot at. Red-headed Jean Lee matched the good work of Miss Diamond and won great applause as she presented many numbers. Close seconds were Evelyn (Roxy) Murray and Stella Williams, two of the classiest blondes, to appear at this theater in some time.

Jimmy Lake, well-known helmsman of the Gayety, presented two colored lads, Inky Gordon and Freddie James, both of Washington, in some fancy tap dancing and cornet playing.

A chorus of eighteen beautiful and shapely dancers in stunning costumes do much to please the customers.

EDUCATION IS HELD FACING REAL CRISIS

Ballou Urges Continuance of School Program Despite Economic Slump.

Education today faces a real crisis because of the financial depression, Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District public schools, declared in a radio address last night broadcast by Station WRC over the network of the National Broadcasting Co. Dr. Ballou's address opened the observance in Washington of national education week. David Lawrence and Florence Hale, president of the National Education Association, spoke on the same program.

"Through the reductions in school appropriations that have already taken place, the efficiency of the present educational program of the public schools of America can not be maintained, and the educational welfare of the children threatens to be imperiled," Dr. Ballou said.

"The economic disaster that now confronts the American people," the superintendent said, "should not be permitted to visit its effect on the next generation. The efficiency and the general welfare of the next generation depend to a large extent on the amount, character and quality of the education that it is now receiving in the public schools.

"Close the educational institutions and cease other forms of systematic instruction, and the next generation must be illiterate. Delay in development of other municipal activities may only cause inconvenience for a time, but time lost in providing an adequate program of education for the child can never be made up, either by the school system or the child."

Quezon Report Implies Congress for Freedom

Manila, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Prevailing opinion in Washington, President Manuel L. Quezon of the insular Senate told a joint session of the Philippine Legislature today, is that should the question be put to Congress, "there would be a very large majority in favor of Philippine independence." Senator Quezon's address was a report on the independence mission to the United States which he headed.

Friends of the independence movement in Congress, Senator Quezon said, did not believe they would be able to rally sufficient strength to repass an independence bill should President Hoover veto it.

Church Safe Robbers Get $1,200.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A safe in the office of the Bellevue Baptist Church was looted early today of Sunday's collections, which church officers estimated at between $1,200 and $1,500. A chisel and hammer were used to open the safe.

West Virginian Shoots Self to Cure Earache

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 9.—Because he said he wanted to cure an earache, Charles Lorentz, 73, placed the muzzle of an old bulldog pistol below his ear and pulled the trigger today in a poolroom he owns at Glenville.

A doctor said the earache would have been cured permanently if the pistol had been a good one. But it was a poor pistol and the bullet did not go far into the head. Lorentz was taken to the General Hospital at Weston, where it was said he had a chance to recover.

Indictment of Sheriff Follows Rail Rum Raid

Atlanta Ga., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A railroad yard raid on a box car loaded with imported liquor here last April, led directly to the indictment in Savannah, of Sheriff M. F. Clark, of Liberty County, and two others, for an alleged rum conspiracy, Federal prohibition investigators disclosed today.

The shipment of liquor from near Hinesville, Liberty County, valued at $75,000 and billed to a bogus Chicago produce brokerage firm, was seized and destroyed. The investigation which followed led to Liberty County, where it was found a conspiracy existed for the smuggling of liquor from the Island of Bimini to Chicago, Cincinnati and other Midwestern points, Prohibition Agent P. B. Clark, who made the seizure here, said.

COURT DENIES PLEA TO ANTICIPATE LOSS

Injunction Asked to Prevent Distribution of Proceeds of Realty Deal.

"Anticipation of a loss" is not strong enough to enable interveners to sue out a write of injunction to prevent the distribution of proceeds of a real estate transaction, the Court of Appeals decided yesterday.

The decision was made on an appeal by Francis A. Blundon and Louis C. Dismer, real estate agents, against Walter B. Guy and Chester C. Caywood, who were appointed trustees by the District Supreme Court to make partition of a parcel of land.

Blundon and Dismer tried to intervene in the original suit and when they were refused they filed suit for an injunction to prevent the money realized from the sale being distributed until the termination of a lawsuit by a tenant injured while they were in charge of the property.

The court showed that loss of the lawsuit was only a possibility, and the court lacked jurisdiction to enjoin the distribution of a fund pending a possible judgment in favor of a creditor whose status as a creditor depends upon the outcome of the suit.

'Disobedience of God' Death Natural.

Oroville, Calif., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—An autopsy over the body of Martin Jordan, 50, whose death, members of the Brother Isaiah Colony said, resulted from "disobedience of God," has revealed he died of natural causes.

The New BRITANNICA at an unprecedented reduction in price

COMPACT BOOKCASE—A new compact bookcase, made of mahogany, has been specially designed for the 24 volumes. It will meet the requirements of either the large or the small room.

"How can the New BRITANNICA be sold for so small a price as this?"

A SHORT time ago we announced that temporary trade conditions had made it possible for us to offer the latest (14th) Edition of the Britannica at many dollars less than the previous standard price.

This is the lowest price at which the new edition of the Britannica has ever been offered.

Thousands of Sets Already Sold

We knew, of course, that many keen, progressive and prudent people had long wanted to own the Britannica. But we did not expect that so many people would take advantage of this offer so quickly.

Thousands of the sets available have already been sold; it will be wise for you to make sure of your set by ordering it immediately.

All your life you have doubtless wished to own the Britannica.

You have hesitated to buy it, perhaps, because you thought the price was more than you could afford. Here, then, is a great opportunity.

If you want one of these remaining sets at this unprecedented reduction of many dollars from the previous standard price, we urge you to mail the coupon today for full particulars.

More Than Your Money's Worth

Since the price of the new Britannica has been so sharply reduced, those who order it now are securing far, far more than their usual money's worth.

There are two sound reasons for this:

First:—The information in the Britannica is not only superbly comprehensive, explaining to you everything that is worth while, but to own it is to have the final authority of fact or information. It is an essential part of the equipment of every efficiently equipped home.

Next:—To purchase the very latest edition of the Britannica, while the present reduced price is in effect, is to take practical advantage of business conditions which no one expected, and which may never be repeated . . . conditions which enable you to own it for a sum that is almost trivial, when you consider the daily, and unending, usefulness of the Britannica, to all in your home.

To publish the Britannica in its twenty-four clearly printed and beautifully bound volumes—with its 24,000 pages and its 15,000 explanatory illustrations is, usually, a very costly operation—it must be.

But during the slow-business period through which we have just passed, fine paper and press work and binding have been considerably less expensive than usual.

We took full advantage of these unusual conditions—and we ordered that 600,000 volumes of the Britannica be printed and bound; an order equal to the very largest quantity of the Britannica that has ever been produced at one time.

Now—every single dollar of the great sum thus saved we are passing on to those who order while we can still fill orders at the new and LOWER price.

Every child attending (or soon to attend) school needs the Britannica, to help make lessons, and accomplishment, easier.

The business man finds in the Britannica the quick, correct answer to problems of commerce—law—manufacture—advertising and selling—invention—science—business management—and every phase of industrial development.

Women turn to the Britannica for practical information about running a home—health—literature and the arts—economics—charitable movements—and full explanations of the news of the day.

Write for Particulars

Seize this opportunity before it is too late. The time is now—it is the opportunity for which you have been waiting—tomorrow may be too late. Make sure of your set.

Your Money's Worth

Many people may not realize that the twenty-four large and beautifully bound volumes carry 35,000,000 words, the equivalent of 500 ordinary size books. This text is written by 3,500 authorities and is richly illustrated with 15,000 pictures, many in full color, and with 500 maps. Indexed, with 500,000 separate entries, the books are easily and agreeably read.

$5 Down, $5 a Month

Under our Thrift Plan, only $5 down is required to bring the set to your home for immediate use. Balance is payable in a few monthly instalments of $5 or more.

Send for 56-Page FREE BOOKLET

If you will now detach and then fill out and mail to us the address slip you find below, we will promptly mail you complete information about the new lower price of the Britannica. And we will explain our new Thrift Plan—which makes it easy for everyone to own and use this great, authoritative work of reference and education.

WHAT BRITANNICA OWNERS SAY

Willis A. Sutton
Recent Pres., Nat'l Education Ass'n
From the very beginning of school life the seeking mind of a child should be in a position to acquire reliable information. This he gets in the Britannica, unquestionably.

George C. Warner, Glen Ellyn, Illinois
A regular college education has been denied me; but I find its equivalent in these remarkable books.

John Grier Hibben
President, Princeton University
As a source of accurate and interesting information it will be of incalculable value in any household.

Nathan Abbott, La Jolla, California
The most for the money of anything I ever bought.

Ernest M. Hopkins
President, Dartmouth College
The new Encyclopaedia Britannica contains material for a very large degree of self-education on the part of any individual having access to it. The new edition is a surprisingly complete compendium of knowledge. I should not be willing to be without it.

I wish it were possible to put the Britannica in every home, especially where there are children. We are simply devouring our set.

GEORGIA-TULANE BATTLE TOPS GAMES SATURDAY

2 Undefeated Dixie Teams To Clash

Navy-Notre Dame to Share Day's Interest in the East.

Holy Cross to Test Harvard; Yale Has Off Day.

By HENRY McLEMORE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Saturday's national football schedule calls for dozens of top-flight games, but it isn't any trouble at all to name the one outsanding contest. This game will be played down in little Athens, Ga., between Tulane and Georgia, both of whom are undefeated and untied.

This affair is likely to prove one of the big moments of the 1931 season. It is a game that will not only come pretty close to deciding the Southern championship, but may have something to do with the award of the so-called national title.

The South has another big game Saturday, with Tennessee, another team with a perfect record, meeting a crack Vanderbilt aggregation. Other worthwhile Southern features include Kentucky vs. V. M. I., Florida vs. South Carolina, and Duke vs. North Carolina State.

Notre Dame-Navy Share Interest.

Interest in the East will be divided among five or six interesting games—Army vs. Pittsburgh, Holy Cross vs. Harvard, Notre Dame vs. Navy, Georgia Tech vs. Penn, Harvard vs. Holy Cross, Fordham vs. N. Y. U., and Cornell vs. Dartmouth. Four of the teams involved in this batch of games—Notre Dame, Harvard, Cornell and Fordham—are undefeated.

Yale, resting for Harvard on the twenty-first, will not play. The other member of the one-time Big Three, Princeton, will take on Washington and Lee.

Syracuse, another undefeated and untied Eastern outfit, will risk its clean record against Colgate.

Midwest Program Below Par.

The Midwestern program is a little below par. Northwestern engages Indiana, and Michigan State mixes it with Michigan in the headline games. Other games in and around that section of the country call for Minnesota to oppose Cornell College, and Illinois to meet Chicago.

The Far Western schedule is nothing to get excited about, with Washington meeting Washington State, and Oregon taking on Oregon State in the headline games. U. S. C.'s steam-roller will take a rest cure against Montana, and Stanford will do the same thing by playing Nevada.

The Southern Methodist-Baylor shindig looks like the best the Southwest has to offer. If you don't like that one, you might try Texas against Texas Christian or Rice and the Texas Aggies.

Harry Councilor "Y" Court Coach

Former Tech and Duke U. Star Calls Out Candidates Tomorrow.

Harry Councilor, former Tech High and Duke University basket ball star, has been named coach of the Y. M. C. A. Big Five court team for the ensuing season, it was learned last night. Councilor finished his post-graduate course at Duke last spring, and has become a member of the Y. M. C. A. school faculty.

Councilor was known as one of the speediest basket ball players ever developed in Washington. He had everything except height, and that some times was an advantage, especially when he cut for the basket, a trait which he mastered in a spectacular manner.

The new coach will call out his team tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock. Last year, playing under the name of Southeastern U., the outfit participated in the Washington Collegiate Conference.

Johnston to Offer Dempsey 4 Fights

Jack Due in New York to Discuss Plans for Bout in Miami.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Jimmy Johnston, boxing promoter of Madison Square Garden, today outlined a program he will present to Jack Dempsey when the former world's heavyweight champion comes to New York in the next few days to talk things over.

Johnston said he would offer the old man mauler, now campaigning in the hinterlands in exhibition bouts, a fight in Miami in February against Tommy Loughran, Johnny Risko, Paulino Uzcudun or Tom Heeney.

If Dempsey shows well there he will be matched with Jack Sharkey for an outdoor fight in New York in May or June.

And then, if he gets past Sharkey, a shot at Max Schmeling's heavyweight crown in a big outdoor show in September.

Dempsey wired Johnston from Northcott, N. Dak., today he would come to New York shortly to discuss his plans.

MACOMBER COLT WINS.

Lincoln Park, Eng., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—A. K. Macomber's Cold Streak at 11-2 against today won the Bankney Nursery Plate over 5 furlongs by 1 length from Capt. A. Wilson's Forecast, with W. Riley Smith's Yuartpot third. Eleven others also ran.

The race was worth 200 sterling (about $770).

TULANE GRID SQUAD IS DRIVEN

2 More Hard Drills Listed as Prep for Georgia Game.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Tulane's football squad went through a miscellany of practice today and for the next two days will be given hard scrimmages to toughen the gridmen for the game Saturday with Georgia at Athens.

Coach Bernie Bierman was not satisfied with the Green Wave's performance last Saturday in beating Auburn, 27 to 0. They played indifferently, he said, as he outlined a merciless schedule on the practice field.

Today was spent in running, punting, passing and calisthenics to get the kinks out of their muscles after the week-end loaf. Tomorrow and Wednesday the coaches will take chances on injuries by running them through hard-boiled scrimmage.

Squad of 36 to Invade Georgia.

If they come through the practice uninjured, 36 men will entrain Thursday evening for Atlanta, where they will be taken by special train to Athens Friday morning.

New Orleans is aroused as it never has been before over a football game. Folks here believe the game will mean the Southern championship for Tulane and an invitation to the Rose Bowl in California on New Year's Day.

Football enthusiasts were planning to travel from New Orleans by passenger and freight trains, automobiles and foot with the hope of begging rides to see the great unbeaten elevens in action.

One group sought to rent a box car for the trip and when they were turned down by the railroad some of them said they would ride box cars anyway.

FIGHTER OPERATED ON.

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Iowa, heavyweight, underwent an operation for appendicitis today, which will keep him out of the ring for several months. His condition was pronounced satisfactory.

TEMPLE TO PRACTICE.

All members of the Temple A. C. are requested to report for practice Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue, northwest. The team will scrimmage in preparation for Sunday's game with Hyattsville.

Mandell, Paid for "No Contest," Heeds Friends' Pleas to Quit

CHICAGO, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Sammy Mandell, once lightweight champion of the world, and for ten years considered the greatest boxer of his day, is through with the ring.

Heeding the pleas of his friends, the "shiek of Rockford" decided today to hang up his gloves forever—an old young man of 27 years.

Mandell made this decision when the Illinois State Athletic Commission ordered his purse of $1,250 paid after it had been held up pending review of his pitiful showing against Ralph Lenny, of Union City, N. J., last Wednesday in the Chicago Stadium.

Mandell, who rose to the heights of his profession by becoming champion, and defending it in some of the most stirring contests in ring history, had gone back so far that he suffered the humiliation of having his bout with Lenny stopped in the eighth round and declared "no contest."

Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the commission and president of the National Boxing Association, said the commission had waived one of its most stringent rules in paying off a boxer tossed out of the ring. He said the only reason Mandell was paid was because of his splendid character and achievements during the ten years he had been before the public, and the fact that he has always given the best that was in

MEXICO FIVE WILL PLAY C. U. HERE

International Basket Ball Game Booked for Jan. 8.

THE first international college athletic contest ever scheduled in Washington will be held the night of January 8 in Brookland Gymnasium, when the basket ball teams representing the University of Mexico and Catholic University will clash.

This game is one of the several feature attractions on the Catholic 1931-1932 court program, which was announced last night, showing a total of nineteen games. The appearance of the Mexican quintet will mark the longest journey any college team of the Central American country ever took for competition. Heretofore, the University of Mexico Football Team has met teams in the Southwest section of the United States, having played the University of Tulsa eleven last Saturday.

Intersectional Games Listed.

Several intersectional games also have been arranged for the Cardinal basketers, among them contests with Duke University, of Durham, N. C., and De Paul University, of Chicago, both of which will be played at Brookland. Catholic will play away when meeting Virginia and V. P. I.

Maryland University has been scheduled for the Cardinals' only game of strictly local flavor, the date

G. U. to Start Intensive Work

Realizes That West Virginians Boast Real Class.

Likely Return of Gellis Cheers Blue and Gray.

GEORGETOWN gathers its football forces today to begin intensive practice for its homecoming game with West Virginia with hopes that Ben Gellis, star left half back, will return from the injured list in time to see action.

Gellis, an 180-pound sophomore, has been out of the line-up since the New York University game with a severe knee injury, and his absence has had much to do with Georgetown's failures in its last four games. He is, when in condition, the fastest back of the squad and is an excellent passer and pass receiver, as well as a speedy, clever runner.

Gellis' Return Cheers Hilltoppers.

The possible return of Gellis was joyfully learned by the battered Hilltoppers, who seek to break a losing streak of three games at the expense of West Virginia. It is calculated that with Gellis in the line-up the Georgetown attack will be strengthened nearly 50 per cent.

Despite defeats and bad breaks, Coach Mills' players haven't lost heart, as was evidenced last Saturday when they came back savagely in the second half against Bucknell and all but snatched the game out of the fire. Only another of a long series of breaks prevented them from tying the game at least when the officials ruled illegal a lateral pass that was carried over the goal line by Johnny Shimmins.

Georgetown scouts have forewarned Coach Mills and the players that West Virginia is every bit as strong as last year when an underrated Mountaineer eleven downed the Blue and Gray, 14 to 7. In Doyle and Dotson, backs, and Sortet, end, the rival team has a trio of gridmen of exceptionally high caliber, say the scouts. Doyle, in particular, warrants the closest attention of the local club on account of his ability to forward pass.

Loughran 7-5 Choice to Defeat Uzcudun

New York, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight, started active training today at Stillman's Gymnasium for his 10-round bout with Paulino Uzcudun at Madison Square Garden Friday night. The Philadelphian appeared in top condition and has been installed as a 7-to-5 betting favorite.

European Welter King Due in U. S. Tomorrow

New York, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Franta Nekolney, a European welterweight who, Promoter Jack Curley claims, can fight "like Ace Hudkins, Benny Leonard and Battling Nelson all in one," is scheduled to arrive Wednesday for an attempt to win the world's welterweight championship.

Nekolney, a native of Czechoslovakia and champion of Europe, has been signed by Curley, best known as a wrestling promoter, for an American tour, and already has been offered bouts in Chicago and New York. Curley saw Nekolney fight while in Europe this summer to round up wrestling talent and signed him.

SCHOOL GRIDMAN DIES.

Vandergrift, Pa., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Becoming ill after playing in a non-scholastic football game yesterday, Louis di Sabato, 17, a senior in Vandergrift High School, lapsed into unconsciousness and died in a few hours. Death was believed to have been caused by concussion of the brain. He was struck on the nose and again on the head during the game, but continued to play.

Pigs, Turnips, Radishes Overlooked by Colleges As Football Nicknames

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—One of the most important items to be considered in the organization of a football team is the selection of a nickname and the preference runs largely to animals, although two New York City teams, New York U. and City College, are named for the demurest of flowers, the violet and the lavender, respectively.

Up to now no clubs have been named for any of the more prominent vegetables, which seems a strange oversight, for there would be dignity and substance in such a name as the Hot Potatoes or the Fiery Horseradishes. Princeton's team is known as the Tigers and also as the Orange, a compliment to the fruit family, but yes, we have no bananas and I do not recall any other team which is named after a variety of fruit.

The Kansas team is sometimes referred to erroneously by provincial Eastern writers as the Cornflowers but that is merely a confusion of terms, the Kansans being known as the Jaw Hawkers and the State as the Sunflower State.

Delicacy and Tact Required.

In selecting the name of an animal, the finest delicacy and tact must be observed, as there are certain animals which, for esthetic reasons, no college or university would wish to be associated with, in print. For instance, in all the long list of bears, lions, bulldogs, and so forth, there is no team named for the pig, except Arkansas, which is called the Razorbacks, which takes the edge off the sting attached to the name pig. And some warning sense tells me that if I were to refer to the Fordham team as the Fordham Pigs I would receive some unpleasant correspondence from old grads and undergrads of Fordham University.

This aversion is difficult to analyze, for the pig is a useful animal and a very dangerous opponent in a fight. Of course, the pig is not the most fragrant of animals, but then Fordham's symbolic pet is the ram and the ram's best friends do not hesitate to admit that the ram has B. O. even as the pig, if not more so.

In fact, at the United States Naval Academy, where the favorite animal is the goat, the midshipmen have an old ceremony of dousing their goat with the admiral's garden hose on certain football occasions to bring out the full strength of his bouquet. But the pig is out and so is the skunk, which is a rather handsome small animal with a defiant spirit that any football team should be proud to equal. Yet the midshipmen of the Naval Academy, when they have finished stimulating the odors of their goat with the admiral's garden hose, would be loath to admit that any animal on earth could excel, or, let us say, surpass him for rank pungency and diffusion.

There was a time when Alfred College and Upsala College, whose athletes annually yielded themselves to

NAVY DRILLS FOR NOTRE DAME

Regulars Given Hike Instead of Session on Grid.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 9.—Every Navy regular football player who participated in the game against Ohio State at Columbus last Saturday was given a complete rest today, and the program for tomorrow also calls for a lay-off as far as gridiron activities are concerned. Instead, the squad will be taken on a brisk cross-country hike.

The Middies could hardly believe they would have nothing to do today when all hands trekked to the gymnasium to get into harness, but the word had gone down the line from Head Coach Rip Miller, and Rip meant what he said. The head mentor does not believe in forcing his charges too hard. He said the game with the Buckeyes came as a climax of five weeks of intensive campaigning, and at least the players who got into that fray were entitled to a respite.

Elliott Out for Week Or More.

Most of the players were pretty badly battered, so Miller decreed that there should be a few days of cessation of activity, both from a physical and mental standpoint. Other members of the varsity squad, however, were put through the paces this afternoon, as usual. None of the regulars suffered serious hurts, although the injuries to Elliott, right end, may keep him out of the game for a week or more.

Notwithstanding the lay-off, Miller feels that his pupils will be on sufficient edge to play the game of which they are capable when they stack up against the powerful outfit from Notre Dame in the Baltimore Stadium on Saturday. In the meantime, officials of the Navy Athletic Association are working overtime, issuing tickets and perfecting various other details in connection with the Navy-Irish tilt. Indications are that the game will draw 61,000. This is the present capacity of the stadium. The Middies and Buckeyes played before 60,600.

Stunts to be put on by the regiment of midshipmen will make the game a colorful spectacle, and there will be many distinguished guests from Washington and elsewhere watching the battle. Representative Stephen W. Gambrill, of the Fifth Maryland District, will be among a big party to be entertained by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy. Vice Admiral Sir G. H. S. Haggard, of the Royal British Navy, will be there as the guest of Ammiral William V Pratt, chief of operations, Navy Department. Other British officers from Admiral Haggard's flagship also will witness the game. Gov. Albert C Ritchie of Maryland will occupy a box in the Navy stands, and will have a party of friends with him.

Navy Mascot Has Had Day At Columbus.

"Billy," the goat, Navy mascot, fared badly on his trip to Columbus, according to athletic officials. "Old Bill" was stabled in a veterinarians' clinic, about a block away from the Columbus Stadium. Some overzealous Ohio State students made the discovery, it is believed, and got into his pen and daubed his haunches with red paint.

His goatship is fleecy white and the paint application gave him the standard of Ohio State colors. Officials of the university, upon learning of the prank, soon had Billy groomed properly for the game. Billy is now back at Annapolis waiting to get all "dressed up" for the Notre Dame battle.

Rockne Fame Upheld by Anderson

Notre Dame's New Coach Is Hailed as Wizard.

Players Have Gained Fifth of Mile in Each Game.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, who stepped into one of the most trying positions of the great autumnal sport when he inherited Knute Rockne's big coaching shoes, has amazed not only the football world, but Notre Dame.

His Notre Dame raiders, clicking off yards at the rate of better than one-fifth of a mile a game in their rush to new fame and still another undefeated record, have convinced even the most dubious that a new master of the gridiron has arrived and that it won't be necessary after all to haul out the emotional "carry on for Rockne" banners to get along.

The Notre Dame touchdown manufacturing system is the same today as in the Rockne era, but the make-up of the coaches is strikingly different. Unlike the old master of the Ramblers, Coach Anderson is quiet on and off the field. He seldom speaks, but when he does the touchdown makers go through their tricks. They swear by him with as much emphasis as they did their past master, and the results have been astonishing.

Capable Teacher Of New Men.

Coach Anderson's ability to teach the fundamentals and tricks of smart football to new men has been the secret of his far-reaching success. Probably never before in Notre Dame football history have there been more capable reserves than those of the present squad, one of the most ruthless machines to grind its way over the gridiron.

Keepers of statistics have just about tossed up their hands in despair since the new Anderson-conducted march of the raiders began October 3 with a 25-to-0 conquest over Indiana. More players have been employed, the yardage gained from scrimmage has been all but staggering.

In their sweep, which was halted only by a scoreless tie in the mud of soldier field by Northwestern, Notre Dame has averaged the surprising record of 365 yards, or better than one-fifth of a mile, from the line of scrimmage. Five teams boasted undefeated records when they tackled Notre Dame, and all but Northwestern left the field of battle in hopeless defeat.

Regulars Average Only 20 Minutes.

Because of the large number of capable reserves, 43 members of the big Notre Dame football army have seen action so far this year, while substitutions have been so frequent and possible because of the lopsided scores that 57 have been used in one game. The average employment of the first-string team has been limited to approximately 20 minutes a game with each game, except against Northwestern, seeing at least three full teams and ten extra backs thrown in for good measure and more experience.

Better than 40 per cent of the Notre Dame forward passes this year have been completed. Punting hasn't been so necessary this year, but the backs have averaged better than 39 yards a boot, while the placement kicks for extra points after touchdowns reached a new high point of efficiency against Pennsylvania when seven were arched through the uprights by four kickers for a perfect record.

Called Wizard By Harper.

Jess Harper, who was recruited to take the big job as director of athletics at Notre Dame after Rockne's tragic passing, rates Coach Anderson as one of the really great mentors of the game.

"They'll find out, if they don't know it now, that Anderson is a wizard," commented Harper. "He has amazed us here and is destined to become recognized as one of the greatest teachers of them all."

Harper, contrary to public belief, hasn't lifted a finger in the building of the 1931 team.

Harvard Game Nets $5,918 for Charity

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 9 (U.P.).—The collection for the unemployed taken at the Harvard-Dartmouth football game totaled $5,918.32, Harvard authorities announced tonight.

The money will be divided between the presidents of Harvard and Dartmouth for distribution to the unemployed as they see fit. The Harvard fund will be allowed to accumulate until after the games with Holy Cross and Yale, when it will be distributed, it was announced. Collections also will be taken at the next two Harvard games.

Kearns Admits His 3 Fighters Soon Will Be World Champions

NEW YORK, Nov. 9 (U.P.).—Jack Kearns, ace of boxing's ballyhoo artists, broke down today and confessed that he was positive he would be managing three world champions—Mickey Walker, heavyweight; Benny Leonard, middleweight, and Jackie Fields, welterweight—within six months.

"Mickey will knock out Schmeling at Los Angeles in February to win the heavyweight crown," said Kearns. "Fields will take the welter title by defeating Lou Brouillard in Boston, December 11, and after two or three more tune-up contests, Leonard will step out and win the 160-pound honors."

Kearns attempted to furnish additional "steam" for the proposed Walker-Schmeling bout, by declaring that Walker was the "holder of four titles—heavy, light-heavy, middle and welter by virtue of referees' decisions." Overlooking the fact that Walker lost the welterweight title on a referee's decision to Pete Latzo, Kearns reasoned that Walker won the 147-pound title from Jack Britton and the middleweight from Tiger Flowers and also won referee's decisions over Light-heavyweight Champion Tommy Loughran and Jack Sharkey, whom Kearns nominates as heavyweight champion—although in both the Loughran and Sharkey bouts the referee was overruled by the judges.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS column has tumbled over itself in the past few days to congratulate the three local universities who have buried politics and petty differences to collaborate in providing Washington with a charity football game in the Nation-wide program of President Hoover's relief committee.

Georgetown University, Catholic University and George Washington University responded nobly to the proposal that they meet the Alabama Rose Bowl Team of 1930 in Griffith Stadium on December 12 for the relief of the District's unemployed in three 20-minute games. On a day's notice they accepted the plan to put their teams on the field against the unbeaten Alabamans, and Washington was assured a charity game that in point of attractiveness and good football concedes nothing to any game anywhere.

But apparently this column has made an ommission in its distribution of bouquets, unintentional though it was. The following letter to this department is therefore submitted.

"I have noted with interest the football game to be played for the unemployed in Griffith Stadium on December 12.

"I think it is a great stunt and feel confident that the stadium will be filled and that the game will be full of thrills.

"I do not wish to appear in the light of criticizing, but it would seem to me that in passing out the compliments that at least some of you sports editors should give the Alabama boys credit for going in training and making the long trip solely to help the District of Columbia's unemployed. The game itself will be far from a frolic, and I happen to know that the boys passed up an invitation to play a charity game in sunny California and accepted the District game instead.

"Coaches Frank Thomas and Hank Crisp are too well known to need an introduction to followers of football. For some time now they have been in communication with the 22 huskies who will invade Washington; and ten days before the spectacle at Griffith Stadium, Thomas and Crisp will send them through the stiffest sort of work—excelling even the preliminary training which is necessary for the annual Rose Bowl game, in which Alabama meets the greatest team of the West before amazing numbers of people.

"Yes, give them credit. While they come from their balmy climes to Washington's undoubted cool, when by a mere nod of their head the whole crew could have returned to their wars in the West. Or they could have gone to Tennessee for an intrasection tussle.

"I don't see how the game can help but draw a multitude. The Alabama bunch fairly bristles with great football players; and, as has been stated before in your columns, it will be, perhaps, the only chance ever to bring Georgetown, George Washington, and Catholic Universities together on the same gridiron the same afternoon.

"Trusting that you will not consider this suggestion presumptuous, I am, with best wishes,

"Yours very truly,
JOHN HAMILTON DAVIS
(Alabama, '29)."

The December 12 game is calculated to prove a tremendous drawing card for Washington fans. It affords Capital football followers the only opportunity to draw an accurate line of comparison on the three Washington teams, none of which play each other or meet an opponent common to the trio.

The coming of the Alabamans ought to stir the sectional pride of the thousands of Southerners in Washington. Southern football in the past few seasons has developed to the point where many critics assert that, sectionally, Dixie leads in the gridiron game. In the light of Georgia's conquests this season and Alabama's record of never having lost a Rose Bowl game in four visits to the Coast, it is hard to refute.

40,000 Cheer as Meiji U Nine Makes 3 Hits Off Southpaw and Kelly.

Tokyo, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Although it lost the game to a team of America major and minor league barnstormers, the Meiji University baseball team set 40,000 Japanese fans to cheering wildly today by hitting Lefty Grove, Philadelphia Athletics' hurler for two singles and Geoge Kelly, minor league player, for a double. The Americans won the game 4-0.

Grove fanned eleven Japanese players, retiring in favor of Kelly at the end of the seventh inning.

DR. FREELAND'S LATE RUSH WINS BALTIMORE HANDICAP

Salmon Horse Overhauls Leaders

Beats Mr. Sponge by 2 Lengths; Third to Pittsburgher.

Barcelona Pete Wins in Fourth Race at $23 Mutuel.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 9.—Walter J. Salmon's Dr. Freeland, winner of the Preakness here in 1929, came with an impressive finish today to win the featured Baltimore handicap by a length from Joseph E. Widener's Mr. Sponge, which had led from the start of the mile and a furling race to within 20 feet of the end of the race. A well-judged ride by W. Nertney, one of the best of that star jockey, was a feature of the race.

This, by the way, was the first of three successive victories credited to Nertney, who followed by bringing Hillsborough home first in the sixth and Vacillate in the seventh. This was the third triple credited to Nertney in successive meetings, for he rode three winners in one day twice during the Laurel meeting.

Dr. Freeland Responds When Called On.

Dr. Freeland was held within striking distance all through the back stretch, and closing gradually on the tiring Mr. Sponge, darted past him when Nertney desired, winning by a length. Pittsburgher, which races for the Shady Brook Farm, was close to the pace of Mr. Sponge to the stretch and held third. The race was run in 1:51 1-5. The record is 1:51 flat.

Dr. Freeland paid $6.30. Mr. Sponge was $8.80 a place. Pittsburgher was $9.70 to show. Tancred was fourth. Ten horses started and the share of the stake to the winner was $5,080.

The weather was warm and bright, and a large Monday crowd was out for the sport.

The Caswell, for 2-year-olds, secondary feature, was won by Max Hirsch's Barcelona Pete by the thickness of a wafer from Seagram Stable's Dark Mission, after a stirring stretch run, in which Dark Mission, which had set all the pace, had the advantage to the last strides. E. J. Holland's Shiva was third and My Fergus fourth. The time, 1:43 2-5, was within a second and one-fifth of a second for a mile and 70 yards. George Fields was at his best on Barcelona Pete. He moved up after the far turn, and was alongside Dark Mission and the duel began. Barcelona Pete paid $23.60. Dark Mission was $10.90 for place.

Seagram Stable's Hayfire, favorite, won the first race for maiden 2-year-olds by a length, with Legere up. This is the first victory for Legere since his suspension at Laurel. Salama, early pacemaker, was second, and paid $38.10 for place and $25 to show. Chosen Pal was third. The winner paid $6. The time was 1:13 3-5. Martinelli took Salama out in front from the gate and was far in the lead. Hayfire gradually improved his position and in the stretch took the lead.

C. H. Trotter's Chancellor, running in improved form under Marinelli's vigorous ride, won the second race by a length and a half. Monocle was second and Mud third. Ruane, Nertney up, was pinched off at the start and last going to the first turn. Monocle led to the turn into the stretch, when Chancellor, which had been closest to the leader all the way, took the track. Mud had early speed. The time for the mile and three-sixteenths was 2 4-5, and the winner paid $16.30.

Thomas Hitchcock's Creek won the Monkton Steeplechase by fifteen lengths. Stephen Sanford's Dark Magne was second and F. Ambrose Clark's Louis d'Or third. Swansia was the only other horse to finish. Creek had much help in winning, for the favorite, Sun Eclipse, fell, as did A. C. Bostwick's Sea Story, resulting in the destruction of Sea Story to put the horse out of his misery.

A. Scott, who had the mount on Creek, had all he could do to hold the Hitchcock horse in the course. Sun Eclipse was close to the leader

SALAMA, quick to settle in her stride, saved ground while setting a good pace, but faltered when challenged. CHOSEN PAL, on the outside of the leaders and avoiding interference, held on well. HORATIA began slowly, was blocked badly when attempting to secure racing between her field nearing the turn, recovered to finish gamely. CREEK, handled in improved fashion, took command at his leisure going to the fifth fence, shook off repeated efforts from SUN ECLIPSE and, gaining a long lead after the twelfth fence, was much the best thereafter. DARK MAGNE, reserved for two miles, responded when put to a drive, stumbled on landing at many of his fences, but continued gamely to the end. LOUIS D'OR made several moves and held on gamely. SWANSEA was done after a mile and one-half. SUN ECLIPSE, taken back and rated for a mile and one-half, challenged boldly going to the twelfth fence. He lost his rider at the fourteenth jump. ### —Pimlico Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 9.—Featuring the card tomorrow is the Pimlico Homebred, $2,500 added, for 2-year-olds, in which twelve juveniles have been listed to start in the fifth race. The third race, secondary feature, is called the Bred at Home, for all-aged horses, which is for horses foaled in Maryland, but the feature is not restricted.

J. E. Widener's STAGECRAFT seems much the best in the feature. STAGECRAFT was beaten a head Saturday by Snapback, a fast race in which Burning Blaze was unplaced. He should not be extended to win this race, for the field is not as strong as was that one. AIR PILOT is probably the contender, and on his works should be in best form. The C. V. Whitney entry of CLOTHO and HEY THERE may be closer than third.

Several fast juveniles are in the Homebred, including BOSCOBEL and SPRINGSTEEL.

FIRST RACE — RENEWED looks best in the opening race for 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings, at a mile and 70 yards. BONNIE PRINCE, which ran some good races in New York, probably is next best, but it is an open field. PENNYWISE ran third the other day and should figure prominently.

SECOND RACE—If SYRIAC can repeat his race time before the last, in which he was second and paid $52, he can win this. His last start was far below his previous one. He is inconsistent, but may run well in this. ARRAS is more consistent and will be the contender. SQUEEZE PLAY should be third on New York form.

THIRD RACE—The Bedwell entry of FAIR FOLLY and JUSTICIARY should score in the third, the Bred at Home. ANNAPOLITAN will probably hold the others safe. FAIR BETH is a bad actor, but probably will be close up if she gets away. The entry stands out.

FOURTH RACE — Greentree Stable's BYZANTINE is not quite a second-rater and should win from this ordinary field of maiden colts and geldings. LANSON and UPRISE are probably next, in the order named. Ten are to start.

SIXTH RACE—ST. FRANCIS, easy winner Saturday, should repeat. SOLACE, winner last out, should furnish the only formidable contention. SPANISH probably will get third money.

SEVENTH RACE—DOUBLE O has the call on his showing last out. HERENDEEN is said to be in best condition of the season. SIR JOHN ALDEN has a chance and should be as good as third. There is a large field of platers out for the purse and there will be no outstanding favorite.

PIMLICO NOTES

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 9.—Gov. Ritchie of Maryland has approved an extra day of racing at Bowie for charity. This track held a charity day last spring, and the other major tracks have held a day each for the benefit of the unemployed. The extra day proposed by the Bowie management would make five days.

Two suggestions have been made for the extra racing day, one that it be held on Sunday during the season there to begin next Monday, the other that it be held on Monday following the close of the meeting on the last Saturday in November. Horsemen are inclined to favor Sunday, as was held at New Orleans last spring. They gave as the reason that it would be a hardship to delay their horses being shipped to the winter tracks two days. The tracks so far have contributed a fund of $83,000 to the community drive for the unemployed.

John P. Schorr, of Washington, has signed a contract to train the Three D's Stable's thoroughbreds next year. Schorr succeeds R. N. (Dick) Vestal.

Pari-Mutuel Manager Mort Mahoney states that Saturday's handle of $776,000 was $175,000 more than a year ago. He also said that the $50 machines did 24 per cent greater business than a year ago, which makes it look as if there still are numerous big betters around.

Mahoney plans to leave for Miami, Fla., at the conclusion of this meeting to superintend the building of several features which he wants installed in the pari-mutuel plant at Joe Widener's course.

Trainer Duke Moore has retired Norman Cochran's string for the year. He had Visionary gelded and sent back to the farm in Pennsylvania.

It was reported here today that Jockey Francis Horn won't be allowed to ride until the Canadian Racing Association sends down papers to the effect that the lad has been restored to good standing there.

MERCURYS PRACTICE.

The Mercury unlimited eleven will hold an important practice session tonight at 7 o'clock at Four-and-a-Half and B streets southwest. Coach Litkus requests all players to report in full uniform. The team captured the 1930 championship of The Post's Capital City League, and is deadlocked with two teams for the lead.

CATHOLIC U. WARNED TO EXPECT BATTLE FROM ST. FRANCIS

Cards to Start Hard Work Today

Aerial Defense to Be Stressed for Game Friday Night.

Best Saint Team of Recent Years Will Invade District.

ESSAYING an "iron man" role will be the self-appointed task of the plucky St. Francis football team which faces Catholic U. under the klieg lights at Griffith Stadium Friday night.

On Wednesday, at Latrobe, Pa., the Red Flashes are to lock up in battle with their dearest rival, St. Vincent. Originally scheduled to meet C. U. at Brookland Saturday, St. Francis nevertheless readily complied with the request of Athletic Director "Dutch" Bergman to shift the game to Friday night.

Undaunted by the formidability of this task the "Flashes" further declared that they will come to Washington thoroughly prepared for a real scrap.

Saints No Set-up, They Admit.

"Don't get the idea that C. U. will be playing a set-up," is a warning sounded from the little school high in the mountains of Pennsylvania. "Geneva was figured to whip us by a big margin early in the season. As it was we were unfortunate to drop a 12-6 decision. Too, we held Davis and Elkins to three touchdowns in one of the hottest games the West Virginians have had all season."

Earlier in the season St. Francis unceremoniously jolted Buffalo Canisius, 19-7; walloped Slippery Rock, 12-0, and battled St. Thomas of Scranton, to a scoreless deadlock.

Located at Loretto, Pa., St. Francis has made rapid strides in its gridiron progress during the past two years. This season it claims the finest reputation in its history.

The Cardinals were given a day of rest by Head Coach Bergman yesterday but today are to resume drilling for the impending contest. Breaking up the overhead game will be a defensive measure stressed by Bergman as drills are renewed at Brookland.

Gonzaga-St. John's To Play at Eastern

The Gonzaga-St. John's football game, upon which hinges the 1931 championship of the prep and private schools of the city, will be played in Eastern High Stadium, it was announced yesterday. The game, carded for Friday, will start at 3:15 o'clock. Gonzaga is favored to win by a fairly comfortable margin, and in doing so, would atone for a 15-0 defeat suffered last year.

It will be the thirteenth meeting between the rivals, and only once, last year, have the Cadets been able to best the I street team. Gonzaga is bigger and better this year than it has been since 1925.

Wittmer's Removal Denied at Princeton

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Reports that Al Wittmer, head football coach at Princeton, was to be replaced immediately were denied tonight by Thurston J. Davies, supervisor of athletics.

"There is absolutely no basis whatsoever for the rumor that Wittmer is to be replaced," Davies said after his attention had been called to a report that Wittmer would be succeeded by Harry Stuhldreher, of Villanova.

Wittmer, when he replaced Bill Roper, signed a four-year contract. The unusually poor record of the Tigers this season—one victory and five defeats—has prompted several rumore that the contract would be broken and Wittmer replaced.

MEXICO COURTMEN TO FACE C. U. FIVE

being February 3 and the place College Park.

Today at 4:30 o'clock Coach Forrest Cotton, new Cardinal basket ball mentor, will hold the first practice of the year for his candidates. Those now occupied with football will not report until after the charity game with Alabama's Rose Bowl champions on December 12. As some of the best basket ball players are thus excused, the Cardinals will be unable to present their strongest front against St. John's, of Brooklyn, probably the best team on the schedule, which will be met in the opening game on December 11.

C. U. Court Prospects Bright.

Despite the loss of Walsh, Hanley, Cunningham and Riley through graduation, Catholic's prospects in basket ball are bright. Veterans who will be available following the football campaign are Lou Spinelli, forward or guard; Tom Whelan, Johnny Oliver, Ed Darowish, forwards; Buster Sheary, Whitey Ambrose, Fred Guarnieri and Paul Myers, guards, and Bingo Flynn, center. John Hickey, last year's center, has forsaken basket ball for track.

Sophomores expected to bolster the squad are Bob McVean and Joe McNerny, forwards; Dick Galliher and Cy Dillon, centers; Ed White, John Jankowski, Henry Bruder, Ray Howe and Joe Cannizzaro, guards.

December 11—St. John's, Brooklyn, N. Y.; 12, City College of New York, New York; 16, Maryland State Normal at Brookland; 19, Duke at Brookland; 22, Long Island University, New York; 23, St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N. J.

January 8—University of Mexico at Brookland; 14, St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia at Brookland; 18, Villanova at Brookland; 19, Loyola of Baltimore at Brookland; 20, Duquesne at Brookland; 23, De Paul University of Chicago at Brookland.

February 3—Maryland University, College Park; 6, Loyola, Baltimore; 8, Bucknell at Brookland; 10, Virginia, Charlottesville; 11, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg; 19, Seventh Regiment of New York National Guards, New York; 20, Manhattan, New York.

TURKEY DAY PLAN OFF.

Western High School has given up its plan of sheduling an out-of-town opponent to open its newly completed stadium on Thanksgiving Day. Although the stadium field has been sodded more than a week, and appears to be in suitable condition, the school authorities have ruled that no game be played this year.

It is not known whether Western will seek a game with an opponent on a foreign field.

BERT TITUS, champion checker problemist, played on 12 different checker boards simultaneously, when making his astounding record of 6,000 games played in 3 weeks without losing a game. A month later, he duplicated the record! Titus has held some manner of championship since he was five years old.

The course record at East Lake, Atlanta, is 63, a mark set by Robert T. Jones in 1922. Jones achieved this remarkable score by making 9 birdies and 9 pars over the 18-hole layout and, as a result, finished 9 up on old man Par, himself, whom most of us know only slightly.

The nearest approach to this record was in 1928, when Bobby himself, scored a 64.

DRAPER TOPS SCHOLASTIC SCORERS

Western Quarter's Total of 18 Is High by Five Points.

BIG JIM DRAPER, Western quarter back, who returned to the fold of eligible high school gridmen last Friday, tops the high school series scorers with a pointage of 18, as a result of his running wild against Eastern in his only game of the season. Johnny Gormley and George Sachs, Tech backs, who have played in two games apiece, run second and third with totals of 13 and 12, respectively. These three are the only multiple scoring backs in the series to date, which has run seven games.

As testimony of the fact that there are no boys in the series who stand head or shoulders above their fellow players in the matter of running the ball, the nineteen touchdowns recorded have been scored by the large number of fifteen players.

Tech Likely to Produce Leader.

While lurking in second and third places, Tech appears to have the greatest chance of producing the leading scorer. Draper's next and final appearance in the series will be Friday of this week, when Central High is met in what should be one of the closest high school games of the year. It promises to be a low-scoring tussle.

Tech, on the other hand, is down on the books to meet two of the tournament's also rans, Eastern, Thursday, and Business on November 17, the latter being a charity game. Both contests should be decided by large scores.

Tech itself, aside from an individual slant, is out in front of the team scoring, with seven touchdowns and a brace of extra points, one full touchdown ahead of Western.

Auto Driver Is Killed When Car Wheels Lock

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Injuries received when the wheels of his racing car became locked at a turn on the Ascot Speedway Saturday caused the death of Herman Schurch, 27, late that night.

Schurch had gained a reputation here and in the East as a fearless racing pilot. Witnesses said when the car wheels locked Schurch was thrown high into the air. The machine crashed into a wall.

His bride of a few weeks survives him.

STANTONS MEET.

All members of the Stanton eleven are requested to report at Stanton Park tonight at 7 o'clock before proceeding to Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue for a workout.

Hitting the Head Pin

ANOTHER claimant for the record of rolling the greatest number of consecutive games has come forward in the person of Ray Cross, official scorer of the ponderous Masonic League. Ray participated in every match rolled by the Hope Team in the seven seasons from 1922 to 1929, inclusive. He started the 1930 schedule, but an attack of appendicitis halted his string, which might have gone on indefinitely.

Masonic League schedules during this time called for over 100 matches on more than one occasion, and at this rate Cross is believed to have rolled over 2,400 games.

Lorraine Gulli had previously laid claim to that honor with a record of eight consecutive seasons to substantiate her contention. The unearthing of old records and league schedules has definitely established the fact that Lorraine bowled 684 games without a break. It is possible that she may have started the string before the year, where the count is taken up by her supporters, and if this is true, her mark may be over 700.

Another of those "special" matches, the second of the season, will get under way Friday when Swan's Team, Columbia Heights League, clashes with the Hecht Co., District League team, in the first block of a ten-game match at 8 p. m. on the Arcadia drives. The second block will be contested at the Recreation alleys the following Friday. As is customary in such matches, total pins will decide the winner. Swan's will be represented by "Boots" Hollaron, "Dutch" Whalley, "Sam" Simons, "Perce" Wolfe and "Mag" Wood. The Hecht Team will have "Whip" Litchfield, Jack Wolstenholme, Joe Harrison, Maxie Rosenberg and Joe Pricci.

Ray Ward, energetic new anchor man of the Barnes Auto team in the National Capital League, more than proved his worth last night when he led his mates to a 2-1 triumph over Rinaldi Tailors at Lucky Strike. True, the winners barely got in under the wire ahead of their arrivals, but a victory is a victory, if it's only by the slim margin of one pin. (Ask the man who owns one.) Incidentally, it was the first time this season Barnes was able to win two games. Santini, of Rinaldi, topped both crews with his game of 144 and set of 383. Ward contributed a 139 game and 371 set to his team's success.

Anna Williams scintillated in the Eastern Star Ladies League matches rolled at Bill Wood's Lucky Strike establishment. She rolled a game of 140 and stacked up enough points in her three games to obtain a 350 set. Her team, Ruth, copped team high game honors with a total of 534 bottles.

The Robinson team, of the General Counsel League, garnered team honors for the evening in its own particular league, at Lucky Strike. It counted a 532 game and 1,516 set. Jones, of the Nationals, hit the maples for a 138 game.

Anything that bore the slightest resemblance of a record was smashed at King Pin last night, as the members of the King Pin Business Men's League gathered for their weekly pow-wow. Hecht Co., in defeating Chestnut Farms, 2-1, the first time the feat has been accomplished this season, hung up new marks for high team game and high team set. The department store bowlers killed 662 pins for the game mark and 1,787 to beat the set record. Aylor, of Hechts, broke the existing records for individual high game and set with scores of 152 and 382. His work was an important factor in the team's triumph. In the other match rolled National Lithographers took all three from King Pin.

Last night was "clean-up" night in the Sanico League, and the boys enjoyed a corking good time, four of the five matches ending in shut-outs for the losing teams. This should mean something to the King aggregation, which did win one game from Wynn. La Bille, Upperman, Foster and Fagan were victors in the other matches. The sadder but wiser teams are McFall, Willis, Hendrick and Tiencken.

Under the same Convention Hall roof the Merchants Leaguers were waging their weekly battle, and some good scores were recorded. Penn Electric put the bee on National Glass shop for all three, W. R. Winslow took two from Barber & Ross. W. B. Moses borrowed the extra game from Thompson Bros., Thompson's Dairy eked out a one-game win over its rival dairy brothers, Southern, and Kapnack shut out Uneeda Bakers.

The Aheps League matches, rolled at the same place, resulted in three whitewash victories for Aristotle, Socrates and Hercules. Plato, Pericles and Leonidas took the drubbings.

Kibby rolled a game of 143 as Treasury socked Merchant Fleet for three games in the Federal League at Arcadia. He also chalked up high set of 377 for the evening. Navy won high team game honors with its 807, and came right back to cop the set laurels with a total of 1,773. The other matches resulted in a clean sweep for Commerce over G. P. O., Postoffice's one game win over Internal Revenue, Public Parks and Buildings' victory over Navy Yard, and a triumph for Navy Department over Veterans' Administration.

Draftsmen and Pressmen whacked the honors in the Engineering Reproduction Plant League up among themselves in their matches rolled at Arcadia. The former took high game honors, 550, and the latter high set, 1,520. Cunningham, of Draftsman, won individual high game laurels with his 134, and Pestel, Pressmen, evened it up by knocking down enough pins, 360 in all, for high set.

Carnera Signs to Box In Chicago and Berlin

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—King Levinsky, the reformed fish peddler, will test his wallop on Primo Carnera in a ten-round battle at the Chicago Stadium November 19.

Approval of the match was given today by the Illinois State Athletic Commission after representatives of Carnera had agreed to pay a fine of $1,350 imposed by the Italian Boxing Federation for failure to fulfill a boxing engagement in Italy two years ago. As the foreign boxing board has a working agreement with the National Boxing Association, Carnera has been under suspension in States under the N. B. A. jurisdiction.

Berlin, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, has been signed for a match here December 15 with Ernest Guehring, German boxer, recently returned from an American tour, promoters announced today. Carnera was guaranteed 30,000 marks, about $7,200, and Guehring 20,000 marks, about $4,800, the announcement said.

DIXIE PIGS DRILL.

The Dixie Pig football team will practice tonight at 8 o'clock on the Seat Pleasant Field. Manager Bob Myers requests all players to report promptly. The team is tied with the Seaman Gunners for the lead in the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League.

GRID SHIFTS PLANNED BY G. W.

Coach Experimenting in Drills for Nov. 20 Butler Game.

AFTER a layoff yesterday, members of the George Washington football squad resume practice today. The Colonials do not face another opponent until November 20, when Butler comes here, but the intervening time will be spent in polishing up details and in trying several players out in new positions.

Jay Payne, who has shown to marked advantage defensively at center, is to be switched over to tackle. Payne is a rangy lad with plenty of hustle. He also is fast and aggressive. Heretofore he has always played center, but with the qualities he possesses he is likely to make both Nielsen and Siaird, the regulars, hustle to hold their jobs.

Dike, Steward Nursing Leg Injuries.

Both Tom Dike and Kermit Stewart, the regular guards, are limping about with bad legs. The latter has a bad charley-horse, while Dike is troubled with water on the knee. Both are expected to be back in tip-top shape by the Butler game.

One of the most favorable incidents in the game against Salem was the improved blocking by the Colonials. This was particularly true in the open field, which enabled the George Washington ball carriers to get away with several long touchdown runs. The coaches are not entirely satisfied with this phase of play yet and intend to put in considerable time this week aiming at improvement.

Other contemplated changes in trying out some of the reserves in different positions will be worked out on the practice field.

Tanbark, U. S. Jumper, Wins Military Stake

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The United States Army made a bid for international jumping honors at the forty-sixth national horse show tonight as Maj. Harry D. Chamberlin, commander of the team, sent Tanbark over the difficult Madison Square Garden jumps to his second consecutive victory in the $1,000 international military stake.

While a crowd of more than 10,000 voiced its approval, Tanbark gave a perfect performance to tie with a stablemate and representatives of France and the Irish Free State and then win in an exciting jump-off. The French, winner of the international military trophy in 1925, showed their first threat for 1931 honors, when Capt. A. Nobili rode Cherubin into second place over Ugly, ridden by Lieut. C. W. A. Raguse, of the United States, and Turoc, which was piloted by Capt. Frederick A. Ahern, of the Irish Free State. The French also finished fifth and sixth after another jump-off, Capt. Nobili scoring fifth with Tonkin and Lieut. H. De Breuil sixth with Wilcome.

Convict Elevens Plan International Game

(United Press.)

Argentine, Chilean and Spanish convicts at Great Meadows prison at Comstock, N. Y., will play the Irish and Swiss prisoners at football some day soon with a ball supplied by Dr. Felipe Espil, Argentine Ambassador here.

J. Ruben Labbe, convict No. 10,942, writing in Spanish, appealed by letter to Ambassador Espil on behalf of himself and four other convicts of Argentine nationality, "here for one reason or another," to provide them with the necessary pigskin.

Labbe stated that last year on appeal of Chilean inmates, Senora de Davila, wife of former Chilean Ambassador Carlos G. Davila, furnished them with a football, which the Argentines were permitted to use. The leather rotted and another ball is now badly needed to use against the Irish and Swiss.

They wish to play "Argentine football."

Ambassador Espil sent the football yesterday.

Hawks May Forfeit Game; League Likely to Bar Fouts

Irvington Protests Banned G. W. Player; Board Meets Friday; Tony Plansky Signed by Apaches; Schedule Revised.

LEON FOUTS, George Washington University football player, who was dismissed from the varsity squad for playing with the Mohawk team last Sunday against Irvington, will be barred from play in the South Atlantic League. This was indicated last night at a spirited meeting of representatives of the four teams held in this city.

Fouts, who played under the name of "Jimmy Mitchell," played a prominent part in the Mohawks' 19-6 victory over Irvington, running back the opening kick-off of the third period to a touchdown which tied the score. Irvington protested Fouts as a player ineligible because of the rule that no league team can use players competing in collegiate ranks this season. Irvington also protested a player in the Mohawk line-up under the name of "Simmons."

Arbitration Board to Settle Issue.

These cases will be acted upon at a meeting of the board of managers and the board of arbitration, the latter body composed of four newspapermen, to be held Friday night. If the protest is sustained, the Mohawks will forfeit the game and a share of the gate receipts.

The team representatives guarded against a recurrence of such an incident by filing their eligibility lists. This procedure created a sensation when it was disclosed that the Apaches have signed Tony Plansky, nationally known track and football star while at Georgetown University.

A revision of the schedule was voted, with the principal change making the Apache-Mohawk game of November 22, originally intended to be a play-off of their recent tie, with no bearing on the standing of the clubs, a league game. The Celtic-Apache game for next Sunday stands. While the Hawks and Apaches are playing on November 22, the Celtics and Irvington will meet at Baltimore. On November 29 Irvington will meet the Celtics here, while on December 6 the Mohawks and Celtics will clash here with the Apaches and Irvington meeting in Baltimore.

The eligibility lists follow:

APACHES—Farrell, R. Boyd, McAlwee, Montague, Topper, P. Murphy, Tobin, Verdon, Jerry Carroll, Goonan, Moakley, Himmelberg, Holland, Caldwell, Howell, DuFour, Byrne, T. Fitzgerald, Eddie Dugan, Antos, M. Meyers, Tracy, O. Murphy, K. Meyers, Tony Plansky.

MOHAWKS—Mitchell (protested), Simmons (protested), Dalgliah, Snyder, Colliers, Wells, Allen, De Labre, O'Brien, Flaherty, Eddinger, Bush, Briggs, Ribnitski, Wondrack, Minnix, Colizano, Schwartzmann, Babcock, De Reo, Munro, Deitz, Helvestine, Ekaitis.

CELTICS—Davis, L. Hensley, R. Hensley, J. Sweeney, Dewey, McCann, Price, Turner, McMeniman, Christenson, Coblentz, J. Brown, R. Dwyer, O. Moore, Padgett, Bridges, Van Buskirk, N. Weinstock, Zulick, Farren, Burkehead, W. Brown, W. Moore.

IRVINGTON—E. Ryscavage, E. Loiz, Boucher, J. Ryscavage, M. Intrieri, Velten, Banky, C. Spring, Campbell, Sicilliano, Parkinson, Flint, Ryan, Ring, Tanton, Ritter, Crothers, Coyle, Russo, Sugarman, Yokel, Hutton, Allen, Pond, Boltrum.

Apaches and Celtics In Workouts Tonight

In preparation for their battle Sunday at Griffith Stadium, the Apaches and Celtics will drill tonight. The 1930 District champions will practice at Griffith Stadium at 7:30. At the same hour the Celtics will be put through their paces at Seventeenth and B streets northwest.

SAKS TO SCRIMMAGE.

Saks Clothiers will scrimmage against the Bolling Field Team tonight at 9:30 o'clock in the Central High School gymnasium. The Clothiers would also like to arrange a practice game for Friday night. Teams interested should call Dick Mothershead during the day at District 3050.

PETS WOULD PLAY.

The Petworth Mets, unlimited basket ball team, would like to scrimmage a team having a floor Wednesday night. Ray Stackhouse can be reached at Metropolitan 1872 between 4 and 6 p. m.

MRS. RUNYON DIES.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ellen Egan Runyon, wife of Damon Runyon, the sports writer, died today of a heart attack. She formerly worked on newspapers in Denver.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Midsemester examinations required the attention of Notre Dame's football men today and the start of preparation for the Navy game was held up until tomorrow.

Steve Banas, regular full back until a fractured finger put him out of action last month, will be ready for work against the Midshipmen, and Frankie La Borne will be returned to the half-back department.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Pleased with the improvement in the Illinois offense against Wisconsin last Saturday, Coach Bob Zuppke gave his squad a light drill today. He said more speed in the line and better blocking by the backs would be necessary to produce a victory over Chicago next Saturday and outlined a brisk program for the rest of the week. The Illini came out of the Badger battle in good shape and are expected to be primed for their traditional engagement with the Maroons.

Chicago, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The Chicago football squad today got down to business on preparing a forward-passing attack to be used against Illinois Saturday. The Maroons were disappointed at seeing a victory over Arkansas last week turn into a tie in the final minutes, but were consoled by the improvement in their offense.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Coach Dick Hanley excused the entire Northwestern squad from practice, giving them another day in which to rest up from their strenuous battle with Minnesota last week. Dick Fencl and Art Jens, ends, suffered injuries, and the latter probably will not be able to play against Indiana Saturday.

Minneapolis, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Fritz Crisler rested his Gophers today, conferring with them on the Northwestern game and throwing in a word for the future, which brings Minnesota against Michigan in the season's finale two weeks hence.

Still feeling the effects of the battering Wildcat engagement, the Gophers welcomed the holiday. The next foe is Cornell College, of Mount Vernon, Iowa, here Saturday.

Sailor McKenna Loses To Serio in Baltimore

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 9.—By piling up an early lead, Vince Serio, a promising local battler, gained the decision over Sailor McKenna, of Washington, in an 8-rounder here tonight.

Serio had the advantage of youth, but the veteran gob fought with the heart of a lion and was the stronger at the finish. He carried the fight to Serio in the final stanza and carried off the round by a wide margin.

It was a bruising scrap, both men bleeding profusely at the end. Serio weighed 135, four less than his opponent.

After 8 rounds of milling Al Martin was given the verdict over Frankie McKenna. Both are local featherweights.

MANDELL RETIRES AFTER POOR FIGHT

him. Gen. Clinnin said Mandell's efforts against Lenny were honest, but he simply was unable to carry on because of physical incapacity.

Thus the career of Mandell, who rose from a scrawny Italian kid in his home town of Rockford, Ill., to become one of the master boxers of all time, came to an end.

Mandell quits with a fortune estimated at from $100,000 to $125,000. He owns three homes in Rockford, a $38,000 residence in which he lives with his wife and child, another for his married sister and a third for his father. He always has been a homebody, devoted to his family and friends. He couldn't get back to Rockford fast enough after fulfilling engagements in the ring.

Mandell won the championship from Rocky Kansas in Chicago July 3, 1926, and defended it for four years against Phil McGraw, Jimmy McLarnin, Tony Canzoneri and others, until Al Singer knocked him out almost with a single punch in the first round of their battle fought in New York a year ago last July. After that Mandell's showing against second raters was streaked with sad defeats and sadder showings, until the climax came last week.

DR. FREELAND WINS BALTIMORE HANDICAP

when he went down with P. Miller. Then Creek drew away in a long lead. The winner paid $12.80.

A. Bartlestein's Hillsborough won the Gwyn Oak, sixth race, by a neck, and the victory made a double for Willie Nertney, who had won the fifth. Seagram Stable's Khorasan was second and the Braedalbane Stable's Royal Ruffin third. The time was 1:45 2-5, a mile and a sixteenth. The winner paid $7.60. Royal Ruffin was the early pacemaker, followed by Khorasan and Impish.

Vaccillate, made favorite in the mutuels, rewarded her backers by leading all the way in the final race, the victory being the H. D. Bonesteel filly's third in succession and, incidentally, the third successive winner booted over the finish line during the afternoon by Jockey Nertney.

Fortunate Youth, second choice, finished strong after being swung wide entering the home stretch. He was up in time to beat out C. V. Whitney's Smear by a neck, the latter having a two-length margin over Golden Prince.

SCHOOL FRAY DELAYED BY DEATH

Demise of Assistant Principal Sets Back Series Game.

THE high school series game in which Tech and Eastern were to have played this afternoon has been postponed until Thursday at 3:30 o'clock out of deference to the death of Henry Dale Davis, assistant principal of McKinley, and firm supporter of Tech High's athletic teams. Mr. Davis passed on Saturday at Sibley Hospital.

Mr. Davis was a constant follower of Tech High's teams, whether they were football, basket ball, track or baseball. At basket ball games, his favorite sport, he frequently led the cheering, and invariably accompanied the teams on their out-of-town tours. He came to Tech when the new school was completed, and before that had taught at Columbia University.

Tech Regulars to Face Eastern.

The preponderance of the score in the Tech-Eastern battle is the only element of suspense in Thursday's game. Coach Hardell, however, will take no chance with the willing, but very green, Eastern outfit and will start his best combination. Carleton Edwards, whose status as to whether he was the ranking No. 1, 2 or 3 quarter back this year has been in doubt, will start the game and, Coach Hardell intimated, has clinched the top position over Foley and Brinkman.

Eastern's fair defense will be strengthened in no small way by the return to the fold from the heavy ranks of Eastern's sick list of "Ox" Campbell, one of the biggest boys in the high schools. Campbell, if he reaches last year's form or the form he showed in early season before breaking an ankle, will do much to bolster the left side of Eastern's line. Capt. Charlie Mades, tackle, can well take care of the other side.

COLLEGES OVERLOOK FIGHTING RADISHES

the big teams for experimental purposes, might have been called the Guinea Pigs with poetic propriety. Yet it was felt that the satisfaction to be derived from such a neat thought would not be worth the volume and the violence of the letters beginning "Dear sir: Of all the dirty——"

Bull Dogs, Yes, But Not Dogs

Yale, Georgia, which is a sort of offshoot at Yale, and Drake University, of Des Moines, Iowa, are known as the Bull Dogs and acknowledge the name with pleasure, but in a country which takes a rather mushy pride in its love of all dogs, you would arouse nothing but fury at these schools if you were to speak of their boys merely as the dogs. Call them Bull Dogs and watch them beam with pride, but call them dogs and don't forget to duck.

There is an odd contradiction here. The dog is widely regarded as man's best friend and most faithful companion by the same race of people who also regard the term dog as a foul insult, connoting cowardice. The same man who will grow sentimental, describing his dog's fidelity, courage, sympathy and patience can think of nothing worse to say of an enemy than he dogged it.

There are at least three teams known as the Bears, California, Brown and Baylor, of Texas; there are the Lions of Columbia and Penn State; Wisconsin's team is called the Badgers, and Michigan, named for the Wolverine, will explain, with a mildly boastful meaning, that the wolverine is something like a badger but bigger and meaner.

Alligator Is Far From Charming.

The Florida boys call themselves proudly after the alligator, which is certainly no more charming than the pig, and the team from Southern Methodist is known as the Mustangs. But the University of Texas, which sent a team to Harvard a short time ago is known variously as the Longhorns and the Steers, the latter being the more convenient form for copyreaders, who can not work in rubber type and have to economize in letters.

The school prefers the term Longhorn, but if the founding fathers of the university had just known something about the practical problems of fitting a name into a newspaper head they might have chosen Lobo or Gila, both short and indigenous to their country.

The United States Military Academy has not exploited the symbolic Army mule beyond parading the same, usually a mule borrowed or rented from some nearby Army post or ash hauling contractor, in the ceremonies preceding its football games. Some congressman once described the mule as having neither pride of ancestry nor hope of posterity, and yet the mule is as much of the Army as Sherman and Pershing.

Aggies Should Go Vegetarian.

Various agricultural colleges call themselves by the rather effeminate name of Aggies when it would seem more appropriate to celebrate the squash, the pumpkin or the turnip, as Princeton does the orange. Or, considering their serious study of the diet and social habits of farm animals, they might select their names from among these subjects.

The Michigan Aggies—I seem determined on recognition for the pig—the Michigan Aggies might adopt with dignity and appropriateness the name of the Michigan Pigs.

MERCURY SEEKS GAMES.

The Mercury preps are seeking games with the leading teams in the 125-pound class. Manager Frank Riley, who is arranging the schedule may be reached at District 9151 after 6 p. m. Sunday the little "Mercs" defeated Maryland Park by a score of 26-0.

STOCK PRICES RALLY IN HEAVIER SELLING

Profit Taking Fails to Check Cheerful Market; Steel Shares Firmer.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—Bulls kept the ball rolling in the financial markets today. Gains were pared by profit-taking—wheat lost all of its rise under late realizing—but the speculative mood favored higher prices, and at their best levels commodities and securities stood well above Saturday's close.

At the top stocks showed gains of 1 to 6 points, generally speaking, although this range had been shortened by the close.

The share market displayed considerable evidence of professional maneuvers. Utilities, steel, foods, metals and rails had their turn, although until the carrier issues started their rally, soon after noon, the entire market was somewhat indecisive. Rails may have been aided by word that the executives were to meet here late this week, presumably for a discussion of employment and wage questions and also by a supposition that the rise in commodities would stimulate shipments.

Metals Also Advance.

Metals took their cue from silver and from the military situation in the orient. Foods moved in sympathy with raw materials.

It was an active session, and transactions were just over the three million shares mark, totaling 3,070,393 shares. The average rise was slightly more than a point.

Steel stocks began the week with a strong tone. Trade reports continue encouraging and there is a willingness to believe that the industry saw the worst in October and that November will witness an increase in operations, while currently are at the best rate since late in September. U. S. Steel rose 2½ and fell back a point from the top. Youngstown gained 2 and Republic and Bethlehem one each net.

Phones' Close Higher.

Principal metal stocks closed 1 to 2 points higher and foods generally showed to similar advantages. American Telephone retained about half of a 2¾ advance, while American Water Works halved a 4-point rise. Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward eased; so did Case, Radio and Western Union. In the rails, Union Pacific advanced nearly 6 and closed 2¾ higher. For New York Central, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio returned fractional advances. Southern and Canadian Pacific were up more than a point.

Aside from the rails many of the widest advances appeared in Latin-American obligations. Argentine and Colombian issues closed with net gains ranging from 1 to 7 points. The advance in other foreign loans was general but not so wise as in the latter bonds. German bonds declined irregularly. Japanese 5½s and 6½s lost 5 and 4 points, respectively, and other loans of that nation scored smaller losses.

Weakness in United States Treasury and Liberty loans contrasted with the general strength. Net losses in this group ranged upward to almost 1 point, although the turnover in several of them was moderate.

Public utility and industrial bonds contributed their quota to the numerous gains, but, as a rule, they were smaller than the advances in rail and foreign obligations. International Telephone 4½s of 1952 and 5s of 1955, Liggett & Myers 7s, Loews debenture 6s, National Steel 5s, North American 5s, Remington Arms 6s and Sinclair Oil 7s scored some of the larger advances.

BOND MARKET'S RISE AGAIN LED BY RAILS

Exchange Sales at Close Top Records Since Oct. 20; Wide Gains Listed.

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—The bond market advanced today for the eighth consecutive time, and activity was greater than for almost three weeks.

The closing average price of sixty issues consisting of equal numbers of railroad, public utility and industrial loans was 84.8, a net gain of eight-tenths of a point and the highest index since September 26. Net gains of 1 to 4 points were fairly numerous in corporate and foreign issues and a few issues scored greater advances.

Sales on the stock exchange totaled $14,815,000, the highest aggregate since October 20, when the turnover amounted to $15,010,000. Trading in the over-the-counter market was somewhat more active than recently.

Carriers Are Strong.

Carrier obligations were the strongest of the domestic issues following the general advance in rail stocks. A few of the more active issues to close with gains of 1 to 7 points were: Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s of 1960, Rock Island 4s of 1934, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s of 1955, Missouri Pacific series A 5½s, and several of the 5 per cent issues. New Haven refunding 4½s, New York, Susquehanna & Western refunding 5s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, Wabash 4½s and Union Pacific 4s of 1968.

St. Paul Adjustment 5s of 2000 were one of the most active issues of the whole list with total sales of about $500,000 and gained fractions.

The estimated rise of 619,000 bales in the cotton crop, bringing indicated production close to 17,000,000 bales, was slightly larger than had been expected, but the strength of silver and the favorable cloth statistics prompted substantial covering and prices rallied more than a dollar a bale soon after the crop figures appeared. Unfilled orders for cotton cloth at the end of October represented an increase of nearly 52 per cent over the September 30 total, meaning that buyers had abandoned a hand-to-mouth policy in favor of large forward commitments.

Motor Output Drops.

Motor car output last month fell off to 89,328 units, a 40 per cent drop from September and a larger than seasonal decline. It was a 46 per cent shrinkage from a year ago. On the basis of a ten months production of 2,283,000 cars the year's total may run close to 2,500,000.

Wheat sold about a cent and a half higher to a new high for the recovery, but closed unchanged at about ⅜ of a cent lower. Reports of Russian damage, frost in Argentina and a bullish acreage estimate were factors. Corn closed ⅜ low to ⅜ higher, but oats and rye finished strong. Cotton's rise was whittled down to 65 to 80 cents net.

Foreign exchanges tended to favor the dollar coincident with a net gain of $2,763,000 in our gold stocks, although quotations firmed in the later dealings. Sterling dropped more than 3 cents but recovered most of the loss. French francs were steady.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 9 (A.P.).—H. M. Cahill, chairman of the board, and president of the M-K-T Lines, said today, after a ten-hour trip through the Southwest, that Texas and Oklahoma are showing definite signs of real emergence from the depression, and that business leaders are far more optimistic than a few months ago, as encouraging prospects for improved wheat and corn prices are regarded as certain "harbingers of a business comeback." He added that there are considerable quantities of wheat, cotton and live stock on farms and ranges in Texas, and "once they commence moving, there will be a flood of money put into circulation, which will immediately be reflected in retail and wholesale buying."

Arrangements have been made for the sale of a New York Cotton Exchange membership at $20,000, an increase of $1,000 over the previous sale.

October sales of Safeway Stores, Inc., including Macharr Stores, amounted to $23,751,473, a decrease of 5.9 per cent from $25,241,504 for the like month of 1930. Sales for the first ten months this year aggregated $238,369,343, a decrease of 6.2 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

Construction contracts awarded in the Metropolitan area of New York during October totaled $89,518,000, F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. This compares with $80,053,300 in the like month last year. Nonresidential building contributed $48,791,600 to last month's total, which was largely accounted for by the new Radio City development contracts.

The American Smelting & Refining Co. today advanced the price of lead 10 points to 3.95 cents a pound.

ALLEYS ARE CALLED 'NATIONAL DISGRACE' AT DUPONT MEETING

Mrs. Hopkins Says Large Rats Are Trained to Kill Smaller.

ASKS CITIZENS TO SEE CONDITIONS FOR SELVES

Continue Campaign Against Smoke and Unnecessary Noise Suggested.

Describing the alleys of Washington as "appalling and a national disgrace," Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, widow of the former clerk of the Court of Claims, told the Dupont Circle Citizens Association at a meeting yesterday afternoon that "it is a disgrace to invite millions of people to the Capital to participate in the Bicentennial celebration while such conditions exist."

Mrs. Hopkins invited the other members to inspect these alleys for themselves, and suggested that members of the Bicentennial Commission and other citizens do the same. She said that she has buses available for any one wishing to make the inspections.

Logans Court Example.

Mrs. Hopkins singled out Logans court as "about the worst of the alleys," and asserted that large rats are being "trained in this hole" to kill smaller rats and mice. She described other conditions in this alley, which is on Pierce street between First street and North Capitol street, as "unspeakable." Mrs. Hopkins revealed that she has been waging a campaign on alleys for twenty years and threatened to pay her dues and stay away from meetings if her association did not "show action" and help to remedy the situation.

Demarest Lloyd, president of the association, recommended that the members visit the alleys and promised that some action would be taken to induce Congress to remedy the situation. Recognition was given the fact that Senator Capper and others have made efforts to obtain the necessary legislation.

Better Smoke Law Sought.

Mr. Lloyd recommended that the association continue its campaign for a stronger smoke law and regulations to eliminate unnecessary noises. He referred to motor trucks at night as a particular nuisance in this regard. A committee was appointed to confer with the District unemployment committee and the present officers were nominated for reelection at the December meeting.

Recommendation of the Fine Arts Commission that parking be prohibited in parks and that stricter street regulations be enforced was enthusiastically indorsed after Frank Baldwin read the letter of the commission in which these recommendations were made. The meeting was held at the Mayflower Hotel.

Man Jailed on Liquor Charge.

Malcolm McGehee, who said he lived in an apartment house on Fourteenth street northwest, near Euclid street, was arrested yesterday on the Baltimore boulevard in Brentwood, Md., with five 5-gallon cans of alleged alcohol. After being captured by Town Officer Mack Brown, he was sent to the jail in Hyattsville, where he said he could not make a bond.

Skyviews of Washington, No. 10

Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

STORK'S-EYE view of Columbia Hospital for Women, where a certain percentage of Washington's population first saw the light of day.

The hospital, known for its modern maternity wards and one of the best obstetrical staffs in the city, is the five-story structure with the Y-shaped wings, shown in the foreground.

Just above it is the Weather Bureau, where Bureau Chief Charles F. Marvin and his corps of expert forecasters and meteorologists each day manufacture that particular brand of weather the community does or does not want.

ILLNESS POSTPONES THIRD DEGREE TRIAL

Policeman Burroughs, One of 3 to Be Tried Together, Has Tonsilitis.

Illness of Policeman William T. Burroughs, one of the defendants in the police third degree cases, yesterday caused a week's postponement of the trials scheduled to start before Justice James M. Proctor yesterday.

Summoned from the operating room at Sibley Hospital to the court, Dr. L. S. Battles, Burroughs' physician, told Justice Proctor that Burroughs is suffering from acute tonsilitis and "in no condition to appear for two or three days."

Detective James A. Mostyn and Policeman William C. Grooms were to have been tried yesterday with Burroughs. All are of the First Precinct, and are charged with brutal treatment of James H. Harker, who asserts that the four policemen beat him with a rubber hose and with their fists at the station house on August 22 in an effort to extort a confession of burglary from him.

The trial was postponed until next Monday after United States Leo A. Rover told the court it was "manifestly impossible" to start the trial with Burroughs absent.

The courtroom was crowded with curious spectators as Mr. Rover, accompanied by John M. Keith, agent of the Department of Justice, who directed the Government's investigation of third degree charges which resulted in indictment of eighteen policemen, arrived to start the prosecution of the four men.

Brothers Held in Raid On House for Liquor

Two brothers were arrested yesterday on charges of illegal possession of liquor, after the headquarters vice squad had battered its way through a heavily barricaded wooden door at 3729 Canal road northwest.

The men gave their names as Joseph Harrison Reed, 28 years old, of 1228 Thirty-sixth street northwest, and Thomas Burton Reed, 30 years old, of 5531 Sherrier place northwest. The raiders, under Sergt. N. O. Holmes, found four quarts of liquor in the place, after breaking down the door, according to police. Both men were released under $500 bond.

Woman Hurt as Two Street Cars Collide

Collision between two Washington Railway & Electric Co. street cars at Wisconsin avenue and O street northwest last night, caused serious injury of one passenger. Alberta Cunningham, colored, 31 years old, 1103 D street northeast, was taken to Georgetown Hospital, where physicians said she appeared to be suffering partial paralysis.

Man Held in Killing Denied Liberty to Seek Treasure

Chief Justice Tells Attorneys to Present Plea to Criminal Court; Storied Cache of $15,300 Under House in Question.

Permission for guarded liberty to seek an alleged cache of $15,300 under his house at Capital Heights, Md., was denied Williams A. Owens, 71-year-old dredge boat captain, indicted for the slaying of Elsie Bryant.

The ruling was made by Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat yesterday. Attorneys Joseph DiLeo and John P. Mullen presented the request. In refusing it, Justice Wheat told them to make their plea before the Criminal Court.

Mullen and DiLeo tried to find the hidden currency Saturday, but, although they had detailed instructions from Owens, failed to locate it. They said there were several holes in the ground under the house which led to the conjecture that some one had already removed it.

The lawyers believe that finding of the hoard would bolster the defense case, for it is their claim that Owens suspected the Bryant girl and a friend of a conspiracy to rob him. He changed the hiding place of the money, leaving an empty box in its place. The two are then said to have taken the box to the Bryant girl's home.

It is claimed that Owens and his wife followed the pair and demanded return of the box. The defense maintains that the youth attacked Owens and the shots which took the girl's life were fired at him.

In arresting Owens police said that he fired upon the girl in a jealous rage because she refused to return his affection.

Carpenters Aver Under Payment

56 Cents Below Prevailing Hourly Wage Scale Charged at Barracks.

Contending that contractors erecting new barracks at the Naval Air Station had paid them at a rate of 56 cents below the prevailing hourly wage scale, 30 carpenters employed on the contract called at the Labor Department yesterday to present their complaint to Secretary Doak.

The matter was taken under consideration by Hugh L. Kerwin, director of conciliation, who said that he would confer with the contracting firm, Worcham Bros., and representatives of the carpenters in an effort to reach a settlement.

Forty carpenters are involved in the dispute. The barracks are being built at a cost of $340,000, and a central heating plant will cost $21,000. Secretary Doak is confined to his home with a slight illness.

Stanton Residents Pledge Relief Aid

Playground and Traffic Problems Discussed by Citizens.

President William W. Keeler, of the Stanton Park Citizens Association, will appoint a committee to cooperate with the District committee for unemployment relief, under a resolution adopted last night at a meeting in Peabody School.

Need of a playground in the Northeast section was discussed. The association pledged support to other civic bodies for the play site. A. J. Gregory is chairman of the playground committee.

Congestion on D street northeast, between Third and Seventeenth streets caused the body to request traffic authorities either to ban parking on one side or to allow only west-bound vehicles on the street.

Rheem Bankruptcy Hearing Deferred

Pitts Contempt Case Taken Up by Judge, Causes Postponement.

The involuntary bankruptcy hearing of Edmund D. Rheem, former head of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., was deferred yesterday when Justice F. Dickinson Letts, before whom the hearing has been in progress for two days, became involved with the G. Bryan Pitts criminal contempt case, and was forced to give it his attention all day.

Late last evening, Justice Letts after a conference with attorneys in the Rheem case, announced that further hearings would be postponed indefinitely. Until the Pitts case is out of the way, the Rheem matter will be held in abeyance.

The personal appearance that Rheem was expected to make on the witness stand attracted many persons to the courtroom. During the day, Rheem was confined in a small room behind the courtroom, where he paced up and down the floor. He is being detained at the District Jail pending the settlement of the case.

Scott Reelected Head Of Hillcrest Citizens

Clinton L. Scott was reelected president of the Hillcrest Citizens Association at a meeting last night. Other officers elected were H. H. Daniels, vice president; O. R. Davidson, second vice president; A. H. Sellman, secretary; Russell Hickernell, treasurer, and H. L. Crump and Mr. Scott, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

A prize offered by the association for the best-kept lawn was won by W. E. Thompson, of 2501 Thirty-third street southeast.

REFUSE COLLECTION EXTENSION IS URGED

Northeast Citizens Favor Service for Apartments and Business Places.

Maintaining that business places, hote's and apartments yield a greater tax revenue to the District than do private dwellings, the Northeast Citizens Association, which met last night in Ludlow School, went on record in a resolution favoring the amendment of ash and refuse collection laws to include such places. The present law providing for the collection of refuse excludes such enterprises.

The association adopted three further resolutions. In one, the director of traffic, William A. Van Duzer, was asked to install traffic signal lights on the streets intersecting Stanton Park, because of danger to pedestrians. In another, the practice of members of the schoolboy patrol who attempt to stop vehicular traffic against light signals was brought to the attention of the Police Department.

The fourth resolution commended the work of the Fire Rescue Squads and approved their continuance.

The following committee chairmen were announced by President Evan H. Tucker: John F. Callan, membership; M. F. Painter, police and fire; Roscoe Jenkins, public utilities; Dr. Harry E. Miner, health; Bruce Casteel, schools; Edward N. Parker, parks; John F. Jamieson, assessments; John F. Broadfoot, water, light and sewers; Joseph Notes, publicity; E. C. Worden, streets, and Evan H. Tucker, legislative.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SONG FOR THE "RISING MARKET."

Sing ho! for the raging market!
Sing ho! for the stocks that soar!
For my "Steel," old dear,
That I've held a year,
Has risen an eighth or more

Three cheers for the floor so bullish!
Three cheers with excessive glee!
For the "Telephone"
Which I outright own
Has risen a half, I see!

A toast to the rise so rampant!
A drink to the tidal flow.
For I'm cheered, old man,
By the fact that "Can"
Hasn't broken October's low!

Hooray for the great big upturn!
Hoorah for the market's grit!
For the "Gas" I got
In the weather hot
Is about what I paid for it!

A yell for the market's gusto!
A scream for its upward dash!
For the upward shove
Has put "Case" above
It's low for the last big crash!

Sing ho! for the snappy upturn!
Sing ho! for the jump today!
For my "Chrysler" car
Isn't quite so far
From the price that they made me pay!

Clap hands for the bullish orgy!
Clap hands for the rise so nice!
For the "Central" I Purchased last July
Nearly held to its August price.

Twang harps for the market boiling!
Thump drums for forward drive,
For the "Hupp"—oh men!—
That I bought at ten
Has soared till it's almost five!

A cheer for the tide that's turning!
And one for the skies so blue!
For the "Thermoid" fine
That I bought at nine
Has soared till it's almost two!

Sing ho! for the leaping prices!
Sing ho! for the flame and smoke!
For my chips so blue
Are now soaring to
The lows that the darned things broke!

Death of Man Year After Auto Mishap Holds Woman

A young woman was held by police last night in connection with the death yesterday of Charles Sherer, 69 years old, of 1109 Four and a Half street southwest, supposedly from injuries received almost a year ago in an automobile accident.

Mr. Sherer was found unconscious at his home yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Georgianna Sherer. He was pronounced dead by Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, deputy coroner, who ordered the body removed to the morgue pending an inquest.

The woman, Miss Margaret Francis Stevens, 21, of 1910 Lyman place northeast, was detained by police last night. The accident happened at 6:15 p. m., on December 6, 1930, on a rainy night, according to police records. A sedan, allegedly driven by Miss Stevens on Maryland avenue southwest, struck Sherer's horse and wagon at Four and a Half street, throwing the man to the street. At that time he was taken to Casualty Hospital with a possible skull fracture and injuries to his back.

LAFAYETTE SCHOOL IS DEDICATED; LONG CAMPAIGN IS ENDED

PICTURE AND FLAG FAIL TO ARRIVE FROM FRANCE

Unveiling Will Take Place at Later Date; New Building Permits Additions.

With school officials and Board of Education members participating, the new Lafayette School, at Broad Branch road and Northampton streets northwest, was dedicated last night in the presence of about 250 parents and others who realized the goal of a long campaign to have the new school erected in place of portables.

The exercises marked the first of seven dedication ceremonies to be conducted at new schools this week. The occasion also served to introduce the observance of American Education Week by the local school system. The dedicatory address was made by Dr. Abram Simon, president of the Board of Education.

Others who spoke included Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of District schools; A. L. Harris, municipal architect of the District, who designed the new school, and Henry W. Draper, supervising principal of the First Division. The Lafayette School is in this division, and was one of those that lacked furniture when opened last September.

Picture and Flag Late.

A feature of the ceremony was to have been the unveiling of a picture of Marquis de Lafayette and a flag of the French republic by M. Paul Claudel, the French Ambassador. Shortly oefore the ceremany was to begin, news was received from the French Embassy that the picture and flag had not arrived in Washington. For this reason Ambassador Claudel did not take part in the ceremony. The gifts came from France on the Ile de France, and the embassy last night was attempting to learn why they failed to reach this city on scheduled time. Anouncement was made that the unveiling will take place after the picture and flag arrive.

The Lafayette School lacks an auditorium and gymnasium, but is designed so that these improvements and other classrooms may be added Dr. Simon, in his address assumed that citizens of the community will be asking for an eight-room addition "before long" and stated that their successful work in the past should justify their receiving a "conscientious hearing" before the Board of Education.

Points to Cooperation.

Dr. Ballou referred to the school as one of those opened six months ahead of schedule because of expeditious action by Congress in furnishing the necessary appropriation. Successful cooperation between school officials and District officials also made the early building possible, he added. He pointed out that every effort was made by the Board of Education to have the new furniture installed on time. The superintendent said that he had "every reason to believe that Washington will receive a satisfactory school budget next year."

Mr. Harris presented the key of the new school to Miss Sarah B. Holland, the principal. She expressed the hope that the next key presented "will open wide the doors of an assembly hall," and described the new building as "almost like a palace after the portables."

Miss Mary E. Given, principal of the E. V. Brown School, of which the portables were once a part, expressed her gratitude for the new building. Harry A. Karr, president of the Lafayette Home and School Association, who led the campaign for the new school, presided. He introduced and thanked former District Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty for the part he took in helping acquire land for the new school. Entertainment was given by Miss Elsa Louise Raner, Miss Marie C. Hanson and the McKinley High School Orchestra.

Shapiro Is Denied New Fraud Trial

Probation Report May Decide Whether He Goes to Jail.

Jacob B. Shapiro, real estate operator, yesterday lost his fight before Justice Adkins to secure a new trial following his conviction several months ago of a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Shortly after rendering his decision, Justice Adkins referred the case to the probation officer. Upon the tenor of this report rests, to a certain degree, Shapiro's chances of escaping a jail sentence. Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly, who prosecuted Shapiro, did not oppose the motion to have the case sent to the probation officer.

The testimony at Shapiro's trial was that he sold houses here without fully revealing the extent of encumbrances upon them. However, none of those who purchased these homes lost any money, it was shown, for Shapiro paid up the trusts.

Newsboy, 13, Victim of Hit And Run Car

A hit-and-run driver, operating, police were told, without lights, last night struck down a 13-year-old boy and left him lying in the middle of a street. The youth, Douglas Finlayson, of 801 B street southeast, was taken to Casualty Hospital, where physicians said his condition is serious. He is believed to have suffered a broken back.

Young Finlayson is a newsboy. He was delivering papers along his route in the 100 block of Fifth street southeast when the accident occurred.

His friend, Harvey Bohannon, 11 years old, of 1105 East Capitol street, another newsboy, was on the other side of the street and saw the car strike Finlayson. The boy told police Finlayson stepped from the curb and a coupe, running north on Fifth street with all lights out, struck him.

The accident was also witnessed by William Chandler, of 1237 D street southeast. Neither of the witnesses could furnish a clear description of the driver, but both agreed that he was wearing a gray overcoat.

CHEST AUTHORIZED TO BORROW $175,000

District Employment Committee Moves to Become Member of Group.

The District of Columbia Employment Committee can become a Community Chest member, "upon application," the Chest board of trustees decided yesterday at a meeting in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building.

At the same time the trustees voted to authorize the president and treasurer of the Chest to "borrow up to and not exceeding $176,000, when and if needed." This action was taken after the director declared the organization faces a deficit. He said it will be necessary to borrow to meet relief demands that are constantly increasing.

The vote on admission of the District employment committee was taken at the behest of E. C. Graham, president of the organization. He asked that the committee be admitted "upon application," so as to give members a chance to vote on the question. It was explained that the work of the two will be so intertwined this winter as to make membership for at least one year a necessity.

Following the trustees' authorization permitting the two Chest officials to borrow, I. J. Roberts, assistant treasurer of the organization, announced that the Riggs Bank stands ready to make loans to the group up to the specified amount at a preferential rate of interest.

Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, vice president, presided in the absence of John Poole, president of the Chest. J. B. Wyckoff, chairman of the office management committee; Ernest Johnson, publicity chairman; Miss G. Gertrude Taft, speakers' bureau; H. L. Willett, acting director, and H. L. Bent, jr., "clean-up" chairman, reported.

Brookland School Called Inadequate

Citizens Adopt Resolution Asking for New 12-Room Building.

A new twelve-room school building for the Brookland section is to be sought by the Brookland Citizens Association in line with a resolution adopted by the organization at a meeting in the Brookland Masonic Temple last night. The resolution pointed out that the only school now in the section is 40 years old and inadequate.

Miss Margaret Pepper, principal of the school, and Miss Alva Lord, a teacher, made short addresses thanking the association for its aid in securing additional grounds for the school.

E. H. Cavern, of the American Red Cross, sounded an appeal to the association to support the Red Cross and secure as many new members as possible.

Counterfeit Warning On $5 Bills Is Issued

Police last night issued a warning for merchants to be on the lookout for counterfeit $5 bills after a lunchroom proprietor on Ninth street had been victimized by a colored man.

Lewis Herrutz, operator of a lunchroom at 1000 Ninth street northwest, reported that the man purchased a 40-cent meal and gave the spurious bill in payment. The waitress who made the change did not notice the bill closely until the man had left. Police said the bill was a clumsy effort at counterfeiting. It is printed on a rather poor quality of green paper and there are other obvious marks of spuriousness.

Group Arranging School Lunches.

A committee has been appointed by the Parent-Teacher Association of the Accokeek, Md. school to arrange for hot lunches for school children during the winter. The committee is composed of Mrs. John Clagett, Miss Maud Manning, Mrs. Luther Kremer and Miss Myrtle Thompson. Purchase of two dozen oyster plates to be presented to Christ church in gratitude for use of the church by the association was authorized.

CATHEDRAL HONORS FIREMEN'S HEROISM IN MEMORIAL STONE

90 Widows and Other Kin of Man Killed in Line of Duty See Rite.

MARKER IS DEDICATED BY BISHOP FREEMAN

Prelate Pays Tribut to Valor Comparable, He Says, to That of War.

That the officers and men of the District Fire Department who have given their lives in the service of this community displayed the same type of heroism as war heroes was asserted by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman in an address made at the placing of a memorial stone to firefighters in the south transcept of the Washington Cathedral yesterday afternoon.

Ninety widows and other relatives of the men honored were special guests and District Commissioners and heads of civic organizations were guests of honor at the service. Chief George S. Watson, chief engineer of the District Fire Department, placed the memorial stone into position as Bishop Freeman pronounced this sentence of dedication: "I do hallow and dedicate this memorial stone in tribute to those men of the Fire Department of the District of Columbia who have given their lives in the service of the Capital of the Nation." In presenting the stone, Chief Watson declared: "On behalf of the officers and men of the Fire Department of the District of Columbia I present this stone to the glory of God and in memory of those, our comrades, who have given their lives."

Mrs. Grace Weidzel, president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the fire department, put a beautiful wreath on the memorial stone after it was in position in behalf of her organization.

250 Firemen in Procession.

As many as 250 men from the District Fire Department headed by the Drum and Bugle Corps of the department were in the procession of fire fighters, which marched up the newly built steps of the south transet to the spot where the stone was to be placed, to the ringing strains of a patriotic number. This was the first procession to pass up the steps recently built through the generosity of a cathedral donor to the employment fund of that institution.

Bishop Freeman, in welcoming the firemen and their families and friends to the service, said that he felt it was a very important occasion, because it protrayed the civic relationship of the cathedral to the life of the community. He expressed pleasure also that this tribute had been paid to the fire herces, for all too frequently communities lack in gratitude to those who have served them.

"We can not," exclaimed the bishop, "on the eve of Armistice Day fail to measure lives in terms of service rather than of material things. These men we honor today set us a wholesome example in that in their service they aided in the security of this community and contributed of their all to its peace and happiness. As long as this cathedral stands that stone shall bear witness to their valor and their service to others in their day and generation."

Conducted by Clergy.

The service was conducted by Bishop Freeman, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of Washington Cathedral and Canon Gummere. The cathedral choir of boys, under the direction of Edgar Priest, sang appropriate hymns. The procession of clergy and choir which arrived after the firemen's group had been received, was headed by a crucifer bearing the beautiful golden cross recently given to Washington Cathedarl by the King of Abyssinia.

Among the fire chiefs from other cities present was Chief August Emrich with a delegation from Baltimore. The members of the District Fire Department in charge of the arrangements for the service were Battalion Chief Thomas O'Connor, Capt. Stephen T. Porter, Pvt. Anthony H. Schwenk, Capt. John Werheim and Inspector John Sullivan.

After the memorial stone was in place a bugler blew "Taps" in tribute to the departed comrades of the firefighters present.

Poker Player Complains $1,000 Bill Was Stolen

According to a report made to police yesterday by John E. McKinney, of 1416 Thirty-third street, a real estate agent of Merrifield, Fairfax County, Va., he gave Walton Hatton, of 3311 N street, a $1,000 bill to be changed in a poker game at Hatton's apartment Saturday night and Hatton refused to change it or return it to him.

Hatton was arrested yesterday by Detective A. M. Tolson, of the Seventh Precinct and charged with larceny after trust. The case will be aired in Police Court this morning.

Jobless, Penniless Man Tries Suicide by Poison

Because he had no money left and could not find a job, William Campbell Jones, 48 years old, of 1447 V street southeast, yesterday swallowed a combination of poisons, he told police.

The man was found on the floor of the kitchen at his home. Dr. Vincent Gould, of 2015 Nichols avenue southeast, was called and gave the man first aid. Jones was later removed to Providence Hospital where it was said last night his condition was undetermined.

Fortune-Telling Gypsies Stole $33, Doctor Says

Police have broadcast a lookout for two gypsy women wanted for larceny by trick of $33 from Dr. Rhett Stewart, of 1638 Connecticut avenue.

According to Dr. Stewart, the two women came into his office yesterday morning for medical attention and while there told his fortune with money he gave to the older woman. After they had gone he counted his money and found the $33 missing.

Kalorama Citizens' Autos Caught in Owners' Own Net

The Kalorama Citizens Association got excellent service on its complaint about the parking regulation which calls for wheels of automobile halted on hillsides to be turned into the curb yesterday. So much so that one of the members of the association found the complaint to be a boomerang. It also brought an assistant Secretary of State into a police station to post collateral.

Numerous accidents caused by slipping brakes on automobiles parked on inclines led the citizens to complain to the superintendent of police and the traffic director that there was laxness in enforcing the regulation.

Their complaint was printed in the Daily Police Bulletin and immediately upon receipt of the bulletin, Second Precinct police started a drive. Seven were booked during the day for violating the regulation.

"Gosh," mourned one man as he posted his collateral, "and I'm a member of the association that complained about this thing."

Also caught in the net was Harvey Bundy, an assistant Secretary of State, who had two cars parked without their wheels turned in, in front of his residence at 6 Kalorama Circle northwest.
